SWINDLE MYRTLE BLACKLIDGE

Barrett Backs Lyle for Mayoralty

FORMER RIVAL JOINS JUDGE TO BEAT CITY HALL

Ward Chiefs Swing with Their Leader.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Charles V. Barrett and his entire organization moved over into Judge Lyle's mayoralty camp yesterday.

Last Friday Barrett withdrew his own name from the race and announced that he and his backers would consider the situation thoroughly before announcing their future course. The result was the issuance of his own statement indorsing Judge Lyle. This was read to a meeting of his ward leaders, who gave it their unanimous approval.

There was loud cheering at the outcome of what was known to have been a tug of war. The Deneen forces backing Ald. Arthur F. Albert had sought the Barrett support. The city hall had tried to line up some of the Barrett committeemen. And so had those forces which want to run Corinne Bundesen as an independent candidate after the primaries.

Barrett's Statement.

"I promised at the time of my last statement that I and my friends would in due time determine our course in the coming primary for the nomination of a Republican candidate for mayor," said Barrett in his statement yesterday.

"Since that time we have had in our minds the sole thought of the elimination of Thompson and have come to the conclusion that our course is with Judge Lyle in this campaign to accomplish that result.

"He has had experience in the state legislature, in the common council of the city of Chicago, and on the bench where he has shown his fearlessness in the handling of cases against gangsters and racketeers who have infested the city for many years and whose operations have aroused the people at home and amazed the people abroad.

"Lyle Will Help Crime Fight."

"We are convinced that it is possible for government to control crime instead of crime controlling government and that Judge Lyle's nomination and election will help to bring this about and reestablish a good reputation for our city throughout the world.

"From time to time, therefore, our individual organizations will meet and indorse Judge Lyle's candidacy."

One organization immediately made good on the forecast contained in the last statement. Howard E. Reddy's Twenty-sixth ward organization met in the evening and indorsed Judge Lyle.

Others Expected to Follow.

Other wards expected to follow suit include some of the strongest Republican strongholds in the city. In addition to Barrett, who represents the Twenty-first ward on the county central committee, his organization includes the following regular ward committeemen: Paul W. Rothenberg, Twenty-fourth; Thomas Brockmeyer, Thirty-fourth; George Hitzman, Thirty-sixth; Eden T. Brekke, Thirty-seventh; John T. Dempsey, Thirty-eighth, and Frank Kalteux, Thirty-ninth. Barrett organizations have been built up in a number of other wards.

Barrett had planned to read his statement to his leaders, but just before the hour set for the meeting he received word that his eldest daughter, Miss Helen Barrett, who is attending Trinity college at Washington, D. C., must undergo an immediate operation for appendicitis.

Unable to Attend Meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett made ready to catch the first train for the capital, and were about to leave when a long distance telephone call notified them that Miss Barrett was being placed on a 7 o'clock train for Chicago so that she might have the operation here.

Between the two messages, Barrett had notified his followers that he could not be at the meeting, and his statement was read by Brekke, who has been acting as his campaign manager. The only comment after the meeting consisted of statements by the leaders of how strongly their wards will go for Judge Lyle.

Statement from Thompson.

Twenty-four hours earlier the Lyle forces had been strengthened by George F. Harding's indorsement of the judge and his open declaration of war on Thompson. There was a slight

THIS SEEMS TO BE WHAT HAPPENED

LAST RITES FOR ALEX ARE ALL HE COULD WISH

Few persons in this city of 3,500,000 will miss Alex Urdanowicz, the 73 year old pauper. Alex won't mind, for yesterday he left the Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind, 1900 Marshall boulevard, and he won't be coming back.

He had labored for almost a half century as a coal miner down in Clinton county until one day last October he complained to his mates that his safety lamp had flickered out and he couldn't see. But the lamp was burning steadily. It was his eyesight that had flickered out.

Alex had no money. He was alone in the world save for an invalid sister. He sent her all his savings. So there was nothing to do but bring him to the home for the blind here, where he learned rug weaving and broom making.

His strength of spirit and his hearty laugh endeared him to the other inmates, the sixty men and thirty women, penniless and forever blind. He would tell them stories, they recalled last night, of the various times he had been trapped in the mine and how "you got to keep smiling."

Last Friday Alex suffered a stroke. He died Tuesday. His companions determined he should have a regular funeral. They started a collection—some contributed a dime, some a quarter, the more fortunate a dollar. Still, they could raise only $31.

Harry A. Steinmeyer, managing director of the home, heard of it. He put in a substantial sum, and then visited Father Richard S. Kelly of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, who also contributed and donated a lot in Mount Carmel cemetery.

A requiem high mass was sung at the church. Before the casket left the home Alex's friends walked past it, each one pausing to press fingertips lightly to the features in farewell. Alex was smiling, they said last night.

Anesthetic Explodes in Patient's Lungs; She Dies

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Maude Branton, 43, Chino, Cal., died in a hospital operating room today when gases forced into her lungs exploded. An abnormal amount of static electricity in the air is believed by Dr. A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, to have ignited the combination of ether, oxygen, and nitrous oxide. The patient's lungs were ruptured.

This Husband May Die of His Wife's Operation

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Francis L. Duffy, 32, was perfectly well when he walked into the operating room at a hospital yesterday, insisting that he witness an operation performed upon his wife. When the operation was half over he fell in a faint and struck his head on a tiled floor, suffering a fracture which may prove fatal.

Alma Rubens, Movie Star, Dies Suddenly

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Alma Rubens, not so long ago a starred beauty of the films, died tonight of pneumonia. It was the aftermath of a three year battle against addiction to the use of narcotics. She had been gravely ill for days and in a coma for many hours.

Death came to the brunette beauty of the screen at the home of friends. At the bedside were her mother, a sister, Mrs. Alma Lerch, and a few friends.

Drs. Carl J. Pflueger and Carl Conn gave typhoid asthenic pneumonia as the cause of death.

Cortez Is Not Present.

Ricardo Cortez, film actor and husband of Miss Rubens, was not present when she died. They had separated months ago in New York after Miss Rubens had returned there after dismissal as a narcotics addict from the Patton Asylum for the Insane in California and it had been announced that a suit for divorce would be filed.

"I know nothing about Miss Rubens being ill of pneumonia," Cortez said earlier in the evening. "The family did not inform me. I have not seen Miss Rubens for months."

Funeral arrangements had not been completed tonight, but it was said the actress probably would be buried in Fresno near her mother's ranch home.

Arrested on Narcotics Charge.

Miss Rubens was arrested on a narcotics charge in San Diego by federal officers on Jan. 5, bound over to the federal court for trial and freed on bail. Officers found narcotics in her possession. She charged that she had been "framed."

The actress was born in San Francisco 31 years ago and educated in a convent there.

She became an actress by chance. She was in a theater when a chorus girl became ill, and took her place just because she was the most likely person available. The company went on tour and at Los Angeles she left it, obtained a small part in the films and rose to stardom.

Made Star by Fairbanks.

She was married secretly to Franklin Farnum, who gave her her first chance in the films, and she obtained a divorce in 1918.

Her first leading role was in "The Halt Breed," for which she was chosen by Douglas Fairbanks.

In 1923 Miss Rubens married Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, but this marriage, too, ended in divorce.

She made a tour of Europe with Richard Cortez, to whom she was married in 1926. Upon her return in 1928 the actress' troubles began. She became a narcotics addict, and although she took prolonged treatments apparently was unable to break the habit.

Among Miss Ruben's film successes were: "East Lynne," "Humoresque," "Fine Clothes," "Siberia," "Gilded Butterfly," "A Woman's Faith," "Unseeing Eyes," "Enemies of Women," and "Find the Woman."

CITY'S WEALTHY MUST AID FUND, CLARKE ASSERTS

If the minimum quota of $5,000,000, set as the very least amount necessary to carry Chicago's destitute through the winter is to be reached, wealthy individuals must contribute at least $650,000 more in individual gifts than the original $1,000,000 quota assigned, Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the fund raising committee of Governor Emmerson's commission on unemployment relief, announced last night. Yesterday's contributions totaled only $3,000, bringing the grand total to $3,903,000.

"The cold weather seems to have chilled the spirit of giving," Mr. Clarke said. "Yesterday, with the need for relief increasing on every hand, and the weather becoming colder, we made the worst showing of the entire campaign. Only forty-three of the well to do citizens have responded to the mercy appeal. The others must feel a sense of shame when they face the 125,000 ordinary citizens who have contributed. The wealthy are facing a challenge they must meet."

BURGLAR SLAIN BY POLICEMEN AS HE FLEES JOB

An unidentified man, about 50 years old, was shot and killed early this morning by Policemen Kasimir Simons and Raymond Kelliher of the Morgan Park police as he fled after the attempted burglary of the home of H. W. Ewing at 10616 Prospect avenue. Mr. Ewing, who is president of the Law Bulletin Publishing company, 179 West Washington boulevard, is reported to be in Florida with his family. No one was in the house.

The policemen responded to a call made by Bernhard Schroeder of 10628 Prospect avenue, a next door neighbor, who saw the burglar jimmy a rear window and climb in. The officers were seen by the man as they approached the house, and he leaped out of the window, fleeing down the alley without his loot. When he failed to halt at their command both fired on him, fatally wounding him in the head. He died instantly.

Sift Report Man Died After Being Hit by Dry Agents

Owingsville, Ky., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Richard Williams, 35, died today of a fractured skull. County Attorney D. W. Doggett said he was investigating a report that Williams had been struck on the head by one of a band of twenty-one federal prohibition agents who conducted raids in Bath county yesterday.

LOSES $50,000 BORROWED FROM ED R. LITSINGER

A story of confidence game with Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge of Chicago, federal collector of internal revenue for the district of northern Illinois, as the alleged dupe, was revealed early this morning by the police of Springfield, Ill.

Another victim, according to the police, was Edward R. Litsinger, member of the board of review of Cook county. His nephew, Fred Litsinger, vice president and secretary of the Edward R. Litsinger Motor company, 925 West Jackson boulevard, was with his uncle when the swindle was perpetrated.

The amount lost in the swindle, which took the form of crooked faro games, was $50,000 in cash belonging to Edward Litsinger, according to the information given to the Springfield police by Mrs. Blacklidge and the senior Litsinger. Mrs. Blacklidge was questioned at the Springfield police station by Chief T. P. Sullivan early this morning and then was permitted to return to her hotel room there.

She Gets Into Faro Game.

According to the information given to Chief Sullivan, Mrs. Blacklidge went to Springfield from Chicago last Saturday. She carried a check for a large sum, but the exact amount was not disclosed.

In the Abraham Lincoln hotel, the newest and largest hostelry at the capital, she met three men, whose names were given as Roy Burgess, George Parker, and a Mr. Reynolds. Mrs. Blacklidge had known Reynolds in Chicago, police said she told them, and he had invited her to Springfield to take part in a game of faro.

The game began in a suite of the hotel. At its conclusion, Mrs. Blacklidge told the police, she stood winner by $207,000 on paper. But Reynolds, Burgess, and Parker demurred at paying her the winnings.

Players Demand Cash.

"You entered the game with a check and have showed us no cash," Mrs. Blacklidge said they told her. "If you will produce $50,000 in cash we will do the same and then we will be in a position to play it out and settle the debt."

Mrs. Blacklidge returned to Chicago and went to Fred Litsinger, she told Chief Sullivan. Yesterday Fred Litsinger, Edward Litsinger, and Mrs. Blacklidge boarded a train for Springfield. The Litsingers carried $50,000 in $1,000 bills, according to Chief Sullivan.

When they reached Springfield they went to the St. Nicholas hotel, where Burgess, Reynolds, and Parker had transferred their activities. Mrs. Blacklidge and Fred Litsinger went into a room with the three faro players, she said, Edward Litsinger remaining in another room.

The $50,000 was taken by Burgess, who gave Mrs. Blacklidge playing tokens in exchange for it. The agreement was, she said, that Burgess, Reynolds, and Parker were also to enter $50,000 in tokens in the game. Afterward she discovered, Mrs. Blacklidge said, that actually they had only $10,000 in the game.

Loses Paper and Cash, Too.

The game began with Mrs. Blacklidge playing and Fred Litsinger sitting beside her, watching, she said. It was not learned how long the contest progressed, but Mrs. Blacklidge emerged the loser of the $50,000 in cash and also the $207,000 of paper profit which she had won on Saturday. This $207,000, the police said, was used by the swindlers as a lure to draw her back into the game.

While Mrs. Blacklidge was informing Edward Litsinger of the loss, Burgess, Reynolds, and Parker left the room in which the faro layout was set up and when the police arrived in response to a call from the tax reviewer, the three could not be found in the hotel or elsewhere.

Use Telegraph Ruse.

Burgess was said to have told Mrs. Blacklidge that he would telegraph to a friend in New York City to obtain money to pay the $207,000 debt and under cover of this excuse left the room. While he was gone Reynolds and Parker also vanished.

Early reports were that Edward Litsinger had informed the police that he lost the $50,000 while playing with Mrs. Blacklidge and two men, but

Women Laugh at 'Noble Dry Experiment'

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Resentment of the Wickersham report caused a crowded protest meeting and extraordinarily plain speaking last night in the crystal ballroom of the Drake hotel.

Three leaders of a quarter of a million American women who have organized for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment were the speakers.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin of New York City, founder and national chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, under the auspices of the Illinois division of which the meeting was held, said:

"The Wickersham commission and its report may now be set down as a waste of the taxpayers' money and of the distinguished lady's and gentlemen's time."

"The Mountain Has Labored."

Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll of New York, national secretary of the organization, said of the report:

"The mountain has labored and brought forth not one mouse but a litter.

"Only one member of the commission, Mr. Lemann of Louisiana [applause], has the courage of his convictions. [Renewed applause.] The others are content to sign one thing and mean another."

And Mrs. Carroll Miller, Democratic national committeewoman for Pennsylvania and member of the advisory council of the W. O. N. P. R., who received votes as Democratic nominee for the presidency of the United States in the Madison Square convention of 1924, said:

"In the opinion of some, the 18th amendment was supposed to end drunkenness by the will of God. Well, judging by the Wickersham report, there are a good many gods now on the job."

She Points to Chicago.

Of the effect of national prohibition on the reputation of Chicago in particular, Mrs. Miller, a speaker who minces no words, said:

"Sixty years ago Mrs. O'Leary's cow furnished the foot power for a catastrophe that destroyed all but the spirit and character of Chicago. But what has prohibition done to you?"

With that question Mrs. Miller looked intently into the faces of an assemblage which was made up not only of W. O. N. P. R. delegates from a score of states of the Union but of bearers of historic Chicago names—Sprague, Chalmers, Fairbank, Cudahy, Mitchell, Field, Wheeler, Harrison, Insull, Crane, Simpson, Palmer, Graham, and so on—like a list of patrons and patronesses for one of the city's old time charity balls.

Then she let these sentences fall heavily:

"It has destroyed your city's respect for law.

"It has destroyed your regard for authority.

"Yes, it has destroyed even your reverence for government itself.

Adds a Dash of Humor.

Mrs. Miller lightened invective with humor by telling the protest meeting the story of the obstreperous child that is growing up in the American midst.

"The prohibitionists," she began, "told us 11 years ago that as a result of the eighteenth amendment there would be a general moral uplift in this country."

The speaker paused and softly uttered—to the accompaniment of another of her searching glances—the word:

"Whoopee."

"But they didn't know," she con-

HOOVER RATED AS BONE DRYS' CHAMPION IN '32

Leaves Wet Rallying Cry to Democrats.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, leader of women foes of prohibition, predicts in Chicago address that women voters will smash dry law.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The political implications of the Wickersham commission report and of President Hoover's rejection of its suggestion for modification of the 18th amendment if a further trial of prohibition enforcement fails of success came to the fore with a bang today.

There was virtually unanimous agreement among the politicians, Republicans as well as Democrats, wets as well as drys, that the President has definitely nailed the white ribbon of prohibition to his masthead, that he will seek another term of office as a champion of the retention of the 18th amendment unmodified, and that he will swing every ounce of his influence to committing the Republican party to that stand.

Makes Democracy Wet Hope.

No less universal was the judgment that the President's dry declaration, in view of the presumption that Mr. Hoover will be renominated on a bone dry platform, will operate as another powerful influence upon the Democratic party to espouse the wet cause with a view to splitting the Republican party and carrying the great wet eastern states with their enormous block of electoral votes.

Numerous Democratic leaders privately echoed the openly stated prediction of Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] that the Democratic party will write a platform next year advocating a modification of the 18th amendment to permit states to decide whether liquor is to be prohibited within their borders. The general opinion among the Democrats was that their party would not go so far as to propose unqualified repeal of the prohibition amendment.

Prohibitionist or Politician?

There was much speculation on the motives of Mr. Hoover in rejecting the recommendation of the overwhelming majority of the Wickersham commission that the amendment be modified if further effort to enforce prohibition proves unsuccessful. Some expressed the opinion that the President is a prohibitionist at heart and always has been. Others thought that he had deliberately chosen what he believes to be the course of wise political expediency.

Those of the latter persuasion contended that Mr. Hoover is shaping his course to avoid a split in the Republican party, which would make his renomination valueless. The leaders of the dry organizations have stated openly that they and their following will walk out of the Republican convention and nominate a third ticket if the Republican party falters in its devotion to prohibition.

Talk Turkey to Hoover.

Furthermore, evidence is not wanting that the dry leaders served notice on the President's political advisers within the last two months that they will lead a bolt if Mr. Hoover should backslide to the least extent on prohibition. This was following receipt of the intelligence in the dry camp that the Republican national committee, immediately after the election, sent letters to state and district leaders throughout the country asking for reports on the reasons for Republican reverses, and had received hundreds of replies, the overwhelming majority of which stated that popular reaction against prohibition proved the undoing of Republican candidates.

By taking a bone dry stand Mr. Hoover has assured himself of the loyalty of the drys and expects the wet Republicans to remain loyal, however dry the Republican ticket and platform may be.

The dry Republicans have repeatedly demonstrated they will not hesitate to bolt a wet or otherwise unsatisfactory candidate. They put up dry Republican candidates in New York against Senator James W. Wadsworth and Charles H. Tuttle, and against Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick in Illinois.

The wet Republicans, however, never have formally bolted the nomination of dry candidates by putting up opposition wet Republican candidates.

They have voted numerously for wet Democratic candidates and undoubtedly will do so again if Mr. Hoover should be renominated with a wet Democrat as a rival, but they are counted upon to precipitate no formal party split, such as walking out of the convention and nominating a wet Republican ticket. The Hoover strategy, it is surmised, is to endeavor to hold the support of the wet Republicans on other considerations than the prohibition issue, as was done so successfully in 1928 on the "Hoover prosperity" rallying cry.

Spikes Pinchot's Guns.

It is also pointed out that Mr. Hoover, by taking a bone dry stand, has deprived Gov. Gifford Pinchot of the opening he is looking for to oppose the President for the Republican nomination. Mr. Pinchot is the only rival who so far has appeared on the Hoover horizon. He is bone dry.

Another Hoover act pleasing to the drys was the White House announcement today that a $16,000 position as associate director of the George Washington bi-centennial will be given Representative Louis C. Cramton [Rep., Mich.], a dry leader who was defeated for reelection by the reaction against prohibition.

There was considerable rumbling of dissatisfaction among wet Republicans at the dry stand adopted by Mr. Hoover. Some of them were not so sure that he would have a clear road to renomination, despite the traditional assumption that a President can always renominate himself. They confessed, however, there is no wet opponent of the President yet in sight. Senator Dwight Morrow [Rep., N. J.], who declared for repeal of the prohibition amendment, having asserted he favors renomination of Mr. Hoover.

Another Investigation Looms.

Taking Judge William S. Kenyon of the Wickersham commission at his word when he stated in his individual report that only a congressional investigation could reveal the whole story of prohibition corruption and racketeering, Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] introduced a resolution providing for such an inquiry.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against Prohibition, issued a long statement taking the President to task for rejecting the modification suggestion of the Wickersham commission. He said that in the light of "all the distress, and revolt, and crime, and disrespect for authority which accompany the continuance of the eighteenth amendment" the action of the President is most serious. He asserted that congress should at once submit to the people the question of retention or repeal of the amendment.

Democrats Are Vocal.

Chairman Jouett Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee assailed the expenditure of $500,000 on an inquiry to find out what everybody knows. He said that when the President rejected "the sole recommendation in which a majority of the commission agreed, he testified to his own insincerity and confirmed the theory that the Wickersham commission was nothing more than an effort to put off as long as possible a declaration of his own position."

RITCHIE READS REPORT AS PROOF OF DRY FAILURE

Calls It a Chaos of Conflicting Thoughts.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie said today that "the chaos of opinion" in the report of the Wickersham law enforcement commission "shows clearly that the prohibition problem belongs to the people of the states and communities of the country."

"When you try to comment on this report as a whole," said Gov. Ritchie, "you get in a maze and a whirl. The trouble is not that most of the commission have not opinions of their own. They have. The trouble is that they felt the necessity of signing something to which hardly any of them could agree.

"But while the commission subscribed to what may be called a dry report, when you turn to the opinions of the individual members you find that most of them are not dry at all.

Real Opinions Are Clear.

"In the opinions of nearly all you read, either directly or between the lines, the conviction that in the interest of temperance and moral conduct and law observance the eighteenth amendment cannot be allowed to continue much longer.

"And, after all, doesn't this chaos of opinion in a commission drawn from all parts of the country, as to what the right remedy is, doesn't this show clearly that there is only one remedy?

"The problem belongs to the people of the states and the communities of the country. The federal government took it away from them and tried to settle it for everybody. That has failed.

"You can't settle it by one rule for the whole country. So let the federal government turn the problem back again to the states and communities from which it never should have been taken, and let their people settle it for themselves. They can be trusted to do it."

Opinions of other governors regarding the Wickersham report, as gathered yesterday by the Associated Press, follow:

Gov. George White of Ohio: "Although the commission is made up of distinguished men, the report shows how they differ on the major question. It is still the sovereign right of a state to decide whether it will coöperate in enforcement."

Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska: "I approve the first five statements by the commission members and believe those are in accord with the sentiment of the country west and south of Pennsylvania. The remainder is so contradictory and confusing and indefinite that is does not carry any meaning."

Gov. Harry H. Woodring of Kansas: "I don't believe we know anything about prohibition that we did not know before. I suggest that President Hoover appoint another of his commissions to interpret what the Wickersham commission has said. But I am sure Kansas and Kansas people will interpret the report as a victory for the continuation of prohibition."

Gov. Ross S. Sterling of Texas: "The Wickersham prohibition report is Mr. Hoover's problem."

Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia: "The recommendation suggesting that congress be given power to regulate or prohibit liquor traffic in event the 18th amendment is revised would result in continual turmoil in public affairs."

Gov. Doyle E. Carlton of Florida: "Any request for closer coöperation from state officials is justified. There has been too much shifting responsibility to some one else."

Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana, United States senator elect: "As clear as mud. Under the provisions of this report a man could stay drunk all night and still be within its terms, or, if he preferred to, he could stand in a pulpit and preach for a week without stopping, using the Wickersham report as his text. Was any one serving on that commission who was 21 years of age?"

Gov. F. D. Sampson of Kentucky: "The President had a great purpose in asking for this report. He has a plan for using it. Shall we aid him in every way we can and thus help bring order out of chaos or shall we belittle the report because it is not completely satisfactory to some of us? We should work sincerely for a fair solution of this vexatious question."

Gov. C. Douglas Buck of Delaware: "Prohibition will never be a success until all of the states wholeheartedly help the federal government in enforcement and even in that event I am not sure of success."

Gov. Wilbur L. Cross of Connecticut: "I am for repeal of the national prohibition amendment. I do think, however, that what Anderson has to say in the report is worthy of careful consideration."

Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire: "My experience with national prohibition . . . leads me to agree with the Wickersham commission in its opinion that the coöperation of the states is essential in enforcement."

Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma: "I haven't read it. I have a job down here in which I deal with prohibitionists as well as antis and I don't want to raise a question that will divide my forces. There are more fools on both sides of the prohibition question than any other before the American public. The raising of the issue just now seems to be with a view of distracting the attention of people from economic evils."

N. Y. LEGISLATURE IS ASKED TO CALL ON CONGRESS FOR REPEAL

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—While Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt refused to comment on the report of the Wickersham committee, the leaders of his party immediately introduced concurrent resolutions in the state legislature calling for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

One resolution, sponsored by Senator Bernard Downing and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, Democratic floor leaders, would petition congress to summon a constitutional convention to amend the constitution to effect the repeal of the dry amendment.

The second resolution, which is specifically based on the findings of the Wickersham committee, would memorialize congress immediately to abrogate the Volstead act and institute proceedings looking to the repeal of the amendment.

The failure of enforcement and the breakdown of law observance as evidenced in the findings of the Wickersham report are made the basis for the attempt to overthrow the dry legislations.

MOVE TO SIFT HINT DRY REPORT WAS DOCTORED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Investigation by the senate of rumors that President Hoover influenced the Wickersham commission to make its recommendation of modification of the eighteenth amendment conditional upon further trial of prohibition was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.].

Early in the day George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission, denied that the President or any one else had influenced any change in the report, and tonight the commission issued the following formal statement:

"The attention of the chairman and members of the national commission on law observance and enforcement has been drawn to statements in certain newspapers that the President had persuaded this commission to abandon at the last moment recommendations for the revision of the eighteenth amendment.

"These statements are wholly without foundation. At no time has the President in any manner attempted to influence the recommendations of this commission.

Still Another Denial.

"Further suggestions embodied in telegrams received by members of this commission from various newspapers to the effect that a change was made in the report after it was signed, and that such change was made at the suggestion of the President, are absolutely false."

The Tydings resolution, which the Maryland senator said he would call up for action tomorrow, follows:

"Whereas, the confusion and the contradictions embodied in the report of the Wickersham commission on prohibition are puzzling members of the congress, who may be called on to enact legislation carrying out some of its recommendations, therefore be it

"Resolved, that the judiciary committee of the senate be instructed to invite Chairman Wickersham to appear before it and to make a further statement, explaining the method by which the apparently contradictory conclusions and recommendations were arrived at; and also whether suggestions were received and acted on by the commission in framing its final report from authorities who were not members of the commission."

Glass Supports Tydings.

A number of leading senators said that they would support the resolution, among them being Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], author of the legislation for the investigation of prohibition by the Wickersham commission, who said that he would propose an amendment providing that the commission be asked to submit a transcript of the testimony it took at its secret hearings.

Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], chairman of the judiciary committee, to which the resolution will be referred if not acted upon immediately by the senate, said that he would be guided by the decision of the committee. In any event, he said, he would make an effort to have the Wickersham commission testimony produced in order to throw light on the divergence of opinion of its members.

What Whisperers Are Saying.

There have been rumors for some time that the President influenced the commission to change its report. According to the story, the commission had decided by a majority vote to recommend flatly an immediate modification of the 18th amendment, but that Chairman Wickersham, at the instance of the President, persuaded the members to sign a report making the modification conditional upon further experiment with enforcement.

One of the adornments of the tale was that this maneuver precipitated a hectic session of the commission in which Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard law school hurled a chair the length of the session chamber, without casualties, however.

In five of the separate opinions filed by individual members was found what was thought by some to be textual evidence of an eleventh hour change in the report.

Grubb Opinon Cited.

United States Judge William I. Grubb said he concurred in all the conclusions "except that recommending that the amendment be revised immediately without awaiting further trial."

Likewise, Judge Paul J. McCormick said in his report that he agreed with all the recommendations "except that in which a revision of the 18th amendment is suggested immediately." Three other members made similar statements.

It is contended that these statements can be explained only on the theory that they were written before the commission changed its recommendation from one of immediate to one of conditional modification of the prohibition amendment.

False, Says Kenyon.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 21.—(AP)—United States Circuit Judge William S. Kenyon, a member of the Wickersham commission, today issued the following statement:

"I have never talked with the President concerning the report of the commission. I have never talked with any one who claimed to have talked with him about it, and any statement that he influenced the commission in any way as to its report is absolutely false."

W. C. T. U. PRAISES HOOVER'S STAND ON DRY REPORT

Sixty officials of the W. C. T. U., meeting yesterday at the Francis Willard home in Evanston, indorsed a telegram sent to President Hoover and signed by Mrs. Etta Root Edwards, national president. The message said in part:

"Your brief and strong message to congress [on the Wickersham report], disclaiming any intention to agree with those who weaken prohibition of the liquor traffic, marks you as the leader the nation needs in this critical moment."

Mrs. Margaret Munns, national treasurer, discussing ways to offset wet propaganda, said there were millions of leaflets and posters available at the Evanston headquarters which should be distributed. She declared there was need for "active organization against the foes of prohibition."

JURY WEIGHS DAISY'S FATE IN CLARA BOW CASE

Must Ballot on Each of 35 Counts.

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21.—(Special.)—The De Boe jury was looked up for the night at 10 p. m. (12 midnight Chicag time). The jurors had been out six and one-half hours.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The fate of Daisy De Boe, blonde 26 year old hairdresser and ex-secretary to Clara Bow, was placed in the hands of a middle aged jury of seven men and five women at 3:25 o'clock this afternoon. She is charged with embezzlement of $15,300 from the "It" girl of the films.

A difference of opinion among the jurors was apparent less than an hour after they had retired when a written request came out to Judge William C. Doran asking for a copy of the state's thirty-five counts of grand theft enumerated in the indictment. Nothing further was heard from the jurors for several hours.

While hundreds of persons were milling around a wooden stockade outside the courtroom hoping for a glimpse of one of the principals in the trial, Miss De Boe, sat awating the verdict with little outward nervousness.

Boy Friend Pats Hand.

She was comforted by her "boy friend," Alfred Mathes, who sat beside her patting her hand while the hours limped along. Neither Miss De Boe nor Rex Bell, her movie cowboy fiancé, was in court today. Miss De Boe accuses Bell of causing her discharge and arrest in order to support her as Clara's business agent. Clara's absence, it was explained, was due to her cold, which still keeps her in bed.

The jury was taken to supper at 6 o'clock, then returned and went into a night session.

In his instructions to the jurors Judge Doran pointed out that the penalty imposed in California for conviction of grand theft charges is an indefinite one of one to ten years, and that in a trial where many counts of the same offense are stipulated sentence can be imposed to run consecutively or concurrently. This could make Miss De Boe liable to a sentence of one to ten years on each count, a possible total of 350 years in prison.

Even Clara Wants Mercy.

No such sentence as the latter is expected, however. The California code would permit Miss De Boe to apply for probation after being sentenced, and Miss Bow made it known privately that she would not oppose her ex-secretary's plea for probation if she were found guilty.

Judge Doran told the jurors that each of the 35 counts must be balloted on separately.

Mathes, the never failing "boy friend," was in court with Daisy all through the closing scene of the trial today, and helped comfort her when she broke down in tears for the only time in the ten day proceedings. This was this morning, while Nathan Freedman, her counsel, was addressing the jury.

"Have mercy on her, a girl who was a human plaything of Clara Bow," Freedman pleaded, and the girl broke into sobs.

Freedman had previously told the jurors he would not contend that Clara Bow told untruths in her testimony.

She's a Lady, but—

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "Clara Bow is truthful. As far as I am concerned she also is a lady, but she certainly is not a business woman.

"I don't want to mention the word 'whoopee,' but it is written all through the evidence. Can't you hear Clara say 'Come on, Daisy, tear some blank checks out of my check book and let's go'? I contend that Clara Bow acquiesced in the spending of the money this poor little girl is accused of embezzling.

"Daisy De Boe has acted indiscreetly, I grant you, but Clara Bow acted indiscreetly, too. The entire case is based on the testimony of Clara Bow and technical suspicion. It's a case of Clara Bow against Daisy De Boe, two girls quarreling, with a boy friend in the middle. That's what brought you here. Whose side are you going to take? All you have is Clara Bow's testimony as to whether or not she authorized those checks. There is no corroboration of her statement, and there must be corroboration to prove guilt."

Deputy District Attorney Clark closed the addresses of counsel. He called Daisy a blackmailer, an ingrate, an extortioner and a perjurer.

Censors Bar Bow Film.

WOMEN RIDICULE WICKERSHAMING AND DRY LAWS

tinued, "that just before they solemnly buried John Barleycorn a son was born to him.

"And that child was named Noble Experiment.

"The boy is different from his father. John's ways at least were known, but little Noble knows no law.

About Little Noble Experiment.

"But from garments to guidance Noble has enjoyed every advantage. His layette included a wear-ever garment called the Volstead act. Later, the child being found in a doubtful condition, they added a moisture proof garment called the Jones act.

"After two years Noble was still found to be sopping wet and they gave him another piece of raiment called the Stobbs act.

"Of educational advantages Noble lacked none. He had a secretary of the treasury for tutor. Mitchell and Woodcock were his guardians, and Mabel Walker Willebrandt became his wet nurse.

"And now, and despite all, if little Noble doesn't end in an inebriate asylum I miss my guess."

Epigrams Fly at Meeting.

The speakers of the evening sparkled with epigrams as brightly as they did with the bejeweled costumes in which they had dressed for the gala dinner that brought to a close their long day of executive sessions.

Here is one of Mrs. Sabin's sparklers:

"Prohibition has divided the United States, like Gaul, into three parts—wets, drys, and hypocrites."

She deprecated description of the W. O. N. P. R. as a wet organization.

"We are," she said, "as far from being wet as the average dry legislator is from being dry. [Prolonged applause.] And the very existence of our organization is sober proof of the failure of national prohibition.

"As an organized body we are but two years old, and yet we already have in some of the states a far larger membership than the Woman's Christian Temperance union has after more than half a century of existence. Women are joining our ranks spontaneously. They have come to us far more than we have gone to them.

"We have had no support from any organized group.

"We are nonsectarian and nonpartisan.

"We are not the ladies' auxiliary of any church or of any political party. [Applause.]

"Written for Inebriates."

Mrs. Sabin said that the eighteenth amendment was written for "a nation of inebriates," adding—and with the addition two ominous pink spots came into her cheeks—"and that kind of a nation the American people never have been."

Mrs. Miller confided to the assemblage that she farms a piece of land near Pittsburgh and that as a result she knows the actual conditions in the rural areas often extolled as loyally and cleanly dry. But there was one thing she would not confide. "I will not tell you," she said, "I will not tell you, because I want to remain what is called 'a good neighbor,' how many of my neighbors I have gotten out of jail since prohibition began."

For all sufficing proof that prohibition is a failure, Mrs. Miller asked her hearers to read—"shuffling through its recommendations be"—the factual parts of the Wickersham report.

She tapped home that counsel in a kind of refrain of which one sentence is typical. "Prohibitionists," she said, "promised us that youth would not know the taste of liquor. Read the Wickersham report."

The name of the absent Senator-Elect James Hamilton Lewis was cheered when Mrs. Miller mentioned it, and Mrs. Lewis responded with bows for her husband.

WOMAN, 92, RECALLS HOW LIQUOR HELPED CIVIL WAR DOCTORS

Mrs. Helen Rainard Cole of Sheboygan, Wis., is 92 years old, but she was one of the liveliest women among members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform who met yesterday at tea in the Casino club preceding a massmeeting in the Drake hotel.

Drawing upon her experience as a nurse in the civil war, Mrs. Cole said: "Mercy, where would we have been in the civil war if it hadn't been for brandy and whisky? We didn't have any chloroform or any ether.

"After the battle of the Wilderness I saw the chief of staff and other surgeons in a Washington hospital stand for 36 hours over the amputating table without relief. They had nothing all that time but crackers and brandy."

Mrs. Cole said that the prohibition law was such a "disreputable law" that she couldn't think of supporting it.

MOTHER OF TWO HOLDS UP GIRL CASHIER; CAUGHT

A well dressed woman yesterday entered a butcher shop at 4255 West Adams street, walked up to the cashier's cage and thrust a note and small handbag through the window. Miss Georgiana Smith, the cashier, read:

"Drop all the money you have in this bag, and drop it quick. I have a gun up my sleeve and will kill you if you don't."

Miss Smith put $100 in the bag and shoved it back to the woman, but as she walked out of the shop, Miss Smith began screaming, and the woman was captured a block away by Traffic Policeman Joseph Lescher. At the Fillmore street station she said she was Mrs. Elizabeth Nesselrotte, 4448 West Adams street, mother of two children.

"My husband, John, a machinist, works only part of the time," she said. "My babies are sick and need medicine."

Miss Janet Young, who lives with the Nesselrottes.

Joseph ["Yellow Kid"] Weil, con man de luxe, and his white haired partner in crime, Fred Buckminster, were in jail again last night due to the faculty of Capt. Patrick J. Harding of the Rogers Park police of remembering faces.

Capt. Harding was riding in a police car with Sergts. John Smith and Peter Kennelly when, just east of Clark street on Howard street, the captain caught a flash glimpse of the faces of two men riding in the opposite direction in a snappy Lincoln coupe. Quickly turning the police car around, Capt. Harding met the two as they were about to alight near the Norshore theater.

"Why, if it isn't the Yellow Kid!" exclaimed the captain heartily.

"Mr. Weil, if you please," replied the Yellow Kid, always a stickler for formalities.

Both men were taken to the detective bureau, where they were forced to parade before more than 300 persons at a show up and then were turned over to Detective Sergeants Segurt Strote and Robert McCay of Rockford, who had rushed to Chicago with warrants immediately upon receiving word of the arrests. Weil and Buckminster are to be tried in Rockford on charges of swindling Jerome Maule, a Racine contractor, out of $6,500 last summer.

Weil gave his address as 2008 Humboldt boulevard and Buckminster said he lived at 6309 South Shore drive, but Capt. Harding remarked that the latter is the address of the Jackson park beach. The license plates on the coupe were issued to Anna J. Wile, 7424 Stony Island avenue.

Both men are ex-convicts, Weil's record dating back to 1906, when he was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses for the first time, while according to the records, Buckminster's first offense was in 1915 when he was sentenced to three years in Joliet penitentiary for conspiracy to defraud and arson.

On his return last March from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he had spent nearly five years for his part in disposing of loot in the Rondout mail robbery, Weil declared that he was "through with rackets." However, he returned to his old tricks.

FREEZING WAVE ON WAY TO FLORIDA IN WAKE OF HIGH GALE

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Sailors battled gale swept seas off the southern tip of Florida tonight and farmers and grovesmen prepared for another cold wave from the northwest.

Eight persons were rescued from disabled small craft, at least two boats were temporarily forced aground, and the freighter Clare of the Baltimore and Carolina line remained aground in Miami harbor.

Citrus and trucking sections were warned a high pressure area following upon the south Florida storm disturbance would bring temperatures that may reach freezing as far south as the mucklands of the everglades.

SUPREME COURT AGAIN WEIGHS DRY LAW STATUS

Clark Decision, Appealed, Now Under Advisement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The constitutionality of the eighteenth amendment is once again squarely before the United States Supreme court for decision.

After four hours of argument by counsel for the government and opposing counsel supporting the recent decision of Federal Judge William Clark of New Jersey, that the amendment was invalid because ratified by state legislatures rather than by conventions of the people, the high trinal today took under advisement the government's appeal for a reversal.

With the exception of Chief Justice Hughes, who announced himself disqualified because of his legal participation in the so-called national prohibition cases decided ten years ago, the full membership of the court listened intently while Solicitor General Thomas D. Thatcher produced historical arguments to prove that Judge Clark erred and opposing counsel argued that the eighteenth amendment was void because illegally ratified.

Only One Question Asked.

Only one question, a brief technical query from Justice Sutherland, interrupted the attack on the Clark decision made by Solicitor Gefieral Thatcher. Likewise but one query was propounded by the court while Julius Henry Cohen and Selden Bacon of New York, speaking for an array of distinguished counsel, upheld the arguments advanced by Judge Clark in attacking the validity of the dry amendment.

The Clark decision, submitted directly to the Supreme court by the government, was based on the contention that the prohibition amendment to be valid should have been ratified by conventions of the states and not, as it was, by legislatures in most cases already convened.

This view was backed by historical argument produced to prove that it had never been the intention of the framers of the constitution to provide for any transfer of rights from the people to the federal government except through some genuine expression of opinion on the part of the people.

Such a genuine opinion, it was argued, could not be obtained from legislatures already in existence when the amendment was put up to the country. It was asserted that such an expression only could be obtained by state conventions or bodies elected after the issue brought up by the amendment had been raised.

Convention Required?

Counsel backing the Clark decision argued today that the tenth amendment of the constitution required congress to use the convention method instead of ratification by the legislatures when the eighteenth amendment was placed before the states.

"The contention that the eighteenth amendment is invalid because not ratified by the people through conventions called for that purpose in the states was rejected by this court," Mr. Thatcher said, alluding to the Supreme court's opinion in the national prohibition cases.

"The court said," he continued, "that amendment, by lawful proposal and ratification, has become a part of the constitution and must be respected and given effect the same as other provisions of that instrument.'"

This, they declared, was true because the eighteenth amendment contemplated a direct surrender of a police power of the states to the federal government.

Provides Optional Method.

Judge Clark and the lawyers supporting his contention held that the optional method of amending the constitution set forth in article 5 was no longer applicable when a proposal to surrender state rights, such as the prohibition clause, was brought up. They asserted only the convention method could have been legally utilized in this case.

Solicitor General Thatcher held that Judge Clark's decision was untenable and that the language of article 5 was unequivocal. He declared that the very language of the article made it clear that amendments could be added to the constitution either by the approval of state legislatures or by approval of state conventions called for the purpose.

Discussing what he said was the constitutional grant of power to congress "to determine which of the alternative modes of ratification," Mr. Thatcher stated:

"We respectfully submit that in the face of the unequivocal language by which that grant is conferred the grounds upon which the court below based its decision are plainly untenable."

Judge Clark, according to Mr. Thatcher, "evolved a thesis of his own," but, he continued, the judge erred in concluding "there was an abuse of administrative judgment in substituting one method of ratification over the other."

"Not Directly Considered."

Mr. Cohen assured the court that the question of constitutional law involved in the case "goes far beyond the 18th amendment, which is an incident."

"We deny," he stated, "that the question has been directly considered by this court and flatly take issue with the government that we have misconstrued the purposes of government. The Supreme court has declined many times to be bound by the literal meaning of the words of the constitution."

Mr. Cohen contended that the eighteenth amendment is the first instance in which an attempt has been made "to confer upon the government new and additional direct powers of government and control over the people themselves or their rights."

Other points he made were that the constitution must be construed by finding the meaning of the framers and in the light of the whole instrument. He argued that ultimate supremacy rests in the people and also that conventions, and not legislatures must be used in amending the constitution.

Using historical records, he insisted that the constitutional convention never intended to make the plan of ratification "so to be read as to make the legislatures competent to grant to the United States new and direct powers of government over the people or their rights, or to enable congress to choose the legislatures as agents for that purpose."

Rights of States Foreguarded.

Frederic M. P. Pearse, of attorneys for William H. Sprague, the defendant acquitted by Judge Clark's decision, asserted in a statement issued before the court opened that the Clark decision presented questions of constitutional law of the most vital import to the future of popular constitutional government in this country.

"One of the fundamental purposes of the convention which drafted the constitution," Mr. Pearse said, "was the protection of the rights and individual liberties of the people. They recognized a sharp distinction between the rights of the states as such, which the states could delegate to the United States, and those which were reserved to the people and which only the people could grant. This distinction was the cornerstone of liberty to them. They were most insistent that legislatures represented only the states and could not grant away rights belonging to the people, and that the people could act only through conventions.

"Furthermore, they were exceedingly distrustful of legislative action in this field. There was considerable debate whether the original constitution should go to legislatures or conventions for ratification and it was the opinion of the framers that it should and must go to conventions because the legislatures, representing only the states, could not ratify a constitution which delegated direct powers of government over the people—of the same kind as those delegates by the eighteenth amendment.

"Remarkable Inconsistency."

"It would be a most remarkable inconsistency if the framers had nevertheless declared that legislatures by amendment in the future might do what they certainly could not do with the original instrument. The protection of individual rights and liberties for which the framers strove would be lost if such amending power existed, because it must be remembered that if legislatures can ratify the eighteenth amendment, they can ratify any amendment—and can grant away the entire bill of rights itself.

"In our opinion the history of Article V, containing the amending power shows conclusively that it was neither the purpose nor the understanding that it had any such result. When the convention had substantially completed the framing of the entire constitution the article which is now Article V. provided for ratification of amendments solely by a convention. The provision permitting ratification of amendments by legislatures was inserted in the course of a revision which had a wholly different purpose. If it is read to permit amendments to be ratified by legislatures when they deal with questions of rights of the states as such, and to require ratification by the people in conventions when direct powers over the people are granted it is wholly consistent with its own history and with the purposes of the framers."

INDIANA LEGISLATURE WILL BE ASKED TO URGE CHANGE IN DRY LAW

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Senator Chester Perkins, South Bend, Democrat, served notice tonight that he plans to reintroduce in the present state legislature his resolution of two years ago calling for modification of the eighteenth amendment.

The resolution, which would memorialize congress to submit to special state conventions a constitutional amendment giving the congress the sole power over the liquor traffic, was voted down by the state senate in 1929 on an adverse report from the committee on public morals.

Perkins would have the eighteenth amendment read as follows: "Congress shall have power to regulate and prohibit the manufacture, sale, and transportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes within the United States, and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof."

In a statement issued in connection with the Wickersham report Perkins said it sounded "the death knell of absolute prohibition."

SERGEANT NAMED IN VICE GRAFT HEARD BY JURY

Herdegen Returns to Job After Testimony.

Activities of the special grand jury in its investigation of charges of police graft centered yesterday on vice conditions in the Warren avenue police district. The inquiry concerned Sergt. Jack Herdegen, whose former sweetheart said he was the graft collector there, and Mrs. Shirley Kub, formerly investigator for Acting Police Commissioner Alcock. The investigation included phases of the career of Jack Zuta who, until he was slain, controlled many vice resorts.

Sergt. Herdegen was released from police custody after testifying before the jury yesterday and after a writ of habeas corpus had been obtained in his behalf. Mrs. Kub, who failed to appear before the jury on Tuesday and for whose arrest a capias was issued by Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court, was not found, and the jury had to be content with disclosures regarding former days instead of present conditions.

Sergeant Returns to Job.

It was understood that Sergt. Herdegen denied the accusations of Miss Bernice Shaw, with whom he lived for several years. But whether his statements were satisfactory to the jurors was not stated. He was permitted by the prosecutors to report for work at the North Damen avenue station without any charges being placed against him. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller said no indictments were voted, but he added that the investigation is only in its infancy.

There was considerable speculation regarding the disappearance of Mrs. Kub, who was said by Miss Shaw to have threatened vengeance if Miss Shaw told the authorities about Sergt. Herdegen. Assistant State's Attorney Mueller said Acting Commissioner Alcock was to be called to tell of reports made to him by Mrs. Kub, but the day passed without Alcock appearing.

Mr. Mueller said he understood that Mrs. Kub's interest in vice conditions in the Warren avenue district dated back to her association with Julius Rosenheim, an underworld investigator who was shot to death in front of his home last February. The prosecutor said he thought it probable that the woman could make important revelations regarding the Rosenheim murder, and also on the murder of Zuta.

"We are trying to determine from what Mrs. Kub told us so far just who would be most inerested in getting her out of own," Mr. Mueller said. "It may be that she left of her o a free will, but we doubt it, and we believe she was induced by threats or promises to hide away from this grand jury. However, this investigation will go on indefinitely and we'll hear of her before long."

Seeks Evidence for Prosecution.

Whether Mrs. Kub is to be charged with some offense on which she could be extradited from another state, Mr. Mueller would not say. It was known, however, that the prosecutor was seeking information on which Mrs. Kub could be prosecuted. Acting Commissioner Alcock is to produce every report made to him by Mrs. Kub if the reports are still in existence.

BROTHERS 'MUTE' WHEN ARRAIGNED IN LINGLE KILLING

Judge Orders Not Guilty Plea; Assigns Trial.

Leo V. Brothers yesterday had his first opportunity in open court to admit his guilt or proclaim his innocence of the charge that he murdered Alfred Lingle.

He did neither.

Arraigned before Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court, Brothers did not protest his innocence. Instead, in a voice hardly audible:

"On the advice of my attorneys I stand mute."

Judge McGoorty followed the law which states that if a defendant refuses to enter a plea to a charge, or "stands mute," the court shall enter a plea of not guilty, and he directed the clerk of the court to record that plea on Brothers' behalf.

Assign Case to Judge Prystalski.

The chief justice then announced that Brothers will be tried before Judge John Prystalski.

Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, who with Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson is in charge of the Lingle inquiry, announced that he would appear this morning before Judge Prystalski, to make a motion for an immediate trial.

Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks will be associated with Mr. Rathbun and James E. McShane in the prosecution of Brothers, it was made known yesterday by State's Attorney Swanson.

The defense attorneys were not in court when Brothers was arraigned, but it was reported that they will seek a delay during which to prepare for trial.

Speculate on Brothers' Attitude.

No explanation was offered by the defense for Brothers' action in failing to enter a plea. Various reasons were offered by spectators at the hearing, and one report was that Brothers intended to serve notice on the gangsters who hired him to kill Lingle that they must come to his defense with funds and other assistance or he will plead guilty, name his confederates, and throw himself on the mercy of the court.

Brothers was arraigned at 10:30 yesterday morning. He stepped from the lockup room of the chief justice's court into the courtroom itself, and was hustled by a bailiff to a chair in front of the bench.

A half dozen officers of the court stood near Brothers to guard against a break for freedom, and against any attempt by his gangster pals to kidnap him from the court.

The courtroom was crowded with spectators. The regular grand jury and the special grand jury investigating police graft were present at their own request. Several witnesses to the killing of Lingle were in the courtroom, at the request of the prosecution, and viewed Brothers as he came forward. The state refused to comment on the result of the identifications made by the witnesses, except to brand as false a published report that one of the witnesses had stated Brothers was not the man he saw kill Lingle.

Ten other prisoners, also accused on murder charges, were arraigned with Brothers. The latter, tall and sleek, his suit freshly pressed, shouldered his way uncomfortably among the other prisoners, who were dirty and unkempt. One by one the prisoners were put through the rigmarole of pleading, and finally the clerk came to the name of Leo Brothers.

"Leo Brothers," the clerk intoned, "the grand jury has indicted you on a charge of murder. How do you plead, guilty or not guilty?"

Brothers leaned toward the clerk and mumbled something in a low voice.

"Speak up," said the clerk, "are you guilty or not guilty?"

The prisoner then said, in a voice which was audible to the court, but could not be heard by any of the spectators in the crowded courtroom:

"On the advice of my attorneys, I stand mute."

Brothers then was hustled through a cordon of bailiffs back to the lockup room, and thence to his cell in the county jail.

RALPH CAPONE VAGRANCY CASE SET FOR APRIL

Attorney Says Al May Give Self Up.

Judge Francis Borrelli of the South State street court yesterday continued the vagrancy case of Ralph Capone, brother of Alphonse, until April 14. Assistant State's Attorney Russell Root objected to the continuance.

Capone came into court with his attorney, Miles J. Devine, demanding an immediate trial. Prosecutor Root asked for a short continuance. He said he had conferred with Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne, who was busy with another court case, and had been informed that Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown, associate in prosecuting the vagrancy cases, was ill.

Asks Delay Until April.

"So far we've been good natured," said Attorney Devine. "We've been going along with the state. This defendant has just come from Hot Springs, where he has been undergoing treatment for indigestion. The case has been before four judges. If it is to be continued at all, put it over until next April."

Judge Borrelli studied his court call and announced that all the pending vagrancy cases had been continued at the request of the state. "This case is not different from the others," he said, and set the date at April 14.

Says Al May Surrender.

Attorney Devine then announced that Al Capone would surrender on the vagrancy charge were it not for Judge John H. Lyle, who, he declared, would not give the gangster a fair trial. When told that Judge Lyle was no longer in the Felony court, the attorney said that Al may surrender.

The contempt of court case against Al was set for trial on Feb. 2 by Federal Judge Carpenter yesterday. This case is to be heard by Judge Wilkerson, who was ill yesterday. Attorney William F. Waugh assured the court that Al would be present. The No. 1 public enemy is charged with feigning illness to evade going before a federal grand jury.

Paris Boulevards to Lose Open Air Comfort Stations

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 21.—The curious open air comfort stations strewn along Paris' busiest streets and boulevards which have been regarded by the more discreet Anglo-Saxon as an indispensable part of the local color of the French capital, are doomed. Prefect Renard today asked for an appropriation of $2,000,000 to replace them with modern underground comfort stations and the work of replacement will begin shortly.

Policeman on Trial for Murder Acquitted by Jury

Policeman William Troney, 35 years old, 5150 South Wells streets, a member of the south park police system, was acquitted by a jury in Judge Peter Schwaba's Criminal court last night of the murder of Philip Rinelli, 27 years old, 627 West 29th street. The shooting occurred last April after a collision of the policeman's automobile with Rinelli's. Rinelli and two companions were arrested for automobile law violations.

Swanson Seeks New Gun Law; Find Legal Trend Aids Crime

The discharge in court several days ago of three youths, two of them with previous police records, who were arrested with three loaded revolvers hidden in a leather sack under the hood of their automobile, caused State's Attorney Swanson yesterday to announce that the legislature at its present session should take immediate steps to remedy the gun toting law.

Assistant State's Attorneys Edward Wilson and Granville Beardsley, who have charge of the brief department of the prosecutor's office—the department which handles all appeals to the Supreme court—pointed out that it would be an easy matter for the legislature to pass an up to date gun toting law which would not be in conflict with the constitution.

Courts Go as Far as Possible.

"The courts have gone as far as is possible in construing the present gun toting statute," said Prosecutor Wilson, who is considered an authority on legal questions bearing on criminal procedure.

"The statute says that it is a violation of the law to have concealed on or about the person a revolver. The Supreme court has construed that phrase liberally to mean within reach of a person. The legislature could easily amend the law to include weapons concealed in an automobile on the public highway.

"The legislature, as demonstrated by the last session, seems more interested in passing laws that are a detriment to the enforcement of criminal law rather than a help. The only laws passed at the last session were those which have made it more difficult for the prosecutors and police."

Points to Recent Changes.

The prosecutor then pointed out the changes made, as follows:

The change of venue law was amended to make it easier for a defendant to take his case from the court of a judge known not to be lenient with criminals. Under the old law two disinterested citizens had to certify that a judge was prejudiced against a defendant, while under the new the defendant and his paid lawyer only have to make the charge.

The law pertaining to capital cases was changed so that the taxpayers must now bear the burden of paying a lawyer for the defendant. In the same class of cases a writ of error is mandatory, resulting only in delay of carrying out death penalties. Under the old law the Supreme court could, after looking at the record of the trial, say that no cause existed for a review of the case and refuse to take jurisdiction. Under the new law the Supreme court must take jurisdiction and review the case and stay the execution, sometimes for months.

Other Changes Are Cited.

An amendment was written into the bail bond law providing that the county board can compromise bail bond forfeitures.

The habeas corpus law was changed to allow the defendant an appeal to the Supreme court in extradition cases even though he has had two previous trials before the governor and in a criminal court. This causes months of delay in sending prisoners to other states, as in the case of Danny Stanton, wanted in Wisconsin for trial for the murder of Jack Zuta.

The bills intended for the more businesslike administration of criminal justice, such as those allowing the judge to give oral instructions, jury reforms, and others were all defeated, the prosecutor pointed out.

The case which brought about the agitation was that involving William Wauford, 1233 North La Salle street, who has a local police record; William Carlo, who has a Massachusetts robbery record, and Joseph Partipilo. Judge Leon Edelman said he had to discharge the men because the revolvers were not within their reach as construed by the law.

Suggests a Modern Law.

The men were arrested while seated in an automobile at La Salle and Locust streets on Dec. 16. They told the police they were just taking the air.

"Possession of a revolver should be sufficient under the law," said Prosecutor Swanson. "When the state proves possession, even in an automobile, the burden should then be placed on the defendant to justify that possession. Every one knows that respectable citizens do not go around with revolvers, and the legislature should take notice and pass a law which will fit present day conditions."

BARRETT LEADS HIS SUPPORTERS INTO LYLE CAMP

Says Judge Is Best Man to Beat City Hall.

echo from this when Thompson issued a statement attacking Harding.

What interest there was in the statement among the politicians was that they saw in it Thompson's first admission that he is likely to be defeated.

"It may be," ran a part of the statement, "that I may come to a fitting end to my career in politics by being beaten."

Albert Makes Two Attacks.

Ald. Albert issued two campaign statements during the day. One criticised Judge Lyle for taking a leave of absence from the bench to conduct his campaign. The second was an attack on the city hall experts.

"Examination of vouchers for the month of June," said the second statement, "shows that twenty-two legal experts were paid sums ranging from $490 to $15,000. In addition to these legal experts there were more than twenty real estate experts who were paid from $490 to $10,500.

"Take, for example, the case of Harry Goldstine. He is one of Big Willie's experts. He gets $100 a day for his work. And his days are five hour days. If he spends more time than that in one day he draws overtime at the rate of $20 an hour.

"One September voucher shows that Harry Goldstine spent a total of thirteen five hour days and sixty hours of overtime on the South Damen avenue work for a total of $2,500. On another voucher for work in September we find Harry Goldstine billing the city for 26 half days and 65 hours of overtime on the North State street project for another $2,600—$5,100 for the month."

Democrats Start Tomorrow.

The Democratic managing committee will open its mayoralty activities on behalf of A. J. Cermak with a luncheon of leaders and workers at the Hotel Sherman tomorrow, this being the first step in an effort to roll up a big primary vote for the organization mayoralty candidate in the primary in spite of his lack of serious opposition.

Because of his candidacy, Cermak has given his proxy as a member of the county committee to State Representative Henry Sonnenschein. He also has surrendered the chairmanship of the patronage committee temporarily. The campaign will be directed by a committee consisting of Judge John J. Sullivan, chairman of the advisory committee; Michael L. Igoe, Ald. John S. Clark, and Bailiff A. J. Horan.

Aldermen O. K. $175,400,000 Budget in Midnight Session

By unanimous vote the city council shortly before midnight last night adopted the appropriation bill for 1931, calling for the expenditure of $175,400,000 for all city activities except those of the board of education. The action came after the aldermen, sitting as a committee of the whole, had reviewed the various budgets making up the total appropriation.

It was the first time in the city's history that all of its separate budgets have been included in one appropriation bill, the usual practice being to pass the corporate and a few minor budgets in January and the water, bond and vehicle tax budgets in March. The passage of all at one time is a requirement of the financial relief legislation passed last year as a result of the city's money troubles.

Salary increases that were attached to the corporate budget, in addition to recommendations of the finance committee, occasionally called forth spirited comment in the committee of the whole, but as the budget is patterned in the main after the 1930 appropriations few objections were heard. Most of the battle took place in the finance committee meeting, which delayed the beginning of the council session from the scheduled hour of 2 p. m. until 8 p. m.

Major Increases Listed.

The major increases in the appropriation bill since it was first printed on Jan. 10 were $660,000 for the traction budget, $125,361 for the corporate budget, $50,000 for the water budget, and $2,375,000 for the bond budget for the public benefit in the widening of North State street. These, added to the Jan. 10 total, increase the 1931 appropriations $24,877,517 above the $150,522,483 expenditures of 1930.

As the aldermen studied the items in the corporate fund budget, the appropriations to the police department, the health department and to Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, called forth the most comment.

"I want to call your attention to the most expensive doors in the world," said Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d], pointing to an item of $18,672 for the installation by Wolfe of revolving doors at the La Salle street entrance to the city hall.

"I don't believe that any one else in the world is paying so much for doors as is Wolfe and I think we should hold up this expenditure."

"That isn't the whole amount to worry about," replied Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th]. "There probably will be a few extras before the installation is completed."

The aldermen voted to attach a proviso to the appropriation so that it cannot be expended without approval of the council.

O. K. $12,000 for Alcock.

In the police department appropriation Ald. Guernsey objected to the proposed salary of $12,000 for Acting Commissioner Alcock who, in his civil service position as first deputy, had received $8,000.

Ald. Guernsey wanted it stipulated that Alcock would receive the extra $4,000 only while he is acting commissioner, but the council made the $12,000 salary effective also if he goes back to his old job.

Objections by Ald. Albert to the inclusion of two additional police captains' positions, raising the total number to 54, elicited the information from Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, that one of the new positions is intended for Michael Hughes, former commissioner, and the other for John Ryan, former deputy chief of detectives.

The amounts of the larger appropriations in the corporate budget of $67,540,000, as approved with slight changes to be made, are as follows:

Council	$ 277,340
Election commissioners	1,979,000
Law department	845,080
Police	17,896,000
Fire department	8,945,020
Gas and electricity	4,200,040
Health	2,541,442
Department of public works	12,826,457
Board of local improvements	2,112,576
Municipal courts	2,767,456

Changes made in the estimates of revenue from miscellaneous sources so that salary increases might be met were attacked by Harris Keeler of the bureau of public efficiency. These changes included an addition of $40,000 to be received from the vacation of streets and alleys which, in effect, is selling city property.

"If the estimates are plainly fraudulent on their face you can expect the budget to be attacked in court, said Mr. Keeler. "If they are fairly arrived at, the budget will be all right and can stand against attack.

Points Danger of Overestimating.

"You are facing a serious situation, because this year you can put in your estimates a number of revenue items that won't be present next year, such as the license fee for elevated cars that is eliminated under the new transit ordinance. If you overestimate the miscellaneous receipts now you will have a deficit to take care of in 1932, besides a decrease in revenues that will give you less money to spend."

The water budget estimate of revenues, according to Mr. Keeler, is too high. He said the aldermen had figured an increase of $515,000 from the sale of water over 1930 receipts, although the receipts during 1930 had shrunk below those for 1929.

Three appointments by Mayor Thompson were confirmed. They were those of Dr. Joseph Springer, former deputy coroner and police criminologist, as city physician to take the place of the late Dr. John F. Besler, and the appointments of Charles S. Peterson as city controller and August Singer as city treasurer.

Woman Killed by Train on I. C.; Husband Unhurt

Mrs. Nellie Kaplan, 69 years old, 2666 East 78th street, was killed last night when struck by an Illinois Central suburban train, southbound, while she and her husband, Solomon, were walking across the tracks at 78th street and Exchange avenue. He was about ten feet ahead of her and had just cleared the crossing when Mrs. Kaplan was struck.

ASK REDUCTION OF MILLIONS IN BUILDING VALUES

Assail Figures Set by Cutmore Staff.

Reductions of millions of dollars in building valuations for 1929 taxes have been demanded by the owners of loop buildings and outlying hotels. The complaints have been taken under consideration by the board of review.

Many of the complaints have been filed by the First Appraisal company, one of many such organizations which have sprung up since the reassessment was ordered, tax officials say. The First Appraisal company, it was revealed yesterday, has been represented at the hearings before the board of review by Attorney James R. Quinn, who is a law partner of Thomas W. Barrett, a nephew of Reviewer Charles V. Barrett.

Assails Cutmore Valuations.

The appraisal company charges that the scientific valuations of Harry S. Cutmore, chief deputy appraiser, are unfair and faulty and is submitting its own appraisals on behalf of the property owners. Mr. Barrett, sitting alone, has taken the complaints under advisement, and announced that he will try to get the board as a whole to consider them.

Cutmore yesterday attacked the figures of the appraisal company and charged Mr. Barrett's proceeding as "highhanded and outrageous."

"I heard about the hearings by accidents," Cutmore said, "and tried to get permission to defend our valuations, but apparently I was not wanted."

Barrett Declines to Comment.

Reviewer Barrett declined to comment on Cutmore's charges or his nephew's connection with the appraisal company. Edward R. Litsinger, another member of the board, said Mr. Barrett merely took information on the complaints and that "he may or may not submit that information with the complaints to the board as a whole."

Among the properties on which reductions have been asked are the Furniture Mart, Hotel Sherman, Straus building, Belmont hotel and the Southmoor hotel.

Cook county's 1929 capital stock assessments against service corporations will go on the books at $75,968,450, County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer announced yesterday. The assessments have been certified by the state tax commission.

MELLON RENEWS HIS PROTESTS ON PAYING BONUSES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon declared today the enactment of a bill to pay off veterans' certificates such as that proposed by Representative John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.], house minority leader, would seriously affect the nation's financial equilibrium and the general economic situation. Mr. Mellon's statement was contained in a letter to Representative Willis Hawley [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Mr. Mellon said the Garner bill would compel the government to raise at least 2 billion 100 million dollars, which is 375 million more than the actual face value of the certificates.

"I think it can be conceded," Secretary Mellon said, "that two billion dollars cannot be raised by taxes. The alternative for the government is to borrow funds. In March of this year the treasury is faced with public debt maturities in excess of $1,100,000,000 calling for a large refunding operation, and within three years some eight billion dollars of bonds become callable.

"Business recovery is in some degree at least dependent on good market for new securities to supply the needs of various business enterprises. To the extent that funds seeking investment are diverted to the purchase of government bonds, to that extent is the market depleted of funds."

A demonstration in favor of passage of soldiers' bonus legislation was staged today on the east portico of the capitol. Some 500 veterans from the District of Columbia and nearby Virginia and Maryland gathered to hear Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], one of the leaders in the house for legislation ordering the service certificates paid immediately.

1922 JURY DINES AGAIN WITH ITS BOTTLE OF WINE

A bottle of rare old wine stood on the table at the Great Northern hotel last night at the annual reunion dinner of the special grand jury empaneled in September, 1922, which sat continuously for thirteen months while investigating local governmental graft scandals. The wine was presented to the jurors at their first reunion, to be opened when prohibition ends.

Each year the former jury members meet for a dinner and recall their long session together. The guest of honor last night was Judge M. L. McKinley, chief justice of the Criminal court in 1922.

Sunk!

Planning . . . hoping . . . and then—the thing she dreaded

Nature won't postpone her process to accommodate social engagements! Two weeks ago she was sure she could go. Then—just an hour before the party—it had started. That excruciating pain which is now avoidable.

Expected. Dreaded. Those muscular pains reckoned by the calendar. You can't always tell to the day and hour when they'll begin. But you can count on their relief seven minutes after taking Midol

The periodic process is natural, but the painful part is not. Midol is non-narcotic; it never interferes with the process, but it does banish the pain. These tablets take effect in five to seven minutes. Better yet, the woman who takes them beforehand will experience no pain at all. Midol relieves headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, too. Always to be had at any drugstore.

Acidity

When you're continually so nervous and restless that you can't eat, work or sleep—when every little thing upsets you and people seem to irritate you for no good reason at all—it's a sign that Acidity is getting in its deadly work.

Many a run down condition, many a case of "nerves," melancholia, and mental depression is but a case of acidity. For when as a result of our unnatural living habits, the stomach secretes too much acid it does many things to us. It causes acid-indigestion, with sour, gassy fullness, painful stomach distention, heartburn and nausea—a condition which in time may result in an attack of acute indigestion. The acid also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines. This breeds poisons which permeates the whole system. The poisons sap strength and vitality, make us feel tired all the time, and mentally depressed and they rag our nerves to the point where we can't sleep at night, exhausted as we may be.

The modern and true way to correct acidity is by the release of active oxygen within the intestinal tract. This is now accomplished by an amazing and harmless white tablet developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house. Magnesia Oxide, upon contact with the gastric juice, releases nascent or active oxygen. The oxygen does the three things necessary to correct acidity in the right way. It stimulates the alkaline gastric juice which keeps the acid in check. It corrects fermentation and putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal. It stimulates peristalsis or the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity and only Magnesia Oxide supply them, because it is the only Magnesia product known to science that, when taken internally, releases oxygen to the system.

Make This Acidity Test!

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxide from Walgreen's Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores, or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

GERMANY TELLS LEAGUE IT WANTS LAND LOST IN WAR

Sounds Call for Revision of Polish Frontier.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Jan. 21.—Attacking the Polish government for permitting a campaign of terrorism and brutality against German minorities in Upper Silesia during the recent elections, Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, today publicly reaffirmed Germany's hopes and aim of some day recovering the territory lost to Poland under the treaty of Versailles. He spoke before the council of the league of nations.

But Dr. Curtius carefully insisted that German public opinion and the government alike were determined to retrieve lost provinces and restore this large block of German nationals to the fatherland only through peaceful measures and without resort to force of arms. He stipulated that redress must come through arbitration and negotiation with Poland.

Words Astonish Council Members.

The huge glass walled sun parlor, where fifteen members sit around a horseshoe table with a throng of spectators and journalists jammed in the rest of the space, was hushed to silence as the German minister broke the unwritten law sanctifying the Versailles treaty as the league of nations' koran by deliberately affirming his government's ambition to obtain revision of vital territorial clauses in that pact.

"We don't deny the strong bonds which attach our hearts to the Germans living across the frontier under foreign sovereignty—that explains the immense reaction that German public opinion shows against a terrorist campaign carried on for weeks against their brothers," Dr. Curtius said in German. "The invariable attitude of all German governments, past and present, and all German people, regarding the political aspect of the question, is well known throughout the world. I don't abandon it and I refuse to renounce it. But one thing is certain, Germany has no idea of pursuing aims by any means other than legal and contractual methods."

Replying to the speech, the bald headed Polish foreign minister, August Zaleski, pounced on Dr. Curtius' assertions.

"Every time a campaign starts in Germany arousing the fears of Silesia's return to the mother country the population becomes nervous," he said. "The incidents cited by Germany had neither the scope nor gravity ascribed to them, but they were nevertheless very regrettable."

He concluded by promising that the Polish government "will suppress with the utmost vigor any kind of disorder."

Polish Troops Enter Germany.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—A new Polish-German conflict has arisen on the upper Silesian border, according to messages received from Gleiwitz, which state that Polish troops were exercising near Pilchowitz, when 20 men carrying rifles with fixed bayonets crossed into German territory. A German customs official hastened to the scene and the Poles retired.

ACCUSES NICK

[National Broadcasting Company Photo.]

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Fanny Brice charged in papers submitted in Supreme court in Brooklyn today that her former husband, Jules Arnold, better known as Nicky Arnstein, signed her name to a contract for the sale of her Huntington, L. I., home without her authorization or sanction at a time while she was in California.

At the same time, Randolph M. Newman obtained an order directing that Miss Brice's description of him [Newman] as a "disbarred lawyer" be struck out of her papers. Miss Brice applied to the court for an order to compel Newman to permit her to make a photostatic copy of the contract in question and Justice Dike reserved decision.

Newman is suing Miss Brice. He claims that in June, 1923, he paid $3,500 down on a contract to purchase Miss Brice's Huntington property for $23,000 in behalf of his mother, Mrs. Bertha Newman, now dead. The contract was not carried out, and under its terms he claims he is entitled to the return of his money.

WHARTON HOME AFTER SERVING TERM IN PRISON

Charles S. Wharton, former assistant state's attorney and once a member of congress, returned home yesterday, after eighteen months in the Leavenworth penitentiary. He was sentenced for complicity in the Evergreen Park mail robbery.

"My prison experience was just another patch on the crazy quilt of life," Wharton told a crowd of his friends who called to welcome him. What his plans for the future are he did not say, preferring to wait until he goes to work. He is barred from resuming the practice of law, he said, and only through obtaining a pardon from the President could he again act as an attorney.

"I have no complaints to make," the former prosecutor said. "I was foolish and I paid the penalty. I was doing manual labor in prison and I am in good physical condition."

FREED IN SOCIETY PLOT; SUES GIRL AND SECRET SIX

Kuhn Demands $100,000 for False Arrest.

A damage suit for $100,000 charging false arrest and malicious prosecution was started yesterday by William Kuhn, 23 years old, a brokerage clerk, the son of a retired California broker. Kuhn was arrested last December and discharged yesterday, on a charge of writing threatening letters to Miss Marion S. Wright, daughter of William Van Doren Wright, an official of the Edgewater Steel company.

The letters threatened death by poison darts if $25,000 was not paid to the writer. The arrest of Kuhn, which the prosecution yesterday admitted in court was a mistake, was announced on the eve of the debut of Miss Wright at the Casino club.

Five Named in Suit.

The damage suit, filed in the Superior court by Attorney Fred Burnham, is directed against Wright, his daughter, Alexander Jamie, chief investigator for the Association of Commerce's secret six crime committee; Edgar Dudley, one of the committee investigators, and Ferdinand Watzek, crime expert of the Northwestern university crime detection laboratory.

The arrest of Kuhn was brought about by the secret six commmittee after Wright had complained to them of the letters sent to his daughter. Watzek made the comparison between the letters received by the Wrights and a typewriter in the brokerage offices of Winthrop Mitchell & Co., 141 West Jackson boulevard, where Kuhn was employed.

Charges Are Dismissed.

Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks moved yesterday for the dismissal of the charge against Kuhn when the case came up before Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court. Brooks said that the prosecution had learned through a test made by Albert S. Osborne, New York handwriting expert, considered the foremost man in his field, that the letters were not written on the typewriter in the brokerage office. The motion for nol-prossing the case was allowed.

"The arrest of this young man is a miscarriage of justice," said Attorney Burnham to Judge Padden. "Young Kuhn had only seen Miss Wright at social functions, and then only three times before his arrest."

Attorney Burnham said the prosecution in the case was so bungled that his client felt that those responsible for keeping him under a cloud of suspicion for nearly two months should be made to pay. The attorney said it should have been obvious from the outset that his client was unjustly accused.

Mistake Obvious, He Says.

"When I first looked at the original letters and a specimen from the suspected typewriter I knew that a mistake had been made," Burnham said. "It did not take an expert to tell that they were not written on the same machine. I asked permission at that time to have J. Fordyce Wood, a handwriting expert of standing in Chicago, examine the documents, but was shunted from one official to another without any satisfaction."

Attorney Burnham announced that eight letters have been received in the case instead of four as originally announced. Among the things he pointed out, which he said should have shown the officials that Kuhn was innocent, was that the fifth letter in the series was dated in Chicago on Dec. 5 when Kuhn was in Boston.

Three Other Letters Received.

The sixth letter was dated Dec. 9, when Kuhn was in the custody of the secret six investigators undergoing a third degree, Attorney Burnham said. He had voluntarily surrendered the day before, according to the attorney.

Another fact in the knowledge of the officials, which made it obvious that Kuhn was innocent, Attorney Burnham declared, was that the suspected typewriter was locked up in the vault in the law offices of Mayer Meyer, Austrian, & Platt after Dec. 10, and that the last two threatening letters, dated Dec. 11 and Dec. 13, were obviously written on the same typewriter as the previous documents.

HEIR TO ITALIAN THRONE REFUSES ROLE OF PUPPET

Wants to Be Fighting Man; Made General.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 21.—This is a story of a prince who talked back.

The hero is Crown Prince Umberto, handsome young husband of the former Belgian princess, Marie Jose, and heir to the Italian throne. From Turin today came the news that the prince is to be promoted from the rank of colonel to that of brigadier general and that he is to be stationed permanently in Turin.

To the average reader this merely means that the prince henceforth will be photographed in a handsome new uniform. To the mischievous eyed Piedmontese beauties of "little Paris" in the shelter of the Alps it means slightly more. But to those really "in the know" the news reveals a colorful drama of court intrigue in which one of those supposedly well behaved royal puppets has thrown a monkey wrench into the machinery of the state by turning out to be a man with a will of his own.

Loath to Leave Turin.

Various forces have been trying to get the prince out of Turin for a long time. But he was loath to leave. He is deeply attached to his lighthearted Piedmontese subjects and takes his army work very seriously, and enjoys the gay atmosphere of the only city in Italy which has any night life.

Despite these attractions, Prince Umberto meekly consented to last December's proposal to send him to Naples as a tourist attraction to offset the effect of the earthquake. After hesitating a long time he finally secured postponement of his Neapolitan "exile" on condition that he go somewhere else.

The government reminded him of his duty and suggested he might go to Genoa. Once again the suggestion was sidetracked and finally Princess Marie Jose asked her husband to move to Florence, where she has many Belgian friends.

Wants to Stay a Soldier.

Umberto is an attentive spouse and a model prospective father. Marie Jose is reported to be a little ill at ease with the frivolous atmosphere of Turin. Umberto said he would like to please his wife, but pointed out that Florence was not very advantageous from a diplomatic standpoint.

Finally he bluntly announced that he was going to stay in Turin and continue his existence of soldiering in the hard playing rôle of a colonel in the 92d infantry.

Fate played into his hands through the death of the brigadier general commanding the Turin garrison last Christmas. Umberto seemed to be the logical choice to succeed the dead brigadier. The government at first was not willing to grant the promotion unless the crown prince lived up to his agreement about moving, but finally the prince's stubbornness won out.

MRS. BLACKLIDGE, ED R. LITSINGER SWINDLE VICTIMS

Defrauded of $50,000 in State Capital.

these were denied by Police Chief Sullivan. The chief said Litsinger told him that the money was Litsinger's and that it had been lost by Mrs. Blacklidge in the faro game. Mrs. Blacklidge said she had agreed to give Litsinger $10,000 if she was victor in the game.

Goes to Police Station.

Mrs. Blacklidge was taken to the police station from the hotel, accompanied by Edward and Fred Litsinger. There she told her story and the Litsingers also made statements to Chief Sullivan.

When he left the station Edward Litsinger declined to discuss the affair with newspaper men.

"I am in Springfield to see some of my friends," was all he would say.

He indicated that he and his nephew would take an early morning train to Chicago.

Mrs. Blacklidge, however, consented to discuss the matter after her talk with Chief Sullivan.

"I had known Reynolds for some time in Chicago," she said. "He was a friend of my husband, John W. Blacklidge, before Mr. Blacklidge's death, and they played cards together."

She said that Reynolds had persuaded her to go to Springfield with a story that there was an opportunity there to make a sizable profit on a deal, and that when she arrived there he talked her into taking part in the faro game.

Member of Deneen Faction.

Mrs. Blacklidge, a member of the Republican faction led by United States Senator Charles S. Deneen, was nominated by President Coolidge on March 1, 1929, to succeed Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke as collector of internal revenue. She was sworn into office on April 1 of that year.

She had been active in politics in Chicago and Cook county for several years before she obtained the revenue post. For twelve years she was employed in the county recorder's office. Seven years ago she was a Republican nominee for county commissioner, but was defeated.

Mr. Blacklidge, a druggist, died of pneumonia on April 8, 1930, in the Blacklidge home at 6800 Perry avenue.

ARREST WOMAN WITH PRIEST ON HUSBAND'S PLEA

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Rev. Edward Taylor, 31, Catholic priest at Osborne, Kas., and Mrs. Helen Abrell, 30, one of his parishioners, were arrested here today at the request of the woman's husband. Later they were released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Kansas City police arrested the couple after an automobile pursuit. Father Taylor and Mrs. Abrell, accompanied by the latter's 5 year old daughter, Phylis, were riding in the woman's automobile.

Attorneys for the couple, in obtaining their release in Circuit court, said the priest had not accompanied Mrs. Abrell to Kansas City.

WAR IN SENATE ENDS; INTERIOR BILL IS PASSED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Under threat of the regular Republican leaders to hold the senate in continuous session, the senate's war came to an end tonight.

The outcome was a draw. The interior department appropriation bill was finally passed after a filibuster which had lasted since last Saturday. But Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] won his four day fight for an amendment to an Indian bureau appropriation.

The starting point of the filibuster was a $51,000 item which, according to Senator Thomas, was to be taken from trust funds belonging to the Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache tribes, and given to an Indian agency to be spent for the benefit of eight additional tribes. The successful amendment provided that the sum was to be taken from the general funds of the treasury.

Amendments Accepted.

Taking advantage of the leaders' desire to get the bill through, other Democratic and insurgent senators showered it with amendments. The bill's sponsors were forced to accept them or further delay the measure's passage.

With the interior department bill, which now goes to conference, goes the Robinson amendment providing an appropriation of $25,000,000 to be given the Red Cross for distribution of food and other necessities.

The Red Cross announced today that contributions to its $10,000,000 relief fund now totaled only $962,000. The slow response to the Red Cross appeal, it is considered certain, will have an effect on the negotiations of the conference since it bears out the administration's contention that the senate's action in passing the amendment would virtually kill the Red Cross drive.

Wagner Measure Passes.

The senate today placed another relief measure on the doorstep of the house. This was one of the series of bills designed by Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], all aimed at meeting unemployment. The one passed today provided for the advance planning and regulated construction of public works. It creates a planning board for systematizing and timing public works, so that plans drawn up in times of prosperity may be carried into effect in times of depression to relieve unemployment and stimulate business.

PEGGY BOYNTON AND CONDUCTOR'S SON ARE MARRIED

Peggy Boynton, 16 year old daughter of Donald S. Boynton, 608 Hawthorne lane, Highland Park, wealthy iron manufacturer, and Thomas Russell, 18 years old, son of T. E. Russell, 70 Elmwood drive, Highland Park, a North Shore line conductor, eloped and were married by a justice of the peace on Jan. 10, it was revealed last night.

The young couple were married by Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt of Waukegan. On the license Miss Boynton's age was given as 18 and Russell's as 21, and on the marriage register they signed the names of Beverly Boynton and Gerald Russell.

The bride's father is vice president of the Pickands-Brown company, dealers in pig iron and coke, with offices at 332 South Michigan avenue, and a son of the late Charles T. Boynton who left a large fortune. At the Russell home Mrs. Russell refused to admit the marriage and would not not awaken her son to discuss it.

ROOT CHAMPIONS WORLD COURT AT SENATE HEARING

He Defends Protocols for U. S. Adherence.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Elihu Root, whose name and whose venerable figure are synonymous with "world court," took a chair at the end of a long, green baize covered table in the senate office building today and before the senate foreign relations committee defended the protocols for American adherence which he negotiated.

He defended, he expounded. He pleaded, he proclaimed. Though frail with the frailty of nearly 86 years, though ill, his voice a bit tremulous, the famous bang of hair over his forehead grayer and thinner, he caught vitality out of the cause he spoke for, and time and again his eyes flashed and his fist thwacked the table.

But at the other end of the long table sat a stony triumvirate—Borah, Johnson, and Moses—who had stood out against American adherence even with the five reservations insisted on by the senate when it agreed to adherence in January, 1926. And beside them sat Reed of Pennsylvania, who had voted for adherence with the reservations, but who was not so sure today whether he would vote the same again, because the council of the league had balked at the American reservations and sent back reservations of its own.

Defends Reservations.

It was these reservations, arrived at through his negotiation and now formally called the "protocol of signature of the permanent court of international justice," which Mr. Root was defending.

He defended, he expounded—to the smiling, nodding satisfaction of scholarly men and women with gray hair and an air of saying, "the dear man" who jammed the room to suffocation and perched on chairs outside the doorway.

He pleaded, he proclaimed.

But he didn't answer to the satisfaction of the stony triumvirate and the dubious Mr. Reed this question propounded by Senator Borah:

"Can the court under any circumstances render an opinion despite the objection of the United States?"

Mr. Root hesitate da moment, then, "I think not," he answered.

Borah Questions Him.

Senator Borah questioned Mr. Root further. He wanted to know what the court would do about an advisory opinion in case one of the parties objected. Carefully he read article 68 of the statute of the court: "In the exercise of its advisory function, the court shall further be guided by the provisions of the statute which apply in contentious cases to the extent to which it recognizes them to be applicable."

"Under that article," Senator Borah remarked, "action lies within the discretion of the court, doesn't it?"

Mr. Root explained. In the East Carelia case a majority of the court held that, one of the parties refusing to come into court to state its case, an opinion could not be had. And a general conference of signatories confirmed this stand.

"But," Mr. Borah objected, "a minority of the court held just the opposite, didn't they? In another case, the minority opinion might prevail."

"Court Would Have to Overrule."

"Then the court would have to overrule its creators," Mr. Root retorted.

"The stipulations in the articles of protocol do not modify the senate reservations," Mr. Root asserted. "They relate to matters entirely outside the prohibitions contained in the reservations. They set up a procedure for the council to follow before asking an opinion, and for the United States before it decides to express an interest.

"It is but common sense that if in the application of the fifth reservation the United States is to have the right to bar proceedings in the court the council should have the right to know before asking an opinion what we considered our interests. It should have information so it need not ask the question or be not forced to modify the question.

"These are provisions required by the theory of an open and frank diplomacy to which we adhere today. They are necessary to friendly intercourse and to an agreement concerning international conduct terminable at will.

"They provide for a full exchange of views before anybody goes into court."

The European powers, he believes, would have changed their feelings to one of real hostility if the time ever came when no agreement could be had concerning what the United States considered its interest.

"In a hundred ways they have shown their strong desire for our cooperation," he asserted.

Will Discuss League of Nations and Depression

Prof. John R. Commons, economist of the University of Wisconsin, and Ivy Lee of New York, will speak on "The League of Nations, Economic Depression, and Unemployment," at a public meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Hotel La Salle ballroom.

END FEAR OF WAR AND DEPRESSION FADES—BRIAND

U. S. of Europe Votes to Work for Peace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Jan. 21.—End the fear of war and the economic depression in which the world is immersed will fade, according to a resolution offered by Foreign Minister Briand of France and unanimously adopted today by the twenty-seven prime ministers, foreign ministers, and other representatives of the nations taking part in the Pan-American union which has been meeting here. At the completion of the day's work the meeting was adjourned until next May.

"All trouble is caused through lack of confidence, political anxiety, and apprehensions over another international war," the resolution said.

"The best service toward improvement in the economic position is a firm assurance of European peace. We therefore declare as representatives of European states that we are resolutely determined to use the machinery of the league of nations to prevent any resort to violence."

The Pan-European union also adopted a resolution calling an all agricultural states and other interested, including the United States, to attend a world wheat conference in Rome on March 26 to find a means for disposing of the grain surplus already accumulated and further surpluses that may arise.

It also established a committee to seek reciprocal tariff arrangements between various countries as demanded by a group of agrarian nations.

A financial committee to draft a detailed scheme for agricultural credits for countries needing aid was established.

Finally the commission asked the secretariat of the league of nations to investigate the unemployment problem and to make a complete report at the next meeting in May.

M. Briand and the French bloc are highly content with the results of the first concrete meeting of the "United States" of Europe, even though Italy, Germany, and Great Britain did force an invitation for Russia, Turkey, and Iceland to join the proposed economic union.

BLAME INSANITY FOR THE SUICIDE OF ENGINEER

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Joseph E. Hedin, 44 years old, consulting engineer, who died at the Illinois Central hospital yesterday from poison taken in his suite at the Stevens hotel on Monday, returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

Hedin, whose earnings approached $56,000 a year, termed himself a failure in a farewell note to his estranged wife, the former Camille Thompson. Mrs. Hedin, who has been living with her sister at 1718 Estes avenue, told police she had left her husband because he was an excessive drinker and that he had been despondent over the separation. They had been married only two years.

Barbour Files Measure in Senate.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—A reapportionment bill giving Cook county 26 and downstate 25 of the senatorial districts on the basis of the 1930 census was introduced in the senate today by Senator James J. Barbour. It is the first of the remapping measures to be presented and it was prepared by the legislative reference bureau.

The Barbour measure gives Cook, which now has 52 per cent of the population, a majority of the legislative districts. It now has only 19 out of the 51, the present districts being thirty years old. The bill does not divide Cook county into the proposed new districts, leaving that for further analysis of the Chicago census figures, but it proposes to remap the 101 counties downstate, which now have 32 districts, into 25 new ones.

Downstate Districts.

The proposed new districts would be as follows:

Downstate districts—	Population.
23—Boone, McHenry, Lake	154,544
24—Winnebago and Ogle	145,491
26—Jo Daviess, Stephenson, Carroll, Whiteside, Lee	150,080
28—Kankakee, Livingston, Iroquois, Ford	137,589
30—McLean, Tazewell, Mason	134,314
32—Peoria	141,344
34—Schuyler, Cass, Adams, Brown, Pike, Scott and Calhoun	139,819
35—De Kalb and Kane	157,971
36—Menard, Logan, Dewitt and Macon	139,767
37—Henry, Bureau, Stark, Marshall, Putnam and Woodford	126,930
38—Champaign and Vermillion	153,612
39—La Salle, Kendall and Grundy	126,928
40—Greene, Jersey, Macoupin, Montgomery and Christian	154,492
41—Du Page and Will	202,730
42—Shelby, Fayette, Effingham, Jasper, Bond, Marion, Clay	146,976
43—Knox, Fulton, McDonough and Hancock	149,068
44—Piatt, Moultrie, Douglas, Edgar, Coles, Clark and Cumberland	137,321
45—Morgan and Sangamon	145,973
46—Clinton, Washington, Monroe, Randolph, Perry and Jackson	137,784
47—Madison	143,830
48—Crawford, Richland, Lawrence, Wayne, Edwards, Wabash, Hamilton and White	128,797
49—St. Clair	157,775
50—Jefferson, Franklin and Williamson	144,356
51—Saline, Gallatin, Union, Johnson, Pope, Hardin, Alexander, Pulaski and Massac	143,685

The quotient followed in making this tentative remap was 149,000, or the 1930 population divided by 51. Districts are required to be bounded by county lines. The minimum population stipulated by the constitution is four-fifths of the quotient, or about 120,000. The author of the plan points out that none of the proposed districts is below the four-fifths. The smallest district in the plan is 126,938, the largest 202,730. The Joliet district is left oversize, due to the difficulty of absorbing Du Page county in another district without making that also oversize.

Difficult Problem.

New districts are even numbered, as senators from even numbered districts will be named on the next election. Discontinued districts are also even numbered. Rearranged districts must contain the home county of one hold-over senator, if odd numbered. This complicated somewhat the redistricting.

Skaters Flock to Lagoons for Day of Winter Sports

Skating on park lagoons of the city and bob sled coasting in the suburbs were enjoyed yesterday as the temperature continued below freezing. Folks who go in for daily strolls along the lake front were warmly bundled to protect themselves against the nipping wind. Because of the unusually mild weather so far this winter, the present drop in temperature has been regarded as a severe cold snap, but the weather bureau points out that it has been only a little below normal for this time of year.

ARTILLERY RANGE FOR CAMP GRANT FOUGHT IN HOUSE

Green and Hunter Would Build Armories.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Two Rockford representatives, Leroy M. Green and David Hunter, entered another protest in the legislature today against the building of an artillery range for the National Guard at Camp Grant. Both fought the measure during the special assembly call last summer and also at the 1929 session.

Their action today was in the form of a resolution requesting that inasmuch as little money appears in sight to build guard armories over the state, the $600,000 appropriation for the range be allowed to lapse on July 1 and the sum used for the armories.

Drought Bill Before House.

The money is in the state treasurer's office but the site for the range has not been finally selected, protests from Rockford residents who do not wish it near their homes having contributed to the delay. Appropriations for a half a dozen armories have already been asked in bills.

A drought relief measure came into the house under the sponsorship of Representative F W. Kuechler [Dem., Hidalgo]. This asks an appropriation of $2,660,000 for hard road work in thirty-eight downstate counties stricken by the prolonged summer dry period. Each county would be allotted $70,000 of the appropriation and the sum would be used to give employment to the farmers whose crops were ruined.

A new attack upon the method now employed to distribute Illinois' 3 cent gas tax was contained in a bill presented by Representative A. O. Galvin [Rep., Chicago]. The state now retains 2 cents of the levy, turning over the additional penny to the counties for road work. Galvin's measure calls for the distribution as follows: State, 1 cent; counties, 1 cent; cities, 1 cent.

The cities' allotment, in the words of the bill, "shall be in proportion to the amount of the motor fuel tax collected from each municipality respectively." It is stipulated that the penny shall be used only to improve, pave, repair, and maintain streets.

Representative J. W. Harris [Rep., Chicago] had a bill applying to cities of 100,000 population or more to take the power of appointing school trustees from the mayor and add their names to the aldermanic ballot of election. It would also cut the number of the trustees from eleven to four. These would receive salaries—the president, $12,000 annually; the members, $8,000.

Mr. Galvin also entered a bill to place all city employes in Chicago under the pension act. They would be required to have served five years and attained a salary of not more than $3,000 before becoming eligible.

Pleasant New Way to Treat Nasal
CATARRH

30 DAYS FREE TRIAL

Tells the World His New Discovery Opens Up Catarrh Stuffed Nostrils in 3 Minutes.
Is That Good News?

Ask Walgreen-Economical Stores About Opex

In these days, when the air we breathe is so laden with irritants, such as smoke, soot, dust and poisonous gases from motor vehicles, nose and throat hygiene is especially important.

A few years ago, Catarrh was considered incurable, because no one was clever enough to get together a formula that would spread over the membranes of the nasal tract a cleansing substance that would keep them free from mucus.

But Opex changed all that and now all you have to do is to spray on Opex and faithfully treat the cause of Catarrh.

Just note the picture showing how Opex acts on the irritated membrane. See the steam-like smoke going in one nostril and out the other.

When you spray Opex you can send the healing, purifying vapor from one nostril thru the other (see picture) or from either nostril to the bottom of the lungs and out through the mouth—you can actually see this steam-like smoke coming from nostrils or mouth.

That's the way to get after Catarrh and to lessen those annoying, ringing, buzzing noises in the ears when caused by Catarrh.

The price of a bottle of Opex that will last two months is $1.00—it's easily worth one hundred dollars to any man or woman who wants clean nostrils free from mucus.

Opex is the swift modern hygienic treatment for stubborn catarrh because it reaches, cleanses and soothes the irritated membrane and clears it of mucus.

And remember this: the toughest old head colds are knocked out in a few hours with Opex—it's the magic treatment of science, for with this new discovery you can reach the entire respiratory tract—right down to the bottom of the lungs.

Bear this in mind also, for it will be joyful news to millions. After you spray Opex for two or three weeks there won't be any lump of mucus in your throat to hawk up every morning—what a blessing!

Opex is sold in this city by Walgreen and Economical stores with the distinct understanding that if you are not satisfied at the end of 30 days your money will be gladly returned. Opex is delightful to use because of its wholesome fragrance. Inhale as you spray if you want to reach the bottom of the lungs—you can also spray that irritated throat with Opex.

PUT COMMITTEE STAMP ON HALE WARSHIP BILL

Adds Aircraft Carrier, 2 Cruisers, 4 Submarines

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Immediate senate approval of a measure calling for the construction of one aircraft carrier, two cruisers, and four submarines was urged today by the senate committee on naval affairs in reporting favorably the Hale warship authorization bill.

The committee reported to the senate that the United States navy was weak in aircraft carriers, cruisers, and submarines and asserted that steps should be taken at once to strengthen these important combat arms of the fleet.

Figures were produced by the committee alleging that the United States is further behind in aircraft carrier construction than any of the London treaty powers. In this connection it points out that the United States is 44,914 tons below its treaty allowance, while Great Britain is but 19,650, and Japan, 12,130.

Not Now Provided For.

Unless more submarines are authorized and built, the committee said, the United States would have but one-half its submarine tonnage allotment of 52,700 on Dec. 31, 1936, when the London treaty expires. It urged approval of the present program outlined by the Hale bill, adding that it would be necessary later on to proceed with submarine replacements at a more rapid rate.

Particular attention was called to the nation's weakness in cruiser strength. The committee urged early construction of a cruiser equipped with a deck on which airplanes could land and from which bombing aircraft could take off. This type of vessel, the committee said, may have the effect of radically modifying surface warship design of the future.

As sent to the senate the Hale bill differs in one important respect from its companion piece in the house, the Britten bill, which was reported out favorably last week by the house naval affairs committee. The Hale bill includes one ordinary six inch gun cruiser, probably a 10,000 ton vessel capable of carrying fifteen guns, while the Britten bill does not. A clash between advocates and opponents of this type of vessel is now assured.

Act on Modernization Bill.

As the senate committee was moving to expedite legislation on a London treaty navy, steps were taken on both sides of the capitol to strengthen the battleship fleet. Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.] added an amendment to the deficiency bill providing $3,000,000 for beginning modernization work on two of the three battleships included in the Reed bill.

Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] stated later in the afternoon that he would move to obtain approval of a measure authorizing modernization of three battleships early next week. If this measure is approved, he said, it is possible funds will be available within two weeks for beginning the capital ship modernization program.

"The present bill marks one of the first steps toward warship tonnage parity with Great Britain," the senate committee said in its report on the cruiser bill. "The proposed building program is merely a plan for one year and your committee feels that a start should be made and that plans and specifications for the seven ships included should be prepared without delay."

JOHN P. BARNES MAY BE PROPOSED FOR U. S. JUDGESHIP

John P. Barnes, Chicago attorney with offices at 120 South La Salle street, is to be proposed by United States Senator Otis F. Glenn for appointment to the federal district court here, it was reliably reported at the federal building yesterday.

While no public announcement of Senator Glenn's choice for the judgeship has been made, it was reported that the bureau of investigation already has been ordered by the department of justice to inquire into the judicial fitness of Attorney Barnes.

Mr. Barnes' appointment is contingent upon the elevation of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to the Circuit Court of Appeals to fill the vacancy left by the retirement last October of Judge George T. Page.

Although born in Pennsylvania in 1881, Mr. Barnes has been practicing law in Chicago for the last twenty-three years. He was admitted to the bar in 1907, following his graduation from the University of Michigan law school, and from 1914 to 1919 he was associated with the firm of Chytraus, Healy, Frost & Deneen, the latter being the senator. Until two years ago he was with the firm of Levinson, Becker, Frank & Barnes, now Levinson, Becker, Frank & Glenn, of which Senator Glenn is a member. He now has his own law organization.

EXPECT FORMAL APPROVAL TODAY OF POSTOFFICE

Treasury Official and Architects Confer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Indications today were that the stamp of government approval would be placed tomorrow on the exterior perspective designs for the new Chicago postoffice submitted yesterday by Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, the private architects who have been working on the drawings for the last two years.

Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury, and officials of the supervising architect's office spent several hours today looking over the plans and suggesting minor changes. Tomorrow a meeting is scheduled between Mr. Heath, postoffice officials, and Ernest Graham, senior member of the firm of Chicago architects. At this meeting it is expected that the completed designs will formally be accepted.

The fact that Frank E. McMillin, superintendent of the division of engineering and research, was directed today to prepare a short description of the interior of the building for submission to Mr. Heath was interpreted as an indication that treasury officials were preparing to announce their acceptance of the plans.

The design, which apparently is meeting with approval, calls for a rectangular building 200 feet in height, 800 feet in length, and 345 feet wide. Four cornered phylons 100 feet wide and 150 feet in depth will be erected on each corner of the building.

The stories of the postal building are about 20 feet high, while those for the offices are but 12 feet. The result is that the front of the building where the offices are to be located, will have thirteen stories, compared to nine on the postal section of the building.

The building will furnish fifty-four million cubic feet of space for the federal government activities in Chicago.

RECONSIDER CORN SUGAR DECISION, PLEA TO HYDE

Five Food Groups Join in Demand.

A joint committee, representing five national associations engaged in the production and distribution of prepared foods and now holding conventions in Chicago, adopted a resolution yesterday expressing opposition to the recent ruling of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde that the use of corn sugar in prepared food products need not be declared on the label.

The resolution, which will be returned by the conference committee members to their respective organizations for approval, asks Secretary Hyde to reconsider his action. Represented at the conference were the National Canners' association, American Wholesale Grocers' association, National Wholesale Grocers' association, National Chain Store association, and National Food Brokers' association.

Called Reversal of Policy.

The resolution declares the corn sugar ruling to be "a reversal of policy by the department of agriculture" and expresses opposition to any action, legislative or administrative, which "weakens the pure food and drugs act or deprives the food consumer of information to which he is justly entitled." Copies will be forwarded to Secretary Hyde and President Hoover.

"This reversal of an established ruling, far from representing the wishes of state food officials, production industries, distribution trades, and consumers, who rely on the food and drugs act to safeguard their interests, was actively opposed by them," the resolution declares.

"It has accomplished by administrative action what congress refused to enact into law. It disturbs the relations of federal and state food officials and arrests progress toward uniformity of federal and state food laws. Depriving the consumer of information to which he is justly entitled, it paves the way for defeating the purpose for which the pure food laws were enacted."

Discuss Frozen Fruit.

The possible effect of the new frozen fruit process on the sale of canned fruits was discussed before the fruit section of the canners' association yesterday by Robert J. Roulston of Chicago, vice president of the Durand-McNeill-Horner company.

Citing statistics from a national survey, Mr. Roulston said reports of observers indicated the frozen fruit market was practically limited to the territory north of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi. "Greatest possibilities for development of the frozen fruit trade lie in this territory of dense population, where local fruit is available only in short portions of the year," he said.

"The real obstacle to overcome in this new trade," Mr. Roulston asserted, "is the gap between the wholesaler and the consumer's table. The problem is largely a question of equipment and until some scheme is devised to service a line of transportation, distribution, and storage for frozen products, you cannot look for any appreciable progress in opening a widespread market for this product."

Rules of Charm

"Lux never fades delicate colors. Lux never robs a garment of softness and sheen. It's a wonderful soap and it's one of the great aids to exquisite feminine charm!

BRITISH LABOR CABINET BEATEN ON SCHOOLS BILL

MacDonald Refuses to Resign as Premier.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald's Labor government was defeated by 33 votes in a division on the controversial education bill in the house of commons tonight, but some hours later carried the bill victoriously through third reading by 256 votes against 238—a government majority of 18. The measure now goes to the house of lords.

The defeat had no immediate consequence, for immediately after the division Mr. MacDonald announced to a wildly excited house that no big question of general principle was involved and that the government would carry on.

The defeat came mainly as the result of the intrusion of a religious controversy into politics, for the division in which the government found itself outvoted, 282 to 249, was taken on an amendment to the education bill, moved by John Scurr, a Roman Catholic Laborite.

This amendment called for the passage of an act giving financial assistance to religious schools before the main education bill is put into operation. The main bill raises the school leaving age from 14 to 15 years.

Shouts of "resign" were hurled from the Conservative benches when the division figures were announced. After Mr. MacDonald had made it clear he had no intention of doing anything of the kind, Winston Churchill, former Conservative minister, spoke of the government's "humiliation" and said Mr. MacDonald was the greatest living master of the art of failing without hurting himself. The premier, however, remained perfectly calm and the excitement soon subsided.

GANDHI STUDIES BRITAIN'S OFFER OF HOME RULE

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 21.—(AP)—All India looked today toward Yeroda prison at Poona, where Mahatma Gandhi sits in political incarceration, to learn whether the Nationalist civil disobedience campaign will be called off or intensified. Gandhi spent yesterday and today studying Prime Minister MacDonald's offer of qualified dominion status.

By some this offer is seen as opening the way to releasing India's 60,000 ing the question. Mr. MacDonald said amnesty would be granted if order was restored in India.

At the same time certain members of the congress working committee met at Allahabad to consider the prime minister's statement. These men are the only prominent members of the congress who are not in jail, and their meeting was held without molestation, even though it was illegal. Those who met kept their counsel, apparently awaiting word from Gandhi before making any public declaration.

MRS. HUCK'S SON MURDER WITNESS IN LOUISVILLE

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—A pretty 22 year old New Albany (Ind.) girl was shot to death early this morning during a quarrel on the front porch of a duplex apartment house. Three men are being held for the murder, one of them without bond.

George W. McCasland, 42, Jeffersonville, Ind., 225 pound ex-pugilist and restaurant owner, was formally charged with the murder of Miss Mildred Meyer, after being questioned for four hours. Police claim he shot his sweetheart in a fit of jealousy.

Two Chicago youths, Donald Huck, 24, and Gordon C. Keith, 23, were charged with being accessories to the murder. They are not held for the actual shooting, but were slated because they were in a fight when the shot was fired. They came to Louisville about a month ago.

Huck is the son of Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, first congresswoman from Illinois. Mrs. Huck succeeded her father, William E. Mason, as congressman. Keith is the son of L. W. Keith, an official of the Automatic Canteen company of Chicago, manufacturers of a candy vending machine which the two youths have been selling in Louisville and southern Indiana.

In police court the cases of the three men were continued to Jan. 28. McCasland was held without bond. Huck's bail was fixed at $3,000 and Keith's at $1,000. All three denied guilt. McCasland blamed the shooting on Huck and Keith. The latter two accused the ex-fighter. Two revolvers, one of which had recently been fired, were found on the lawn of the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Huck, 7853 South Shore drive, last night left for Louisville. "We are not at all excited over the case," Mr. Huck said. "It is plainly that of being a material witness, but we think Donald would like to have us there."

WOMEN CHARGE EX-RULER HELD THEM 11 YEARS

BOMBAY, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The former maharajah of Indore, who lost his throne in an affair with a Mohammedan dancing girl and later was much in the news because of his marriage to Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, faced a $70,000 damage suit filed by two other women today.

Mrs. Sowkaibai Pandarinath Rajpurkar, Indian operatic singer, and her daughter allege in their suit they were imprisoned for eleven years in the one time potentate's palace at Indore because they refused his advances. They charged further their property in Bombay, including furniture and jewelry, was seized by the state of Indore. The acts are alleged to have occurred in 1916.

Attorneys for the former ruler, who is known as Sir Tukoji Rao Holkar, and who lives in France with his American wife, contend the acts charged were carried out by the Indore government instead of the maharajah and therefore he cannot be held liable.

CHARGE BANK'S RECORDS FALSE BEFORE CLOSING

Directors Are Witnesses at Investigation.

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Officers of the closed Bank of United States concealed the condition of the bank when it was near collapse, it was brought out at the opening of an investigation today. A joint state and county inquiry into the bank's suspension is being directed by Attorney Max D. Steuer, who will present his evidence to the grand jury.

Evidence pointed also to the facts that the bank's books had been falsified, loans had been made without the knowledge or approval of the board of directors and that the minutes of board meetings since Dec. 12, 1929, had disappeared.

33 Witnesses Called.

Today's witnesses were Julius Blauner, a director of the bank, and Robert Adamson, a director and a vice president. They were the first of 33 witnesses, to include other officers and directors of the bank, subpoenaed.

Mr. Steuer's examination of Mr. Blauner and Mr. Adamson revealed that on Sept. 24, 1930, ten weeks before the bank was closed and taken over by the state banking department, the bank reported in its regular quarterly statement to the department that it had a surplus of $10,000,000 and $7,156,375 in undivided profits, contrary to the findings of examiners of the state banking department, who found not a penny in the bank's treasury under these items.

Loan Made to Kresel.

It was also brought out by Mr. Steuer that $16,000,000 in loans were granted to the bank's affiliates without knowledge or approval of the directors and that a total of $4,510,217 in loans and accumulation indorsements was granted to directors of the bank without official knowledge of the board. Among these loans was one of $251,165 to Isidor J. Kresel, attorney and director of the bank and special counsel in the appellate division's inquiry into magistrates' courts. Mr. Kresel put up collateral of $190,111.

Bernard M. Marcus, president, and Mr. Kresel, it was brought out, virtually ran the bank, with the majority of the directors kept in ignorance for the most part of matters with which they are required to be familiar under the law.

One of the outstanding revelations before Mr. Steuer was that while Mr. Marcus had reported to the board of directors that the total of what might be termed weak loans was not above $600,000 or $700,000, reports of state examiners, produced by Mr. Steuer to the surprise of both Mr. Blauner and Mr. Adamson, showed that of loans amounting to $37,498,290, the banking department had criticized as requiring watching $14,111,866, and had characterized $14,065,366 as "slow" and $9,321,088 as doubtful.

Gifts and pledges to THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund yesterday slipped over the $81,600 mark, assuring continued aid to worthy destitute families during the slack of employment. Three Good Fellows were added to the list, bringing the total number of Good Fellows to 1,501.

The continued cold weather yesterday brought more suffering to needy families. It is almost a certainty that the bulk of the severe weather is yet to come and that during February every cent that comes the way of the Good Fellow fund will be stretched to its fullest capacity to bring the necessities of life to the destitute. It is the object of the Good Fellows to tide the 377 families now under the care of the fund over the hard winter months, until jobs are more plentiful.

All the families being served by the Good Fellows have been investigated by the United Charities, the Catholic Charities, the Jewish Charities, and the Salvation Army. All the expenses of administering the Good Fellow fund are borne by THE TRIBUNE. Your gift may accompany the coupon on this page.

CONTINUE INQUEST IN DEATH.

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Sadie Mattera, 35 years old, 2054 Kendall street, killed when her 5 year old daughter, Theresa, accidentally discharged a revolver, was continued to Jan. 30 yesterday by Deputy Coroner Jacob Schewell to give the Marquette police time to complete their investigation.

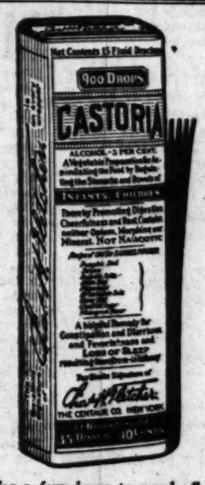
Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets

For TEETHING troubles



FUSSY, fretful . . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child. Castoria — made especially for babies and children! It's perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there is need. In cases of colic and similar disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever older children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset, a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

DANDRUFF Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

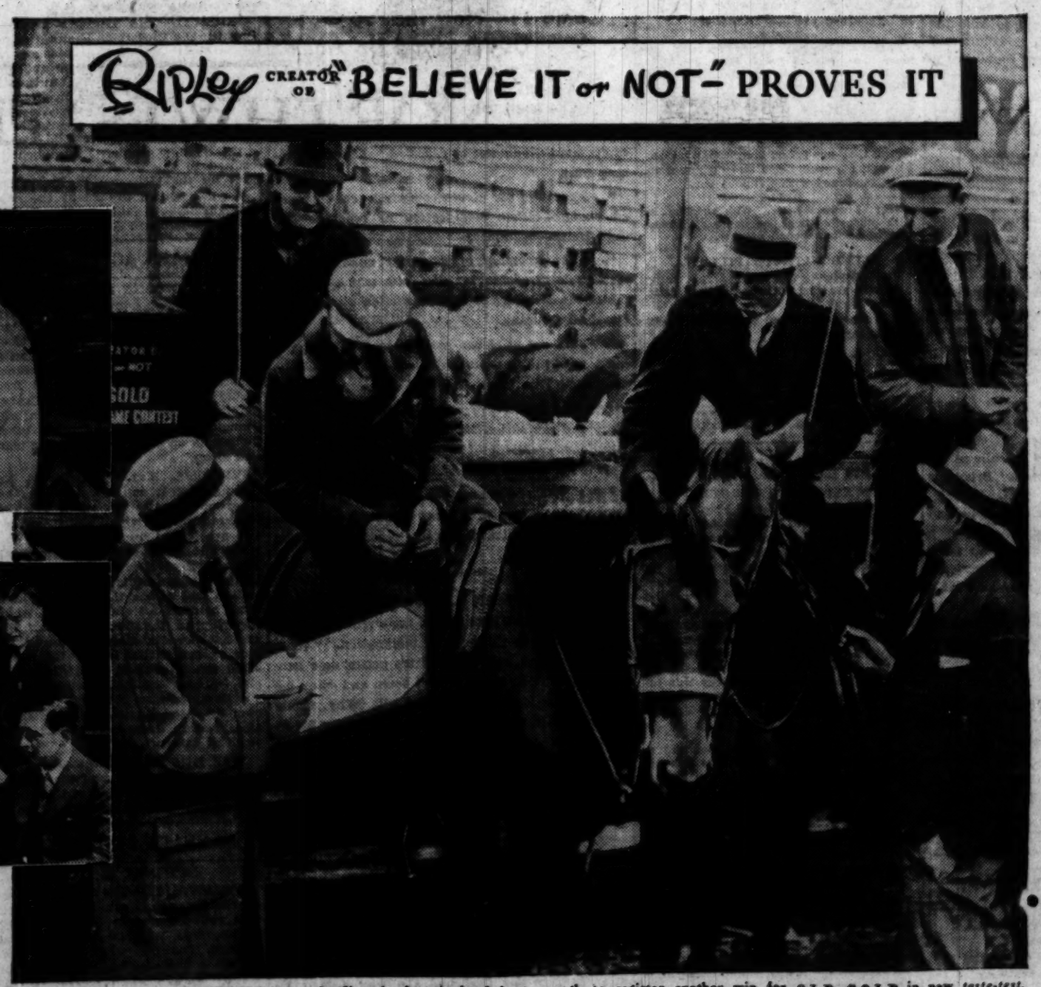
OLD GOLD CAPTURES CHICAGO IN ONE AFTERNOON



CHICAGO POLICE HALT while Ripley gets the real dope on cigarette tastes from Chicago's husky army of gangland fighters. OLD GOLD was their choice.

"GUM-KING" WRIGLEY, LAWRENCE WHITING, LEON MANDEL, II, and Rip himself making a taste-test in Mr. Wrigley's office in the famous Wrigley Building on Michigan Boulevard.

WINDY CITY GIVES O.Gs. BIG PLURALITY IN RIPLEY'S NEWEST CIGARETTE TASTE-TEST

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself

Folks . . . I get more challenges from Chicago, to my Believe It or Not Cartoons, than any city in the world. You've got to prove your facts to this hard-boiled city.

That's why, when a Chicago newspaper invited me to make one of my public cigarette tests out here, I cheerfully accepted their invitation.

Stockyards cow-punchers smoked the 4 leading brands with names concealed . . . and turned in an overwhelming OLD GOLD verdict.

Can't OLD GOLD ever lose in these tests? I don't know. But I'm going to keep right on trying.

Sore Throat Stopped In Three Minutes!

Amazing New "10-Second Germicide" Does It!

Any oncoming sore throat may be stopped in three minutes with McKesson's Extol. Three garglings of one minute each does it! As a germicide, Extol acts faster than any mouth wash or gargle heretofore known. Also more penetrating, which is equally important. It pentrates the folds and crevices in the mouth and throat. It penetrates the mucous membrane and reaches the germs that lie hidden underneath the outer layer of mucosa. In other words, Extol "gets" the germs that other antiseptics miss. That's why it clears up sore throat and head colds so quickly and thoroughly. That's why, also, if used daily, it will protect against infections and let you go through the Winter unscathed. Extol is utterly harmless, delightful in flavor, refreshing in effect. More economical, too, than other mouth washes. It need only costs less but may be used in more liberal dilution. Real protection for children as well as adults. Don't let your child miss a day in school on account of colds or sore throat. All McKesson Service Druggists and other independent drug stores sell Extol. Get a bottle today for your family's health security. Note the name, EXTOL—a McKesson & Robbins product.

THE REPORT ON PROHIBITION.

The report of the President's commission on law enforcement is an overwhelming indictment of conditions produced by the prohibition experiment.

That is the outstanding fact of the report. The public will draw its own conclusions. Those of the various members of the commission are conflicting and in some instances inconsistent with any open minded judgment of the facts admitted. In general effect they reveal a regrettable lack of willingness to face these admitted facts and to draw therefrom candid and logical conclusions upon which effective relief can be founded.

Prof. Lemann, evidently conscious of this, adopted the consistent and self-respecting course of refusing to sign the report. Mr. Baker brushes aside the compromises which the admissions of the report itself reveal as foredoomed to failure, and declares for repeal and the restoration of the constitutional system of state control and responsibility.

Five of the members favor further experiment coupled with improved methods of enforcement. In other words, after eleven years of trial which have produced the demoralizing social and political conditions reported by the commission, and in spite of admissions in the report that the prospect of improvement is virtually nil, we are invited to continue to suffer the evils for some problematical good which the commission obviously has little confidence will ever arrive.

Nevertheless, in spite of this rather forced concession to the intransigeance of fanatics and professional prohibitionists, the commission offers certain alternatives for present or future consideration. The report approaches consideration of the fundamental fallacies of prohibition when it points out that "much of the difficulty comes from the rigidity of the 18th amendment and of the national prohibition act, which prescribe one unbending rule for every part of the country and every type of community, without regard to difference of situations or conditions or to public opinion." Of course, this rigidity is an inherent and essential characteristic of prohibition and is precisely the quality upon which its advocates insist. No plan of modification would be anything but futile which did not remove it, and none which does will be accepted by the prohibition powers. It was the purpose of the framers of our constitution to avoid the imposition upon our diverse communities of such an unbending rule by vesting in the states responsibility and authority under the police power for the regulation of private conduct and social conditions. This wise and farseeing principle national prohibition overrules.

Viewed from this basic principle of the American order, the commission's proposal that the authority to prohibit shall be vested in congress is obviously defective, since it would permit any bare and temporary majority in that body to proclaim the same rigid rule upon the whole country that the present constitutional mandate declares. All that can be said for this compromise is that it would open the way to an actual restoration of the original constitutional principle without recourse to the difficult process of constitutional repeal. It is an amelioration or compromise assured of bitter resistance by organized prohibition simply because it makes it possible to abolish the very power it demands, that of imposing total abstinence upon unwilling communities and individuals.

However, the weight of the report is not in the various inferences, theories, and suggestions of the members of the commission, but in its disclosure of the results of the prohibition after over a decade of attempted enforcement. To this evidence the American people will address themselves. In sum it admits the existence of open and general defiance of the prohibition laws by the people, even in states like Kansas, which in prohibition theory after many years of state experience should be as dry in habit as in doctrine. "It is evident," says the report, "that, taking the country as a whole, people of wealth, business men, and professional men, and their families, and perhaps the higher paid workingmen, are drinking in large numbers, in quite frank disregard of the declared policy of the national prohibition act," and the report admits that "after a brief period in the first years of the amendment there has been a steady increase of drinking."

Open lawbreaking by normally lawabiding citizens, the effect upon youth, the acquisition by organized agencies of law evasion of enormous sums of money for widespread corruption of the agencies of law enforcement, the overloading of the courts, and the general demoralization of the administration of justice compose a picture of the prohibition scene which only a stubborn fanaticism can tolerate. No law not buttressed by bigotry could survive such a revelation of its futility in the accomplishment of its own ends and its profound mischief to the welfare of our society.

Yet in the face of this devastating indictment of the results after eleven years of the prohibition experiment, and in spite of the recognition by the commission of inherent weaknesses in the prohibitory system which there is no plausible prospect and no practicable method of removing, we are invited to endure its affliction for some undetermined time. No respectable reason is offered for such a compromise with the inevitable.

MR. HOOVER'S POSITION.

President Hoover, in transmitting the report of the Wickersham commission to congress, separated himself from its recommendations and suggestions other than for enforcement of the existing law. He said that he saw serious objection to the commission's proposed revision of the eighteenth amendment and therefore he must not be understood as recommending it. "My own duty and that of all executive officials is clear—to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal, without equivocation or reservation."

Mr. Hoover does not share the commission's doubt or skepticism. He is not impressed as the investigators were by the conditions or by their portent. He is not critical of their causes. There was a decision to make when the report came to Mr. Hoover's desk and when he had read it. The fact finding inquiry is a favorite of his. This work had been done by men chosen by him and his decision was to reject all their conclusions, recommendations and suggestions except for the more determined enforcement of the law without modification.

Mr. Hoover implied, however, that this was his clear duty and that it excluded all other considerations. Such a theory would restrict the office of President to administration. The executive then could not intrude in policies of government. They would be determined by congress and the President would execute them. There is no such theory of the President's authority. It is his duty to recommend legislation as well as to enforce laws. The state of the nation is his concern. If Mr. Hoover believed the eighteenth amendment to be detrimental to the welfare of the country it would be his duty to recommend its repeal.

The duty to enforce a law does not stop the President from advising that it be repealed. His privilege of scrutiny and criticism is not restricted. The exercise of it is provided for and expected. It is possibly the highest of his functions, and he has great power to obtain what he thinks is good for the country.

Mr. Hoover's decision to accept the eighteenth amendment as one of unquestionable future benefit is not a part of his duty but of his own choice. It is not only an administrative but a political choice. The duties of Mr. Hoover's office left him quite free to advise congress to submit the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Furthermore, the duty of the President to enforce all laws is in theory rather than in practice. There is in many important instances an executive choice. Many times there is more discretion in enforcement than there is in legislation. The Mann act is not enforced as congress intended it to be, and in that case congress was wrong and the judiciary department is right.

Mr. Hoover does not enforce the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution. The theoretical duty is clear—"to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal, without equivocation or reservation." All that aside, nothing in the presidential duty could have prevented Mr. Hoover from adopting all the conclusions of the commission as his own if he had cared to do so. His choice was to discard them and to take the leadership of persons who will have no solution of this prohibition question which is not found in the eighteenth amendment.

THE UNITED STATES OF EUROPE.

Briand's United States of Europe without Russia would have disabling territorial limitations; with Russia it would have convulsions. The league of nations commission studying the proposed plans at Geneva had difficulty in coming to even a tentative conclusion, but apparently has decided to risk the convulsions and take in the area. Russia will be invited to send representatives to the next conference in May. The soviet impression at present is that a league against communism is proposed, but evidently Geneva contemplates a league with communism, which will be even more interesting.

A legislative body representing a united Europe without Russia might be almost as inchoate as the old Austro-Hungarian parliament of the dual empire, but with Russia it would be almost as incredible as the United States senate. Briand is an imaginative but also a dogged man. He may realize his ideal of a United States of Europe and live to hear the secretary call the roll, but even he is not imaginative enough to anticipate what would follow that. He has not had the experience and preparation for it. He would need at least a week in Washington.

PALS.

Tony [Mops] Volpe, described as a Capone henchman and public enemy, under examination by the immigration bureau in deportation proceedings, offers pleasant social relations with City Sealer Serritella, former Ald. Prignano and Ald. Pacelli as evidence of good standing in our community. When we speak of the alliance of crime and politics these little friendships revealed in the news from time to time are enlightening.

The Other Side

DOES CHICAGO WANT HOME RULE?

[Illinois State Journal.]

Proponents of apportionment who insist that Chicago be accorded control of both branches of the legislature are given to asserting that downstate domination cramps Chicago's style. Unless that city can have a majority in both the senate and the house, they declare, Chicago cannot attain the degree of importance to which it is entitled.

Gov. Emmerson, urging Chicago to accept a limitation on its membership in the house, suggests an arrangement by which Chicago can be given home rule of its local affairs. This, as he points out, ought to meet its objection to downstate interference in matters affecting only the welfare of Chicago.

The executive's recommendation is a fair one. He speaks, too, with authority. Heretofore the downstate has, through its members in the assembly, given approval to home rule for Chicago. There has been no change of sentiment concerning this matter. Chicago can have, so far as the country districts are concerned, any measure of self-government it desires—anything short of secession.

There is, however, doubt as to whether Chicago wants home rule. When afforded an opportunity to secure a liberal charter of its own making, its people have balked. No proposal along this line has found Chicagoans united, nor do they evidence a disposition to get together. The last charter submitted was overwhelmingly defeated by Chicago voters.

Chicago talks much of its desire to govern itself, but it does nothing toward the attainment of that ambition. In this its attitude is similar to that on apportionment. It cries out against the injustice of the present division, but its legislators cannot be brought together to rearrange the districts of Cook county.

MONGOLIANISM.

MONGOLIANISM has proved baffling for the physician, the research student, and the geneticist. It is a congenital condition, and it is not acquired as the result of wrong diet, disease, or anything like that. It was thought that Mongolians were born only to mothers who had been worn down by too much child bearing, or by hard work, age, or what not. But many observations upsetting that theory have been brought forward. Another theory was that some disease of the unborn child, such as syphilis, or some other form of infective disease, was responsible, but that theory has not stood up well. Another quite farfetched notion was that Mongolianism was a throwback to the characteristics of a Mongolian strain which was melted into the Caucasian strain some thousands of years ago. It is impossible to either prove or disprove this conjecture.

It is quite probable that Mongolianism results from some disturbance of one or more ductless glands. That could be established as a fact without answering the question—Why? In Mongolianism there is the characteristic eye slant. The face and head have shapes that differ from the usual. The arms and legs do not maintain the proportions, in size and length, as compared with the trunk which are usual in normal eople. The organic and bodily changes of puberty do not follow the usual schedule. Vision is poor, and when the back of the eye is examined there are characteristic abnormalities in the retina.

The Mongolian child is easy to get on with; in disposition is passive and inoffensive. He has very little capacity for learning, either from books or from the contacts of life. Examination of the head with X-rays shows peculiarities at the base of the skull. These, Dr. Timme holds, indicate pressure by the pituitary body. His theory holds that the abnormalities of the pituitary cause the Mongolianism. This still leaves unanswered the question—Why the change in the pituitary. Close examination, gross and microscopic, of the brain at autopsy shows certain changes that appear to be peculiar to Mongolianism. But this, too, fails to answer the question—Why?

SALINE LAXATIVES.

H. H. writes: Is it harmful to use saline laxatives habitually?

REPLY.

It is. For one thing, it begets the habit. There are other ways in which harm is done.

HOUSEWORK IS GOOD.

A. F. writes: I am 62 years old. What kind of exercises can I take in the home to strengthen the heart muscles?

REPLY.

Housework is good. Exercises with any home apparatus are good. There are many appliances on the market. Why not walk and play golf in season?

MOUTH WRINKLES.

Ethel writes: Could you tell me a sure cure for wrinkles around the mouth? I believe they are called laughter wrinkles. I am just a young girl and do not wish to be burdened with wrinkles yet.

REPLY.

Gee! I wish I knew. With wrinkles, as with other conditions, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

SLEEP WITHOUT PILLOW.

J. D. writes:

1. Will sleeping without a pillow harm in any way?
2. I am a bit round shouldered. Will it help my back?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Possibly, to a limited degree.

CONSTITUTES FORGERY.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I am accused of having signed my husband's name to a letter to reopen a charge account and purchasing a fur coat on the strength of it. In view of the fact that I have received nothing from him for two years and have no income, would that be forgery? 2. I understand that when husband and wife separate the husband is compelled to support the wife and children and can be forced to do so in court. 3. Can you tell me just how to convey this information to my attorney, who does not seem to know this? H. V. A.

1. Yes.
2. Correct.
3. The fact that he can be compelled to support you does not mean that you are entitled to sign his name.

ELEVATED STATION.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—Kindly inform us if the Chicago Rapid Transit Railroad company plans to have an entrance over the north side of the street to their station on 22d street between State and Wabash avenue. Ninety-five per cent of the pedestrian traffic is on the north side of 22d street, and the entrance to the station is on the south side of the street. On account of the heavy motor traffic it is almost impossible to cross this wide street and accidents are quite frequent. An entrance placed on the north side of 22d street would remedy this deplorable condition. M. A. S.

The station matter at 22d street is being given very serious study. It is a very difficult problem due not only to the widening of 22d street, but also to the fact that the subway, when completed, would come up on the elevated structure near that point. It is probable that the engineers will not be able to make a definite decision until the subway plan is completely thought out as to detail at that point. H. M. LYTLE, Vice President, Chicago Rapid Transit company.

REAL ESTATE BOND.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A year ago I purchased a real estate first mortgage gold bond from a bank for $500 on a church building, which was signed by its secretary and president of the church. Four months ago this bank was merged with another. 1. They transferred this bond to some other bond and mortgage company. Interest was due on Dec. 29, 1930. 2. Upon presentation of coupon they stated the interest was not in as yet, but asked for time. Would appreciate your advice. A. C. A.

1. We do not see how the bank could transfer the bond while you hold it. We assume that you still are the holder of the bond.
2. You are probably in a position to foreclose. Your rights depend upon the wording of the bond and of the trust indenture.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

'TIS A CHANGING WORLD!

"There are nine and sixty ways," says Mr. Kipling, "of constructing tribal lays, and every-single-one-of-them-is-right." And there are nine and sixty ways of constructing the Wickersham report "and every-single-one-of-them-is-right." And those that think the commission settled the 18th amendment as a law to remain embedded in our government for ever and ever ar respectfully referred back to the Dred Scott decision of the United States Supreme court which was handed down in 1857 and which decided that for all time and under the constitution of the United States a man could take his slaves into Illinois or Minnesota or any free state and they would still remain his slaves. That decision was final, irrevocable, and to be the law forever and ever, amen. All right, try to take your slaves today into Illinois or Minnesota or any other state and see how far you get. Take it from us—constitution of the United States, the Supreme court, Chief Justice Taney, Dred Scott, and all—if you go lugging your slaves around these United States today you're going to lose 'em; that's all.

SONNET.

"Bury this Love!" the raucous songs resound,
"Nor in the town, nor in the myrtled grove
Where Sappho sang, can any place be found
Like the sweet aisles where he was wont to rove;
For if he ever was, he is no more,
And only fools would waste their sentiment
Upon one pair of lovers or a score,
Who merely follow biologic bent."

Give me, O Muse, a word to say for Love
In these dim days when Love is all forsaken!
A hardy poet must I be, to prove
Against the world that Love is still unshaken;
And yet I know that they who call him base
Have not so much as looked upon his face.

ANYHOW, the report of the Wickersham commission proves one thing: that a commission comes right out at the same hole it went in.

AND, BESIDES, it's demonstrated the cold, hard fact that it is no longer a noble experiment. We've been suspecting for a long time—in fact, every time our hostess brought out the cocktail shaker and filled the glasses all around—that as an experiment the tests were about all over.

Hey! 6—7—9—11—8—7—Come 11—Now They've Got Us All Mixed Up Again!

"... Nine of the commissioners agree that the amendment should not be repealed."—Chicago Evening Post.

"... seven of the eleven commissioners demanded change—either modification or repeal."—Chicago Herald-Examiner.

"... the anomaly of a report upholding the status quo of prohibition, but with which eight of the eleven members of the commission disagree."—Hartford Courant.

"... six out of eleven commissioners are of one mind as to the form of modification that should be adopted."—New York Times.

"The commissioners were unanimous in sweeping away the pretension that the experiment of constitutional prohibition is within sight of success."—New York Morning World.

"The Wickersham report presents the nation with the spectacle of a hung jury, whose eleven members have submitted twelve verdicts."—Boston Globe.

It's Suttenly an Outrage, Suh!

We met old Col. Syllabub on the street last night and he was seething with indignation. "Why, upon my honah, suh," sezze, "it's gettin' so a gentleman can't find a place to sit down and drink his whisky sour in any comfort at all. Why, would you believe it, suh," sezze, "I went into my favorite speakeasy a minute ago—a place, suh, where I've always received the most courteous attention—and do you know I had to stand up at the bar for my drink, suh, because the only two stools were occupied by policemen!"

STILL, DEAR FRIENDS, five hundred thousand bucks is what we paid for the Wickersham commission's report; and now we've got it we can't make heads nor tails of it. Five hundred thousand dollars! And out in Oklahoma City day before yesterday starving farmers who tried to raid a grocery store for food had the hose turned on them. It would have been much better to have spent the five hundred thousand dollars for coffee, sinkers, and hot dog sandwiches for the starving farmers of Oklahoma City. At least, when you spend five hundred thousand bucks for coffee, sinkers, and hot dog sandwiches you get something for your money.

Lagniappe.

THE OLD QUESTIONS for debate: "Resolved, that the pen is mightier than the sword!" or "Lee was a greater general than Grant," can now be discarded. The new question is: "Resolved, that the Wickersham report is harder to solve than cross word puzzles."

AND, AFTER ALL, the only way to explain it is that the Wickersham commission, after writing all sorts of things down for nineteen months, finally just took the whole mess and slung it up to the ceiling, and whatever stuck they turned in as their report. Or maybe it was what didn't stick.

HOWEVER, let another commission be appointed immediately to find out what the report of the Wickersham commission means. If anything.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 22, 1915.

WASHINGTON.—Public and formal notice was given by the British embassy of the intention of the British government to seize the former German steamship Dacia should it undertake its contemplated voyage to European waters. The state department had communicated this information informally to the owners of the Dacia and was notified in reply that the vessel was loading at Galveston and would put to sea notwithstanding the British position. It was believed that the owners have resolved to test the legality of transfer from German ownership in a prize court.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE presents herewith the Christmas pastoral letter of Cardinal Mercier, archbishop of Malines, entitled "Patriotism and Endurance." It is the first authentic translated copy of the now famous document to be received in America. The letter has caused a world-wide sensation because of its bold appeal to the Belgian people. Its publication resulted in the detention of the cardinal by the Germans in his palace and a consequent protest by the pope and throughout the whole Roman Catholic church.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 22, 1901.

COWES, Isle of Wight.—Queen Victoria still lives. The physicians themselves can say no more. Up to 5 o'clock this morning the queen's condition is reported unchanged. The last official bulletin was the one issued at midnight, which says that her majesty's condition had shown no material change during the day; she had taken some nourishment and had some tranquil sleep.

WICHITA, Kas.—Mrs. Carrie Nation again is in jail as a result of another raid on the saloons of Wichita. Of three women who assisted her two also are locked up in the county jail, while the third could not be found. The arrest of Mrs. Nation was made by the county authorities in the Union station just as she was about to leave the city after an encounter in which she slapped the sheriff's face. She was overpowered after a struggle. The four women earlier in the day demolished the interior of two saloons. A pistol pressed against her breast, with a determined man behind it promising to shoot if she did not desist, dissuaded Mrs. Nation from completing her work of destruction.

WASHINGTON.—The senate in executive session confirmed the nomination of James S. Harlan of Chicago to be attorney general for Porto Rico.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 22, 1881.

OTTAWA, Ill.—The night express on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, due in Chicago at 6:20 a. m., was wrecked near Tiskilwa, Bureau county, when the engine struck a broken rail. Three coaches went into the ditch and took fire from an exploded lamp. Mrs. Mary A. Kirby of Wyandotte, O., was fatally burned and died a few hours later. The most seriously injured are Matt Phillips of Grinnell, Ia.; Mrs. J. E. Orr of Winterset, Ia., and J. W. Hughett of Chicago.

LONDON.—Edward A. Sothern, the distinguished comedian, died today. His real name was Douglas Stewart and he was born in Liverpool April 1, 1830. He assumed the name of Sothern after he drifted to Laura Keene's theater in New York, where he first appeared in 1858.

CHICAGO.—The warm weather made the sleighing on South Park boulevard better and those who owned good horses were out in full force. Among the conspicuous tretters were Dakota Maid, driven by Charles Schwartz; Frank Box, driven by Isaac Waixel; Ella F., driven by Peter V. Johnson; Business and Mate, driven by Ira Holmes; the Packer Mare, driven by O. B. Dickenson; Contractor, driven by P. J. Sexton, and Crockett, driven by Jere Dunn. E. M. Phelps was out behind the fast pair of Clipped Bays.

CHICAGO.—The boss horseshoers elected these officers: President, P. McGuire; vice president, Thomas McCormack; secretary, S. F. English; financial secretary, Thomas O'Grady; treasurer, John Foley; guardian, P. J. Hillery.

THE MATERNITY BILL.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—In your editorial entitled, "The Maternity Bill," you point o... that the appropriation of $100,000,000 for the care of mothers and babies in the states (with which the national government has no concern under the constitution) passed the senate with only ten votes in opposition, and add:

"It was a hard bill to fight, very likely. The opposition would be accused of indifference to the welfare of the nation's children and their mothers. It was difficult to insist upon principles of government when the enthusiasts were making the issue one of humanity."

The Supreme court of the United States felt this in the second child labor case (259 U. S., 20, 37-8), where congress, under the guise of a tax, had sought to deprive the states of their police power to regulate hours of work for minors. But the court courageously applied the constitutional limitation in a case which never could have arisen had either the congress or the President done the plain constitutional duty:

"The good sought in unconstitutional legislation is an insidious feature, because it leads citizens and legislators of good purpose to promote it without thought of the serious breach it will make in the ark of our convenant which will come from breaking down recognized standards."

Stating that the presumption that a real tax was intended instead of a state invasion was overcome "on the very face of its provisions," the court continued:

"To give such magic to the word 'tax' would be to break down all constitutional limitation on the power of congress and wipe out the sovereignty of the states."

For with that power conceded congress could regulate and dominate every business in the state subject to taxation.

Two questions occur: First, can we ever get our expensive educational establishment to impart such instruction to the masses that nobody, in congress or out, will ever smother a question of constitutional liberty in emotion for "humanity"? And, second, must lifelong Republicans support a constitutional Democrat like Gov. Ritchie two years hence? THOMAS JAMES NORTON.

THE MARYLAND SYSTEM.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 17.—Your editorial of today, captioned, "The Maryland System," is splendid. I think it would have approached very near to perfection if you had ended the second paragraph with "as well put the federal government into the business of selling transportation by spending billions of the tapayers' money on the noble experiment of attempting to make navigation on the Mississippi river and its tributaries practical above St. Louis a success."

It seems to me it would take a very, very discriminating mind to conclude it is wrong for the government to make and sell electric power, but right to make and sell transportation. Or, to put it in a general way, if it is right for the government to make and sell transportation, just why isn't it right for it to engage in any other private business? Why should not the government engage in newspaper publication? Why make fish of one industry and fowl of another? C. D. KELLOGG.

FOR LYLE.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Old Man Circumstance sometimes, but rarely, slips a... and embraces a man while he lives and thus he becomes political timber. It looks like he might have endured Judge Lyle.

That the people of Chicago resent to the spectacular in men whose only place in public office is evident. The present mayor is an example. If the judge is not sincere and his spectacular methods elect him, so much the better for the judge; if, however, he is sincere and he is elected, then, so much the better for Chicago.

Even if Judge Lyle is finally elected to office and it turns out that he is not what he was cracked up to be, he cannot be the worst mayor the city ever has had; we know he is game and he doesn't duck battle. Should he turn out to be what he appears to be, he might turn out to be the best mayor the city ever had. You take a longer chance on his opponents, who haven't shown his fighting spirit. HOMER M. NEWELL.

IGNORANT.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Prevalent misuse of the word "ignorant" moves me to comment. Applied unqualifiedly to a person the term is meaningless. One can be ignorant of the price of corn in New Zealand, of the distance one must travel to go from Kansas City to Hankow, of Mary Pickford's phone number; but one cannot be simply ignorant, ignorant, according to Webster, means "lacking knowledge; uninformed." To be merely ignorant, then, using the term broadly, is to be completely without knowledge of any kind. No one, I believe, is so unfortunate as to fit the description. Those inclined to promiscuous use of the word should familiarize themselves with the adjectives uneducated, illiterate, stupid, unintelligent. R. N. P.

WILD JACKASSES.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Anent the caustic remarks by your correspondent, H. J. Herrick, about our jackasses in the senate: were it not for those wild jackasses there would be nothing but yes men; the ayes would have it every time it meant corporation privileges and the people could go hang.

For Mr. Herrick's enlightenment. There have been few greater names down the annals of American history than the name Robert M. La Follette and it is to be hoped the senate will not degrade it.

Does Mr. Herrick know that it took two years of prodding by Senator La Follette to make the senate, the upper men, start an investigation of the historic, scandalous oil deal? Would that we had a lot more radicals in congress like the ones named by Mr. Herrick; we would not have to experience what we are experiencing today. C. A. JUNG.

A RED LETTER DAY.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—On Jan. 10, 1931, I was invited by a member of the Ad... chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, to witness the installation of officers. Never have I witnessed such a spectacular scene before. The manner in which the ceremony was conducted was superb. Not only did I enjoy the evening but I was greatly impressed. M. L. M...

CANAL LAWYER SAYS THEY KEPT WORK FROM HIM

Paid for Doing Nothing, Patterson Testifies.

One of the 53 lawyers employed by the sanitary district during the whoopee days and now cited for disbarment, explained to Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor yesterday how he happened to be on the district's pay roll for twelve months without doing any work. Judge Taylor is sitting as commissioner for the Illinois Supreme court at the hearing on the disciplinary proceedings brought against the 53 lawyers by the Chicago Bar association.

The testimony was given by Adam E. Patterson, a Negro lawyer. He was called to the witness stand by Attorney Willard Matheny, representing the association.

"I first talked to George E. Brennan in September, 1927, about getting a job on the legal staff of one of the public departments," Patterson said. "Brennan referred me to Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district, who said he would let me know if he could do anything for me.

Put on District's Staff.

"Three weeks later I was called to the sanitary district offices and was told that I had been placed on the legal staff and would be given some work in a few days. I was told to report every day.

"I reported daily for the first five or six weeks. After that I reported three or four times a week. Each time I insisted that I be given something to do.

"After four or five months I began to believe that I was being discriminated against because I was colored, but when I complained to the department heads I was told not to be too impatient. I remained with the district until Nov. 15, 1928. I never was given any work." He was all the time on the pay roll.

Former Lawyer for City.

Patterson explained that he had held other public offices and had witnessed the same discrimination. He was an assistant corporation counsel from 1921 to 1927, he said, but had never been permitted to try a case or to appear in court.

The records show that Patterson was paid $3,600 for his services with the district. Attorney Matheny asked if he had thought he had earned his salary.

"I will be frank," Patterson said. "Mentally and physically, no. However, I felt that I had a contract with the district."

"Do you feel that you are under any duty to return all or part of what you were paid?" Matheny inquired.

Questionnaires in Evidence.

During the hearing Judge Taylor ordered that all the questionnaires which had been filed out by the defendants at the request of the bar association be admitted in evidence. This ruling followed the testimony of G. Edwin Mitchell, one of the lawyers, who said he had prepared eight or ten opinions during his employment by the district. His questionnaire said that he had written two opinions.

Mitchell testified that he had been employed by the district from 1925 to 1929. He was sponsored by his uncle, the late State Senator Benjamin Mitchell. When asked by Matheny to describe all his duties he replied that he was unable to do so and should not be expected to. Mitchel was paid $17,666.

48 Girls Drop In on Judge for Trial; 11 Bring Babies

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Forty-eight wayward girls and eleven babies from Bedford reformatory were dropped today into the embarrassed and surprised custody of Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan.

By a ruling of Attorney General Bennett they had been sent back to the city for hearing in Women's court following the revelation before Referee Samuel Seabury that they had been illegally committed without a hearing on pleas of guilty as wayward minors.

Two brimming busloads of girls and babies were driven up to Jefferson Market court, and, as no preparations had been made to receive them, they waited in the detention pen while Mr. Corrigan obtained some beds for them.

Others Go to Prison.

Making it no secret that he considered it a grave mistake to send the girls before arrangements were made to receive them, Mr. Corrigan sent six of the girls with babies to Florence Crittenden home and the five others to St. Elizabeth's convent, through arrangement with Lady Armstrong. The other thirty-seven he sent apologetically to Harlem prison.

Their happy faces fell a bit when Mr. Corrigan mentioned prison, for, after all, Bedford is not a jail, but "more like a boarding school," Mr. Corrigan has said. But the girls took it in good part, and when prison vans rolled off with them along toward 6 o'clock they were singing, "Hail, hail, the gang's all here! What the hell do we care?" and they were shouting, "Hurray! We are going to get out!"

Problem Proves Poser.

What to do with the girls is a problem which is engaging some of the best legal minds in the city. Mr. Corrigan, Mr. Seabury, presiding Justices Dowling and Lazansky of the appellate divisions, and a representative of the attorney general will meet to try to unsnarl the legal difference about the status of the girls.

Mr. Corrigan has stated emphatically that no unjustice was done any of these girls in sending them to Bedford, although testimony has indicated that the girls were "framed" by policemen in a vice ring.

Mr. Seabury has held that their commitments were a flagrant failure to protect their right to a hearing, and that the only way to right the wrong is to free them on a habeas corpus writ.

OPERA DIRECTOR MEETS BROTHER AFTER 29 YEARS

Recall Their Childhood Days in Germany.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

It was 29 years ago that Otto and Leo Erenhous, 12 and 15 years, last played together in Breslau, Germany. Then Leo, finding life too dull for his adventurous spirit, set out to see the world.

Yesterday Dr. Otto Erhardt, a producer and stage director of the Chicago Civic opera, sat in a room at the Bismarck hotel talking to Leo Erenhous, a Canadian mining executive. It was the first time in the 29 years that the paths of the brothers had crossed.

The whereabouts of Leo Erenhous had remained unknown to his family since shortly before the opening of the world war. Efforts to locate him in Canada had failed. Then last fall when Otto Erenhous took the name of Erhardt for convenience and came to the United States to direct the staging of Chicago's civic opera, effort to locate Leo was renewed.

Find Name in News Report.

A sister, Mary, an English newspaper correspondent in Germany, came one day upon mention of her brother's name in a report of Canadian mining activities. She enlisted the aid of the Canadian mounted police, who located him.

"My sister," said Leo, continuing the story, "sent Otto word that I could be found at Haileybury, Ontario. . . ."

"And I wrote to him right away," broke in Dr. Erhardt. "That was in November. Then one night in December when I came back from the opera there was a long distance telephone call from Canada. It was my brother who spoke to me after 29 years. It was like a fairy tale. He called me from Canada six times after that."

"After Otto saw me off when he was 12 years old," related Leo, "I traveled to Humboldthain. Then one day I stowed away and shoved off. I did all kinds of things—stoking furnaces and vaudeville, and performing in a circus. I went around the world several times.

"In 1905 I landed in Canada. I drifted to northern Ontario and took up mining."

Recall Boyhood Days.

There was a twinkle in the eyes of Otto as he interrupted:

"I can remember when we used to play orchestra together. I conducted it, and the instruments we used were things we stole out of our mother's kitchen. Leo was the drummer. He used sticks with potatoes stuck on the ends to beat the drum.

"After Leo went away I was educated all over Europe. I learned to speak English in England. Then I went around all over Europe as a producer and director. As soon as the season is over here I will return to Europe to take up my work there again as art director of the Dresden opera. Then I shall come back to Chicago, which I like so very much, next fall."

TIME EXTENDED FOR DEPOSIT OF CAR SECURITIES

Will Not Hold Up Merger, Managers Say.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

An additional forty-four days have been given holders of surface and elevated line securities in which to deposit these securities with the protective committees, preparatory to a consolidation of all of the transportation facilities into one company. It was announced yesterday by Halsey, Stuart & Co., consolidation managers, that this will not delay the merger.

Under the plan of consolidation, put forth by this investment concern on Dec. 1, security holders were given until Jan. 15 to deposit their bonds. That time has been extended to Feb. 28.

It was asserted by Halsey, Stuart & Co. that the merger plan will be declared operative as soon as the protective committees sign their assent to the plan, which they anticipate will be before Feb. 28. Immediately thereafter it is proposed to acquire the properties of the surface and elevated lines.

Extend Deposit Agreement.

In the original agreement providing for deposit of securities with protective committees it was stipulated that the agreement, in most instances, should expire Feb. 1 next. Notice has been given first mortgage security holders of both the west and north side surface lines and of the Chicago railways of the south side that this deposit agreement has been extended without time limit, except that it may be canceled at any time when holders of more than 50 per cent of the deposited securities so decide.

These actions give the impression that those closely connected with the consolidation believe that it will yet be some time before the merger is completed. Halsey, Stuart & Co., however, announced a week ago that in the previous fortnight about $2,600,000 in securities had been deposited, and less than $3,000 withdrawn. In that announcement it was asserted that the total deposits approached 70 per cent.

$2,800,000 Deposited in Week.

Yesterday the consolidation managers said that $2,800,000 in securities had been deposited in the last week. At the time Halsey, Stuart & Co. was appointed to manage the merger, Mr. Stuart said that it was highly desirable to have 95 per cent of the securities deposited. If that continues to be aimed at, there remains much more work in the collection of securities.

An authorized statement on the progress of the merger is expected soon after Jan. 28. That is the last date on which owners may withdraw deposited bonds, and at that time the protective committees are supposed to announce formal acceptance of the merger plan. All of these committees have approved it, subject to the action of bondholders themselves.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Signs of Trouble

Wounds Ex-Secretary of Husband.

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 31—(AP)—Driving behind Miss Charicie Caudell, University of Tulsa student, 28, as she was parking her automobile on the campus, Mrs. Asbury Endacott, wife of a Tulsa architect, left her car and fired two shots from a pistol at Miss Caudell. One bullet entered the girl's right lung and the other her left side.

Miss Caudell was secretary to Endacott when he was city water commissioner. His term expired last spring.

Woman Arrested.

Police arrested Mrs. Endacott at the scene of the shooting. Officers said she told them she had attempted repeatedly "to persuade Miss Caudell to leave my husband alone."

Endacott had been living at a Tulsa hotel for several months. He visited his home almost daily, usually taking his three children to school. County authorities said the filing of charges against Mrs. Endacott would be held up pending developments in Miss Caudell's condition.

Women Quarreled Before.

Shortly before Endacott's term as water commissioner expired, Mrs. Endacott had an altercation with Miss Caudell. Entering her husband's office, Mrs. Endacott struck the young woman with a telephone after accusing her of stealing Endacott's affections.

"I'm sorry I shot her," Mrs. Endacott told reporters after she had been transferred to the county jail late today.

TWO POLICEMEN INDICTED ON RUM PLOT CHARGES

Policemen Oliver J. McCormick of the Chicago Lawn station and Peter J. Lowery of the traffic division were named in indictments returned by the federal grand jury yesterday on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. They are alleged to have demanded protection money from two Negro still keepers.

Myron Retzky, proprietor of a drug store at 656 West Madison street; Julius Levy, pharmacist, and Nathan Bannister, clerk at the store, were indicted, charged with selling poison alcohol to casuals. Policeman Ira O'Neal, colored, and his brother, Peter, were indicted on charges of sending obscene matter through the mails.

A new indictment was returned naming Albert J. [Cozy] Dolan, former baseball player, who is charged with conspiracy to violate the dry laws at the Club Huron at 16 East Huron street. Three employés of the place were also named.

Panicky Belgians Flee Fog; Fear "Poison Death"

LIEGE, Belgium, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The population of Tilleur, near Liege, today fled panic stricken to neighboring heights, when during an intense fog there prevailed an odor which they identified with that of the fog that claimed more than sixty lives early in December at Engis and neighboring towns. No deaths were reported. Representatives of the government research commission took samples of the fog. Its odor was said to be due to the proximity of a chemical plant.

U. S. AUTO DEATHS 32,500 IN YEAR; ALL TIME HIGH

Motor vehicles during 1930 caused the deaths of 32,500 persons, the greatest total on record, the national safety council announced last night from its Chicago headquarters. The figure is an estimate based on reports from thirty-three states and the District of Columbia, embracing 75 per cent of the population. Figures for Illinois were not available.

The 32,500 deaths, according to the council, represent an increase in fatalities of 4 per cent over the previous high mark of 31,215 set in 1929. In Iowa fatalities increased 48.1 per cent during the year.

Two deaths in Chicago yesterday raised the Cook county total for the year to 81. The victims:

John Fleming, 32 years old, 412 West 118th street. Killed in a fall from the running board of an auto driven by Edward Prystalski, 11027 Edgebrooke avenue, who was giving him a "lift" toward his home. The accident occurred at 115th street and Preston avenue.

William Schumaker, 39 years old, of Waukegan, died in St. Therese hospital of injuries received Sunday in an accident on the Green Bay road, near Waukegan.

GROSS TO REPAY $250,000 HIS WIFE ONCE GAVE HIM

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The three years of litigation between Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, daughter of Francis Burton Harrison, formerly governor general of the Philippines, and her husband, Christian Gross of Chicago, attaché in the American legation at Berne, Switzerland, was brought to an end today by the approval by Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Schmuck of a settlement agreement.

Under the terms Mr. Gross agreed to turn over to his wife $250,000, as he had been ordered to do by the state Supreme court some time ago and from which order he had taken an appeal. At the same time Mr. Gross agreed to drop a suit filed in Chicago to upset a Mexican divorce that his wife obtained and to drop suits filed by himself in Paris and in Vienna having to do with the custody of their young son.

In 1923, in Morocco, shortly after her son was born, Mrs. Gross settled $800,000 from her fortune upon her husband so that, it has been asserted, he would not leave her.

The settlement of the $800,000, however, did not bring an end to the marital troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Gross and in 1922 they separated.

Under the terms of the agreement, Mr. Hays said, custody of the two children is to be shared.

OPEN HEARING IN BATTLE ON LONGLEY WILL

The fight of George Adair Greene Longley, 54 years old, of Janesville and Los Angeles, to share in the $1,000,000 estate of the late Albert W. Longley, Chicago hat manufacturer, was begun yesterday before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg. The suit centers on George Longley's claim that he is the son of the manufacturer. If successful in proving this, his lawyers say he will receive one-half of the estate.

The action to break the will was instituted in September, 1929. George Longley declared himself to be the son of the manufacturer by his first wife, Mrs. Alice Adair Longley.

The will, drawn three years before Albert Longley's death on Oct. 28, 1928, described George Longley as Greene and cut him off with an income of $600 a year. Most of the estate was left to a third wife, Mary Caroline Longley.

Mrs. Longley charges that the contestant is an imposter or that he is the half brother of Longley's first wife.

Depositions were introduced yesterday from thirty witnesses in California offering conflicting theories of George's paternity. Among the depositions are several that set out that Longley married Miss Alice Adair in June, 1878, at Woodstock, Ill. A child had been born to them 18 months before, according to the evidence.

Following the death of the first Mrs. Longley, George was adjudged her son in the Probate court at Los Angeles and received part of her $100,000 estate.

H. M. YOUMANS, 80, PUBLISHER 59 YEARS, DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mr. Youmans had been weakened since an attack of apoplexy six months ago and a recent recurrence of a heart ailment. A cold contracted several days ago aggravated his condition.

Mr. Youmans retired as president of the Waukesha Daily Freeman in February of last year after a career of 59 years in the newspaper business here.

The widow—his second wife—and two sons by his first wife, Augustus and Solomon, survive. The funeral will be Friday afternoon with Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, officiating.

"Why Suffer INDIGESTION," Asked her physician

"Gas and 'sour' stomach can now be corrected without the use of burning, irritating soda, or vicious, habit-forming cathartics."

Calcium Carbonate, (2½ times as effective as soda) in tablet form, is the ideal anti-acid: sure, swift and positive in its relief, yet safe in its use. It is the only remedy which does not upset the acid equilibrium of the body and is incapable of over-dosage.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Calcium Carbonate in its best and most convenient form, blended with other valuable substances. That's why we urge their use as the only kind for children, and best for men and women.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Dixie Larrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frame-up by Owen White, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned was mortgaged except the home ranch, which Gram refused to sign. Chuck, Dix's young brother, was being sent to medical college at great expense to Dix. Dix kept from Gram and Chuck the true state of affairs.

Dix rejects the idea given him by Mort McGuire, ranch helper, of changing the brand at the cattle from White's O T ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

Chuck writes Dix a letter telling him he has bought an expensive car and asking for money.

INSTALLMENT IV.
CATTLE SHORTAGE.

Even without the oil fiasco Chuck was running the old Coffeepots to a frazzle trying to keep ahead of his spending. It wasn't that Chuck would run things into the ground deliberately, Dix was too fair to accuse him of that. When a fellow has a kid brother eight years younger than himself he's pretty apt to shoulder all the responsibility and tell the kid to run along and don't bother. Dix had done that all his life. He couldn't blame Chuck—nor Gram either, for setting her heart on making a doctor of Chuck. They didn't know it was keeping Dix hustling to pay for it. He never said anything, because he hated to make a holler. And of course it was his fault, the fix he was in now. He'd no business to plunge into that oil scheme. But he had done it to get money enough to see Chuck through. Four years of college and now a year in Johns Hopkins had taught Dix to regard a college education as anything but a penny ante game.

While he sat there brooding over ways and means—his fingers automatically busied themselves with the pencil on a blank sheet of paper. His thoughts were absorbed in the problem of keeping Chuck in college and his own head above water at the ranch. As far as he was concerned three meals a day and a coat on his back and a good horse under him were sufficient. But Chuck and Gram and the ranch—it was going to take some tall hustling to handle that problem.

He sighed, dropped the pencil, and reached for his sack of tobacco and a cigaret paper. There would be some way. There had to be. Maybe Chuck would really land a paying job this summer, and that would help—though deep down in his mind Dix had his doubts. Chuck's vacation jobs were an old story to him; a story which began about this time each year and ended in the fall with the same hunk of money to be dug out of the Coffeepots, with Chuck explaining just how it happened that he hadn't been able to save a dime. It was always a perfectly honest and logical explanation. It would be the same way this year. He might just as well figure on digging up for tuition and board and lab fees and frat fees and clothes and this thing and that thing—Dix had a vague picture in his mind of college fees being much like the fleas on a dog; always on the jump, always making him scratch to relieve a fresh bite when he was least expecting it.

He selected a match from the pasteboard box at his elbow, drew it sharply along the underside of his chair seat, glancing down at his figures while he did so. He caught sight of the paper he had been aimlessly marking, and stared, a cold chill rippling over his whole body. While he had been sitting there thinking he had unconsciously drawn brands all over that sheet of paper. Two brands, sometimes separate, but more often blended together into one.

Dix stared unbelievingly, then snatched up the paper, crumpled it fiercely and threw it into the farthest corner of the room. Then he thought of Minny or Gram finding it there when they swept. If it was Gram she would straighten the paper to see what was on it, and she would know instantly what all those marks meant.

He went over and got the paper and carried it to the stove. He thrust it down among the coals until he saw it writhe into flame and slowly char down to a wrinkled wafer of black ash.

But he couldn't get away from the fact that again and again his fingers had drawn the O T brand and then with a few added marks had changed it to a Coffeepot. He never had dreamed it could be done until he had seen Mart do it. Yet it was simple. Damnably clever, too. Once let a brand like that heal and you'd have to skin the critter and look at the inside of the hide to see where the brand had been changed.

He stood in the doorway and stared unseeingly out across the little walled valley, bleak now, with snow flurries whipped before the wind. The storm had already blotted out the rugged hills across the coulee. Snow was drifting down inside his collar. He shivered and turned back into the room, shutting the door behind him.

Gram was standing in the kitchen, peering at him. Chuck's letter was rattling in her left hand, which had shown a touch of palsy these last few months. "Dixon, I thought maybe you'd like to read Charlie's letter. You got one, Tom says. Was it from Charlie, too? What did he say?"

"Nothing much." With his boot toe Dix pushed open the lower draught at the stove. "Chuck's bought him a car," he added laconically. "Say anything about it in your letter?"

"He says it's yellow trimmed with black. He says it's the best looking car on the campus." It was easy to see that Gram was pleased and a little excited over the news. She sat with her stringy old hands folded in her lap and watched to see that Dix did not skip any of the letter. She did not want to see any slight put upon the words Charlie had written.

His own thoughts crowded back out of the way Dix discussed the things that loomed large in Gram's mind. Charlie, of course. Dix was careful to say just the things she wanted him to say, so that when she finally left him she felt that she had a real good visit with Dixon. She didn't very often, and she got pretty lonesome sometimes. You can't visit much with a squaw, especially when she walks right off in the middle of what you're saying or just grunts and turns her back on you. Minny was a good worker, Gram was always willing to admit that, but she usually added that Minny wasn't any more company than a cat around the house.

When she was gone Dix got out his tally book and studied it over and over. So many calves last year, so many the year before; so many Coffeepot cattle lost from one cause and another, so many steers shipped last fall, so many ready for beef next shipping time. Dix knew almost within a dozen head just how many cattle were carrying the Coffeepot brand. Now he seemed to stretch the figures by going over them again and again; but no trying to stretch the figures by going over them again and again; but no figuring with a pencil would bring more beef cattle than he had to the loading chutes. They had to be on the range before he could ship them he told himself glumly as he threw the tally book into a drawer.

He reached for Chuck's letter and reread it gloomily, then pulled down the roll top of his desk and pushed back his chair. Chuck wanted some money wired to him right away. Couldn't be very pleasant to be flat broke amongst college fellows.

He buttoned himself into his sheepskin lined coat and went out and backed his old touring car out of the shed. It wasn't any snappy model. Wyoming winds had whipped the top into tatters, badger holes and rocks and ant hills in the trail had loosened the fenders until they flapped like a mule's ears; but the motor chugged faithfully under the roped hood and the rear wheels never had refused to carry Dix where he wanted to go, and he always got back again. And in his opinion that was all any car could do.

But today, as he drove with watering eyes into the wind, he was conscious of Owen Gray's big, blue roadster with the red wire wheels, purring down the main street of Graypoint, and he couldn't help thinking of that trick his fingers had played upon him a little while ago.

Dix seldom drove the 18 miles to Graypoint without seeing O T cattle grazing close to the road. They were as much a part of the scenery as the mountains that lifted themselves on three sides of Whistling Creek ranch; as the wide, barren stretch of shale and gravel next the mountain. The Coffeepots ranged this side of the ridge mostly, and the O T's farther to the westward. Up and down Cattle Creek the two brands mingled on the range, but across the Creek you saw mostly O T cattle—close to fifteen thousand O Bar mixed all bunched in one herd.

Good morning!

Pollyanna was right! There really IS always something to be glad about! Today let's give thanks for the return of Emil Jannings to our screens.

Never did Mr. Jannings intend to appear in an English speaking talker. When sound invaded Hollywood—he ran out. Back to Germany sailed the world's greatest character actor—with the possible exception of George Arliss who hasn't the range of Jannings—and there made "The Blue Angel" in German. He consented to an English version, because it could be made in Neubabelsberg which wasn't far from home and where, in familiar surroundings, he would feel less nervous attempting lines in a foreign tongue.

While the picture boasts of a fine supporting cast and is splendidly directed, it wouldn't be especially notable without the great Jannings, and, in a lesser degree, Marlene Dietrich. The film is prolix in places, and much of the dialogue is guttural and unsatisfactory. But the faults of "The Blue Angel" are not what you remember.

There's a tear behind every smile that Emil Jannings evokes. In his most grotesque moments—Pagliacci is pitiful! That near sighted, butter-fingered Professor Rath of this movie, who gropes his way into cabaret-land to round up wayward students and there falls victim to the worst he feared for his boys, has you by the throat from start till final exit.

Swayed by late blooming passion, the middle aged professor becomes the laughing stock of his schoolroom. He is asked to resign; does so, marries Lola, a favorite of the cabarets and, traveling with her show, deteriorates mentally and bodily. After years of heartache and humiliation, madness seizes him and the Herr Professor who became a clown—for the last time visits his schoolroom. . . .

Marlene Dietrich gives a canny performance as the heart wrecking heroine. She seems not so disturbing and unusual a personality in this as she was in "Morocco," but again proves her right to be called a great actress. Kurt Gerroon is adroit and convincing as a necromancer. All other types are adeptly portrayed and sets, sound, lighting and photography are to be commended.

Josef von Sternberg has, in the main, directed "The Blue Angel" with brilliancy and a keen eye for effect. That he prolonged those effects too often is a pity.

By all means see the new Jannings picture. It's no movie to miss.

TELLS COLLEGE BOYS OF NEW "SYMPATHIN"; IT STIRS UP HEARTS

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Walter B. Cannon, professor of physiology at Harvard university, tonight announced the discovery of a hitherto unknown adrenalin-like hormone.

In an address before the Yale Medical society on "The Explanation of a Mysterious Emotional Increase in the Heart Rate," the Harvard professor revealed that a chemical substance which he termed "sympathin" is given off by smooth muscle when stimulated by nerves attached to the spinal cord, over which the brain has no control, and affects the heart directly as does adrenalin.

This discovery throws further light on the action of the involuntary or sympathetic nerves, it was said, and adds to the knowledge of influences which accelerate the heart.

While Prof. Cannon did not comment on the practical value of the discovery, scientists here said it was of extreme interest, since it suggests that wherever sympathetic nerves terminate, an adrenal-like substance is liberated.

Previously it was supposed adrenalin came only from the adrenal glands, and while many other hormones affect the heart, none does it so directly or so dramatically as adrenalin and the adrenalin-like substance which Dr. Cannon has discovered.

Tell How Cash, Movies Help Mission Work

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Gain of $66,173 in missionary giving during the last year was the response to hard times by the Congregational-Christian church. This increase was revealed in the report of the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Merrill of New York. He is secretary of the newly united churches' commission on missions and spoke before that denomination's national missionary conference that closes a week's session today at the First Congregational church of Evanston.

In addition to that increase, the Rev. Dr. Lewis T. Reed of New York, general secretary of the ministerial boards, announced a gain of $6,680 in the annual Christmas fund, devoted to emergency aid for retired clergymen. That fund reached a total of $82,447 last year. The total missionary fund last year reached $2,910,973.

Successful use of movies in interesting far away natives in Christianity was described to the conference yesterday by Miss Ruth I. Seabury of Boston. She is educational secretary of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions. The movie, she said, had taken its place in evangelism, along with medical, educational, industrial, agricultural, and social work.

Miss Seabury told how a former Chicagoan, the Rev. Dr. Clifford G. Manshart, has selected his movies with care and showing Hindus and others "clean movies in which people laugh at the right sort of fun, has become very effective Christian propaganda." Miss Seabury added that the Rev. Ray Phillips, at Johannesburg, South Africa, is in charge of 20 motion picture machines. He supervises 300 shows given each month to Kaffirs, "the black boys" or contract laborers in the gold mines. The shows are attended, she said, by 125,000 workers each week.

"The (black boys,'" Miss Seabury said, "are virtual prisoners during the period of their contract. The mine owners have given permission to Mr. Phillips to show the films and to set up recreational and educational programs in their compounds, which are almost jails. Mr. Phillips has stopped riots with the pictures, and, with the movie as the basis, he has been able to develop a spirit of cooperation, mass education, and to sow seeds of religious character."

CENSOR FOR STAGE? PASTOR, MORALIST, COP, JUDGE, AUTHOR DEBATE

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Stage censorship, a perennial controversy, was given the pro and con today by 30 men and women outside the theaters. Their opinions formed a symposium published by the Theater Guild Magazine.

A wide variety of professions were represented among those whose opinions were given. The list included:

The Rev. Christian F. Reisner of the Broadway tabernacle.
H. L. Mencken of the American Mercury.
Chief City Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan.
Police Commissioner Mulrooney.
The Rev. John Haynes Holmes.

"It seems almost impossible to find a play that is absolutely clean and vast numbers are disgustingly vile," Dr. Reisner said.

"In general, I am against any sort of censorship," was Mencken's reply. "It is always stupid and usually it is also dishonest. I believe the complainants should be required to post bonds and that heavy damages should follow automatically in case of acquittal."

"The recent penchant for presenting as public entertainment," wrote Mr. Sumner, "of all the revolting details of the activities and methods of the vilest denizens of the underworld, together with what the dramatist considers appropriate blasphemy, profanity, and argot of the criminal world, is, in my opinion, quite as offensive and socially harmful as would be lewd speech and action."

Presbyterian Hospital Reports Increase in Nonpaying Patients

The largest burden of free care patients in its history was reported yesterday by the Presbyterian hospital at the annual meeting. Unpaid hospital service amounted to $183,153 in 1930 as compared with $167,774 in 1929, the report given by Albert T. Carton, president, stated. Unemployment and other aspects of the economic depression were blamed for the greater demands by those needing medical care.

"The only solution to the problems of hospital management at the present time," declared Asa S. Bacon, superintendent, "lies in greater endowments."

THE STAGE

THE engagement of Mrs. Fiske in "Ladies of the Jury" at the Blackstone theater has been extended until Feb. 7. It has been rumored that she might change her bill to "Becky Sharp" or "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," but her current vehicle is running along so neatly that it is in no apparent need of a successor.

Tracy C. Drake, who is now the impresario of the Blackstone, intends to demonstrate that shows can be found, in this period of theatrical famine, if they are hunted industriously. He has gone out and unearthed a play to follow Mrs. Fiske. This is "Torch Song," by Kenyon Nicholson, author of "The Barker," and the date of its opening is tentatively fixed for Sunday, Feb. 22.

"Torch Song" was one of the early entries on Broadway last fall. It was staged by Arthur Hopkins at his Plymouth theater; it received glowing "notices," but it didn't last long, perhaps because it was launched before the playgoing season was ripe. It deals with a "torch singer" of the cabarets and her boy friend, who is a traveling salesman; also with her conversion, after he had deserted her, to Salvation Army missionary work, and with her fall from a state of grace when the traveling salesman found her with a tambourine on a street corner. The play was greeted as authentic "American scene" stuff, and the acting of Miss Mayo Methot and Guy Kibbe in the central rôles was vigorously applauded.

George Kingsbury, who operates the Studebaker theater for Mr. Insull, has also done some pioneering and is able to announce an impending premiere. The Great Nicola, a magician and illusionist with a large troupe of entertainers, will begin the practice of the oldest theatrical art in the world at the Studebaker on Sunday night, Feb. 15.

Nicola is an American who has confined his activities to Europe and the Orient during the last ten years. In 1927, however, he appeared in vaudeville here at the Palace. He is said to rival Houdini in tricks relating to disappearances and escapes, and to be an adept in legerdemain.

"Experts who have seen Nicola," Mr. Kingsbury announces, "say without hesitation that he is the last word in his particular kind of performance."

Ralph T. Kettering, who holds the keys to the Adelphi theater for A. H. Woods, has formed a partnership with certain producing managers for activity in New York. Their first Broadway offering, called "A Lady in Pawn," will be launched Feb. 9. It is a comedy by Henry Rosendale and Mr. Kettering and will have Guy Bates Post as its star.

Luigi Pirandello, the Italian dramatist, will sail for New York within the next ten days, to see how his "As You Desire Me" looks in American adaptation. While in this country he will supervise rehearsals of his "Tonight We Improvise," which the Shuberts intend to stage. . . . Incidentally, Hubert Osborne, director of the Goodman theater, has a Pirandello manuscript, entitled "Lazarus," of which he thinks highly. C. C.

Dr. Kennedy of Princeton to Talk Here Tomorrow

Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, professor of English and chairman of the board of athletic control of Princeton university, will be the guest of Princeton alumni of the Chicago district tomorrow at a banquet at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club. He will arrive tomorrow afternoon and is to remain in the city until Sunday.

C. W. KENNEDY.

Dr. Kennedy has been a member of the faculty at Princeton since 1906 and chairman of the athletic board for the last seven years. In his own student days he was intercollegiate broad jump champion.

Women Hear Colonies Tell Woes as Wards

Filipino and Arab Air Views of France, U. S.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Peace proponents, attending their sixth conference on the cause and cure of war, today discovered that it is sometimes easier to get hostile nations to agree than to make a mother country and her colonies bill and coo.

The delegates, 600 women from eleven national organizations, heard a Frenchman assure them, in soothing syllables, that all was well with French possessions; but later they heard a Syrian list his grievances under the present French mandate. They listened to a former secretary of commerce paint the tranquil beauties of economic interdependence between the United States and her possessions; then they listened to an insistent young Filipino who wanted to know what Uncle Sam meant by trying to levy a tax on Philippine imports, and what he meant by planning to exclude the Filipino.

And so on, with several others in the family disputes.

The day's program was on world empires, with the morning given over to the bosses of the empires and the evening session concerned with those who get bossed.

In the morning Prof. Othon Guerlac, exchange professor at Cornell university, declared that "France has done a great deal for her colonies," and told of roads, schools, and hospitals that she gave the colonists.

But in the evening Ameen Rihani, a writer and lecturer on Arabian questions, began his speech with the words, "France has contributed to her own difficulties in Syria by antagonizing the forces of nationalism and allying herself with the forces of reaction.

"The religious divisions and the political rivalries in the country have been assiduously fostered by her mandatory officials during the last ten years. The policy of the Turks has, in this sense, been faithfully pursued."

Referring to the six high commissions which France has sent to Syria in these last ten years, he called them "statesmen of despair."

Balancing the optimism of former Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield was the pessimism of Vicente Bunuan, Filipino publicist, who claimed that the proposed Filipino exclusion "would violate America's promise of protection of our just rights and privileges and of her professions of equal treatment when she persuaded us to come under the American flag."

"The fact that you are anxious to relieve the present unemployment situation," he said, "does not justify you in committing an act so palpably unfair. If this bill becomes a law, it would be the first time in the history of makind that a mother country forbids the entry into the homeland of the people of her colony."

Scorning the definition of Filipinos as "a people foreign to the United States for domestic purposes and domestic to the United States for foreign purposes," Mr. Bunuan challenged any one to untangle that confusion.

The only way out, he insisted, is for the United States to grant independence to the Philippines—not, he suggested, as an act of charity, but as a deed of justice.

Sees Better Relations Between Jews and Gentiles in America

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Progress is being made toward improved relationship between Jew and Christian, Milton W. Alexander, advertising expert and social worker of Detroit, said today in an address at the 32d biennial union of the American Hebrew congregation.

"On every hand in America today," he said, "we note an improvement in the existing relationship between Jew and Christian. Part of the credit must, of course, be given to the organized effort for the achievement of good will and human understanding. Part of it must go to the superb example of citizenship of such American Jews as the late Nathan Straus and Louis Marshall."

A plan to have ten instead of the present two regional rabbis attached to the union of American Hebrew congregations to help isolated Jews throughout the country and to solve their religious problems was advocated by Julius W. Freiberg, Cincinnati, chairman of the board of managers of the union's department of [illegible] and [illegible] extension.

Moist, Smooth Skin Listed as Indicator of Excellent Health

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In a list giving the characteristics by which we may learn something of the state of health we should possess, we read: "Skin that is moist and smooth."

A good many persons will be surprised to discover that they would not be listed among the healthful for want of a skin that is moist and smooth. And, indeed, they may have no other symptoms of ill health but that one, though it may be that they have not an abundance of good blood, another characteristic named; or, it may be that their nerves are not in good state.

The skin that is moist and smooth in our climate, at any rate, is a rare possession and a grand one. It precludes early wrinkling and it presents that most wanted thing of all in complexions—youth. Very young children have the quality of gloss that bespeaks the healthiest skin. But how few reach adult life still possessed of it! Each time I see a small child I wonder why that skin glory might not be longer preserved. It is so un-duplicate-able a joy.

I think it is a pity that girls of 14 and 15 are encouraged by their parents to take to powdering. They so often still have a goodly trace of the earlier glory in their complexions and it is a shame to rub that charming gloss out completely with the powder puff. In fact, I wonder, sometimes, if all women do not overdo the powdering act. Especially, in view of the fact that we have at adult life comparatively little complexion grease or oil to brag about, anyway.

It's not a question of toning down silly excrescences with most that the busy powder activity goes on. It has now become a case of raising a powder mask, delicate though it may be contrived. Perhaps we could do with a good deal less of shine removing, especially where there is no shine to remove.

Anyway, you know now that moistness is a desirable health quality.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MRS. G. B.: IT IS ALMOST impossible to wear an ill-fitting shoe without failing into faulty posture in standing and walking. Have your shoes fitted correctly. It is rather expensive, but worth the extra expenditure in the comfort guaranteed.

J. M.: SILK STOCKINGS SHOULD not be worn a second time without washing. They should be washed shortly after removal, and dried indoors away from a strong light to avoid fading of colors.

Another Job for Author, Musician, Too

BY THALIA

If somebody would only ask Dr. John Erskine when he comes to town this week-end to hurry up and write a book illuminating the mazes of modern music as he did the psychology of Helen of Troy, we could all read it and then know enough to appreciate fully the concerts the International Society for Contemporary Music is sponsoring at the Goodman on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 8, and Monday evening, Feb. 9. He could, you know, because he's president of the Juilliard Foundation, through the financial cooperation of which those concerts are made possible.

Though, of course, even if the program is as extremely novel and modern as I'm told it is, I suppose we'll all be going any way, because it'll be so fashionable. The invitations to subscribe went out this week, and the list of patrons and patronesses includes a good share of the Social Register.

To go back to Dr. Erskine—it is so that he may meet about 40 or 50 of Chicago's most representative musicians, and vice versa, that Arthur Bissell is giving a luncheon for him at the Tavern on Sunday. In the evening, the Bissells are giving a buffet supper for him at their residence at 9 East Cedar street, and on Monday, the Cliff Dwellers are having what they call an "honor luncheon" with William A. Nitze presiding.

Katrina McCormick Starts Career on Mother's Newspaper.

Well, it won't be very appropriate, but people always say to newspaper writers, "It must be such fascinating work; you meet so many interesting people," and so they'll probably say it to Katrina McCormick now that she's a newspaper woman, in spite of the fact that she's been meeting interesting people all her life. Her first column of Washington notes appeared in the Rockford Sunday Star, the paper controlled by her mother, and is the beginning of a weekly feature.

The column is to appear under her own by-line, which is newspaperese meaning that "By Katrina McCormick" will be at the top. I see by the Washington Post that Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning Jr. is giving a luncheon today for Katrina at the residence of her parents, Senator and Mrs. James Couzens, and also that she [Katrina] spent last week-end in Boston with Miss Isabelle Rowland.

On the books for next Tuesday afternoon a tea to meet Foujita at the opening of his exhibition of paintings at the Arts club [the announcement cards are in the blackest, largest type you ever saw, evidently for the purpose of emphasizing the importance of the event as compared to the usual Arts club teas—paintings by Joan Miro are also to be put on exhibition the same day, but the announcement card is the regular kind] . . . a tea to be given by the Woman's City club for Mrs. William J. Calhoun at 3:30 o'clock.

HER ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

MISS SARAH WOODRUFF PARMELE.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Sarah Woodruff Parmele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Parmele of Rockford, Ill., to Thomas B. Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. He is a member of Zeta Psi and Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

INFANT WELFARE WORK LOWERS RATE OF BABIES' DEATHS

Twenty-one years ago the Infant Welfare society of Chicago, an outgrowth of the old Chicago milk commission, began what seemed the hopeless task of reducing the infant mortality rate in the congested districts of this city.

Yesterday Philip D. Armour, president, announced at the annual luncheon in the Blackstone hotel that during 1930 the lowest mortality rate ever achieved by the society was reached, or .9 per cent among the 10,730 infants served.

Dr. Heyworth N. Sanford, medical director, told how in the last ten years the Infant Welfare society has increased its infant registration more than 2,000, or 26 per cent, and has lowered the infant death rate 40 per cent. In lowering the curve of the mortality rate, he explained, children's lives are saved each year. Nearly half of the deaths during 1930 among the children cared for by the Infant Welfare society were, he said, due to respiratory diseases, chiefly pneumonia.

"Twenty-five per cent of the deaths were caused by gastro-intestinal disturbances, which seldom happens among breast fed babies," Dr. Sanford said. "There has been much propaganda the last few years to the effect that it is not necessary for a mother to feed her baby. From a study made during the last year we have discovered that a breast fed baby has a three to one better chance to live than an artificially fed child."

The Infant Welfare society, Dr. Sanford said, cared for 5,830 pre-school children and 1,529 expectant mothers during 1930 in the 21 stations conducted by the society.

Mr. Armour was elected president, Lynn Williams first vice president, Mrs. Talbot second vice president, Erskine Wilder secretary, and Earle H. Reynolds treasurer of the board. Two new members of the board are Dr. George A. Moore and Mrs. John McIlvaine. Miss Helen Wilkins was elected president of the Woman's auxiliary.

Society at the Opera

The Rev. and Mrs. Duncan H. Browne and Mr. and Mrs. Albert De Wolf Erskine were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson. With Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster were Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hale, and Mr. and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh.

Mr. and Mrs. William V. Kelley had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Clow and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Pool, and Mrs. Walter Ayer was hostess in her box to Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Holbrook, Miss Elizabeth McCormick and Robert McCormick.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mrs. Marshal Blair, Robert Fernald, Ove Vett and Jerome Uhe were guests of Mrs. Townsend McKeever.

In the Ernest R. Graham box Mr. and Mrs. Joy Morton entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gottshalk, Miss Margaret Gray and Mrs. M. Barnett. In the Robert Thorne box Mr. and Mrs. Hermon D. Smith had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Garland and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Thorne.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum were hosts to Rear Admiral and Mrs. Walter S. Crosley from Great Lakes and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover had a box party at the concert this morning of Mrs. Lawrence Townsend at the Mayflower. There Myra Hess, pianist, and Hans Kindler, cellist, gave the program. Mrs. Hoover had with her Sarah Louise Arnold and Dr. Mary Hood, both of California; Mrs. Edward Bowman, who is associated with Mrs. Hoover in Girl Scout work; Mrs. George Akerson, wife of a former secretary to the President, and Mrs. Sara McMullin, who is staying in the White House.

The Duchess de Chaulnes, formerly Miss Theodora Shonts, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Shonts of Chicago, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Rutherford Bingham.

War Veteran "Carries On," Defies Slump

Mr. G. yesterday told Sally Joy Brown of The Tribune how he manages to look prosperous. Mr. G. has had only one full week's work in the last six months. He washes his collar and shirt very night, sponging his suit and overcoat, shining his shoes daily.

From his coat pocket emerges the tip of a snowy handkerchief—which Mr. G. also has washed. His neatly tied tie is frayed a little at the edges, but it was once a good tie. His coat is worn but well made.

Mr. G. said he had eaten "sketchily" in the last six months. Questioned as to what "sketchily" meant, he said:

"I can't ask for food. It doesn't mean that much to me. I've gone without it for three days at a time, more times than I can remember during the last six months. What I can't stand is to look like a tramp. I can smile even if I am hungry.

"I won't beg for my mere existence. I've done everything humanly possible to get a job. All I ask is work. If there isn't any work, then I'll go on until I fall over some day, but I won't become a tramp."

Mr. G. was formerly a well paid salesman. He registered at the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, which cooperates with Sally Joy Brown of The Tribune, and his apparent intelligence and uprightness appealed to one of the agency officials so that he told Sally Joy Brown of Mr. G., who served in the Canadian forces overseas.

A 50 year old man, well educated, who had spent all his adult life in "white collar" jobs, called on Miss Brown. He worked 17 years in a large Chicago bank; was a commercial bookkeeper; coupon teller, in charge of the collection department, collateral teller, in charge of the custodian's department, and in charge of the income tax department for 10 years.

While in the income tax department, serving customers, he made out the income tax of Rudolph Valentino as well as those of preminent business men in Chicago, he said.

All Miss Brown can do is to advise persons who come to her for help is to go to the Illinois Free Employment agency. All offers of jobs received from readers of The Tribune by her department are turned over to that agency.

HEIFETZ CONCERT, LAST FOR TWO YEARS HERE, GETS SMALL AUDIENCE

BY HAZEL MOORE.

The announcement that last night's recital by Jascha Heifetz at Orchestra hall was to be his last in Chicago for two years, failed to bring the expected response. A mere handful of admirers was present to applaud the artistic marvels that Heifetz wrought upon his famed Stradivarius violin.

Yet the Heifetz who played last night is a far more mature artist than the boy whose every appearance packed the hall a few short seasons ago.

To those who were present was vouchsafed a stunning performance of the Cesar Franck Sonata, for piano and violin. The second movement in particular was played with serenity of style and a poetry of feeling. Isidor Achron at the piano shared deservedly in the fervent applause which greeted the sonata.

A brilliant performance of the Mozart Concerto in A major followed. A group of shorter numbers by Debussy, "Danza de la Gitana" by Halffter-Heifetz, and the Paganini-Auer Caprice, No. 24, for added fireworks, completed the program, which both in manner and matter deserved a larger audience.

BRIDE-TO-BE

[Paul Stone-Raymor Photo.]

Lack of Taxes Threatens Long Delay on Zoo, He Says

The Chicago Zoological park at Brookfield probably will not be completed or even be in a condition to be opened to visitors for the 1933 World's Fair, unless tax collections are greatly increased in the next year. This was the statement made yesterday by Stanley Field, chairman of the building committee of Chicago Zoological society, at the organization's annual meeting and election. Only $54,000 is now available for work on the park, he said. Officers elected were: John T. McCutcheon, president; John T. Pirie, first vice president; Ezra J. Warner, second vice president to succeed John Borden; Graham Aldis, secretary, and Oscar G. Foreman, treasurer.

Widower Wants to Marry Again; Can't Find Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a widower of 33 and would like to know if I should marry again. I know two girls who would like to keep steady company, but I don't care for either of them. Being a man of average looks and means, I would like a girl of the same kind.

"She should have personality and be a conscientious worker. I would like one who would share my troubles as well as good times; one who loves a home and would make one for me, but most of all, be a real man's companion. I am tired of going places, spending money on things which aren't of any future value.—Paul."

Well, Paul, what's to prevent? You're the one to change the condition of your life. It's quite the proper thing for young widowers to marry again. A compliment to the deceased, no less. In fact, it is much easier, apparently, for a bachelor to forego marriage entirely than it is for a widower to keep out of the institution.

Once he's been in, he's a marked man. Possibly because he's a trained one, he appeals to women. Again, women seem to turn their maternal sentiments toward a man who has lost his home. And there's a noticeable business on their part to see him properly reinstated again. So, it isn't woman's fault if widowers keep on roaming.

The pattern offered of the wanted girl isn't too trying. There are plenty of her about, girls who are willing to be workers and companions, and all that. BUT even the widower has to bring something into his offering today that is going to make marriage temptin'. Girls are getting more and more like that. Marriage has got to be temptin'. It can't look like all work and no play. It can't look as if a girl should be flattered at any offer. The man, himself, has to measure up. If he hasn't a tempting income, then he has to be a rather tempting person—kind, that is, and thoughtful and all that sort of thing.

It is silly to be wasting good years running around spending money that gets you nowhere, offers nothing to show for, in return. For every man of 33, marriage is the best investment for his money.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Affirmative Indications.

Dear Miss Blake: I went out with a girl a few times and would like to know if she cares for me.

"ARNOLD."

Acceptance of your invitations seems to say she cares.

After School Pressure Too Great for Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Longer reading references on child management will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This matter of the pressure brought to bear on children of school age is a serious one. It is receiving more and more attention from doctors and psychologists and teachers and thoughtful parents. The doctor sees its effects in children who are brought to him with various physical and nervous difficulties. The psychologist sees them in the children who are out of tune at home and in school. The teacher sees the result in listlessness and inaction, or in tenseness and strain.

The mother sees its effects in loss of appetite, restless sleep, lack of energy, irritability and a dozen other ways.

During the school life of a child everybody seems to be intent on one thing—to compress feverishly as much as possible of education and culture into a few short years. We all—parents and teachers—act as though a child's education for his entire life must be accomplished during the school years. We seem to lose sight of the fact that it isn't what facts he accumulates and what ground he covers that counts most for him as a human being—but how he studies and how he thinks that counts. We too often lose sight of the fact that the tremendous process of physical growth is going on during his school life, and that a child has not the inexhaustible energy he seems to have.

The school child, who is confined most every day, needs to have change and freedom and outdoors when the school day is over. That does not mean that he must do nothing. But it does mean that neither his home work nor his cultural development should be the cause of dangerous pressure.

The letter that appeared in yesterday's article is only one of many examples of what such dangerous pressure of school and outside activities can do.

Food Talk.

Most of us, I suppose, are familiar with the use of the bamboo to make fishpoles and canes, but few of us know that the young tender shoots if cut as soon as the tips show above ground are delicious food.

Bamboo shoots are a favorite vegetable in China and Japan. The hillsides of China are covered with bamboo groves.

For decades these groves have furnished their owners an abundance of young shoots in the early spring that are as good to eat as asparagus. The rows of plants are sometimes banked up as is asparagus in order to obtain a great underground length. Shoots are occasionally found that are as much as 6 inches in diameter.

This bamboo can be grown from the Carolinas to Texas. Who knows, perhaps in a generation or two, children may wander through beautiful American groves of this wonderful plant and gather a highly prized early spring vegetable.

Americans who sojourn in the far east soon become as fond of this table delicacy as are the natives of those countries. It may be cooked and served like asparagus. It is often creamed and then used in Chinese food combinations such as chop suey and chow mein. Canned bamboo shoots are obtainable at most markets. Chinese markets are sure to have them.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This model is especially kind to the mature figure, the cross-over lines having an effect of slenderness. The surplice collar merges into the waistline sash, and the wrapped arrangement of the skirt is graceful and bound to be becoming. An interesting detail is the bow on the collar made of the contrasting color used for the collar and the waistline bow. Wool crêpe, crêpe marocain and flat crêpes are good materials for this smart daytime dress.

The pattern, 2917, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material with 1 yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Evening Accessories Show Luxurious Trend

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Smart women in Paris and on the Riviera are dressing up for evening this year. They may play sweet simplicity in their street suits and sports frocks, but after dinner they are very grand, grandes dames, indeed.

And, of course, evening accessories, those all important finishing touches, follow the general sartorial trend toward luxurious decoration.

First of all, there's the evening hat, and what a boon they are with straight or growing hair. The one at the top of our drawing is from Reboux and really it should be called a coiffure rather than a hat, for it's made of pearls with feathery white aigrettes to hide the hair in the interspaces, and Reboux gives you a huge white aigrette fan to hide your blushes in case you still have any.

The black suede mitts, launched by Perrin, are being worn in Paris with little evening muffs. Little perforated daisies punched all over them give them a lacy, open-work effect. They're pinked at the top and round the thumb and finger edges—just like grandma's.

Maggy Rouff's accordian plaited evening scarf is a new note in evening accessories. She makes it narrow to fold around the neck and it bursts into fan points at either end. In jade green mousseline it is pretty with white or black frocks.

The long, squat satchel is the last word in evening bags. Worth makes the one at the bottom of our drawing of allover gold braid with a diamond fermoir.

The retail price of a good book is about $2.00.

At that rate last year's subscribers to THE SATURDAY EVENING POST obtained a quality and quantity of book material that would cost $308.00 if purchased in that form.

The cost of a year's subscription to The Post is $2.00.

THURNBLAD AND HALL VICTORS IN BILLIARD MEET

Scoville Loses; Fans Boo Referee.

SCHEDULE FOR TODAY.
1:00 p. m.—Reisell vs. Jacobs.
3:30 p. m.—Hall vs. Scoville.
8:15 p. m.—Layton vs. Jordan.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Allen Hall and Arthur Thurnblad, Chicago's two hopes for the world's three cushion billiard championship, raced into a tie for first place in the title tournament at the Congress recreation rooms yesterday.

Each scored an impressive triumph. Hall turned back Charles Jordan of Los Angeles, 50 to 29, in 63 innings in last night's game. Thurnblad earlier had little trouble downing Dave Jacobs of St. Louis, 50 to 42, in 54 innings. In the other encounter Tiff Denton of Kansas City took a stormy battle from Frank Scoville, the Buffalo sprinkler salesman, by a county of 50 to 41 after they had played 60 innings.

Fans Boo Referee.

When Scoville fell in defeat the billiard fans of Chicago demonstrated that they can howl just as raucously at a referee as a baseball throng can roar disapproval at an umpire.

Scoville showed that a billiard player can protest a decision with just as much fire and fight as a home run hitter who is waved out at the plate in a very close and doubtful decision.

And I am sure that if Scoville had been wearing spiked shoes he would have stepped on, perhaps jumped on, the toes of Referee Herb Levis when Referee Levis called a close one against him. It was a wonder he didn't hit Levis with a cue.

It happened in the 17th inning. It was a shot which started with a direct smack into the corner. The ball hit both cushions at the same time.

Referee Levis didn't see the decision that way. He called it a "miss." Scoville thought that he had made it. He protested so strenuously, with the shouts from the crowd in his favor, that the greatest uproar which ever took place in a world's championship tournament followed.

Overruled by Chief Referee.

Charley McElligott, the chief referee of the tournament, was in the audience. Referee Levis, afraid that he had made a mistake, appealed to McElligott for assistance. With the demonstration in favor of Scoville growing in volume McElligott overruled Levis' decision and gave the point to Scoville.

At the fortieth inning Denton was leading, 38 to 26, and it seemed certain he was going to crush the former eastern amateur. But Scoville rallied, just as he has rallied in all his games, and came up so quickly that at the 58th inning he was trailing by only seven points, the score being 47 to 40.

Both missed in the 59th inning. As the 60th inning started Scoville clicked on a very difficult shot, and he was only six points behind. Then he missed by the narrowest of margins. Denton staged a final rally, scored three points and the game was over. The score:

SCOVILLE—
0 1 2 0 3 1 1 0 1 0 1 2 0 1 1
1 1 2 0 0 1 0 0 0 2 0 0 2 2 0
1 1 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 2 4 0 1
—41.

DENTON—
0 2 0 2 0 0 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 1 0
1 0 0 4 1 0 0 0 1 0 3 0 0 0 4

Thurnblad Wins Easily.

Thurnblad started his match with a cluster of three, missed on his second shot, and then made five more billiards in the third inning. His shots were brilliant. He took a lead which was never threatened and was content in the late stages to play a good safe defensive game. Jacobs got one run of four, but that was the only championship flash he showed throughout the match. The game was decided in the following manner:

0 0 0 0 0 0 2 4 2 2 1 2 0 2 0
50.

JACOBS—1 0 0 1 0 1 4 0 3 0 0 1
1 0 0 0 1 0 2 0 1 1 1 2 0 0 0
1 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 1 2 4 0 2 0 0
0 2 0 0 0 0 3 1 2 0 0—42.

Hall Off Form.

Hall, who is now an even money favorite to win the championship, wasn't in top form when he defeated Jordan. He missed many easy shots. He nuzzled and on several occasions it looked as if he were going to wrap his cue around the old brass railing which separates the playing arena from the spectators. But he took his lead in the second inning and never relinquished it. The figure story of the struggle follows:

1 0 1 1 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 1

0 1 0 2 0 0 2 0 0 1 0 0 1 0

M'FADYEN NETS WINNING GOAL IN EXTRA PERIOD

Clayton, Riley, and Burns Score.

Hockey Results

Chicago Shamrocks, 4; Duluth Hornets, 3
Kansas City, 2; Buffalo, 1.
Minneapolis, 2; St. Louis, 1.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Extra labor was forced on the Shamrocks' hockey team last night at the Stadium but the overtime effort was not without profit.

In the three regulation periods the Shamrocks battled their jinx foe, Duluth's Hornets, to a 3 to 3 tie and then went on to win in 11:07 minutes by 4 to 3.

The finishing touch was supplied by Donnie McFadyen, the former Marquette varsity notable. With only four foes on the ice the Shamrocks swarmed around the Duluth cage and McFadyen, after drawing Goalie Turner to one side with a feint, slapped the puck into the net.

Hornets Score Early.

The game opened with the Hornets catching the Shamrock defense in a somewhat confused state. The visitors hopped away with a 2 point lead but half of this was removed before the first period closed. The home troops brought on a tie in the second session and again were forced to come from behind after the Hornets had scored in the third period.

As indicated by the visitors' 2 to 1 advantage, most of the play in the first period was on the ice in front of the Shamrocks' net.

Until Davis, who appears to have a fondness for performing single handed, clicked the rubber button into the scoring pocket, Timmins, the Shamrocks' goalie, had been more or less pressed for business. He managed to thwart the Duluth attempts until at 5:46 Davis succeeded in breaking through. He accomplished this after a rink-long dash, in which his mates were no more active than the spectators. A couple of minutes later he made a similar sprint from the opposite end, but was repulsed by Timmins.

Shamrocks Stage Rally.

Next in order came the semblance of a rally by the Shamrocks. They started their attack working and reached the Duluth goalie's shin guards, but the only exciting incident of the sortie was that Longlois, the fat boy of the Hornet defense, was rudely dumped on the ice.

The Hornets made it 2 to 0 in 10:46 when Scott, capturing the puck as it bounced off the wall, passed briskly to Gibson, who poked it into the net.

Before the Shamrocks scored their first point both Forslund and Bergi of the Hornets were given vacations for minor infractions of the rules. Forslund returned just in time to see Clayton score for the Shamrocks after a pass from McFayden, in 16:50.

The second period, barring the lone goal with which the Shamrocks created a 2 to 2 score, was chiefly an exhibition of ways and means of annoying the referee. He granted seven vacations in the penalty box, Headley of the Shamrocks being twice incarcerated, once for spilling Bergi and once for warlike gestures.

The score in the twenty minutes of skating and tumbling occurred in 6:33. Burns was responsible for the goal. Standing in front of the net, he gave the missile such a tremendous whack that it shot over the form of Goalie Turner, who had hurriedly stretched himself on the ice in anticipation of a grounder.

The third period opened with the Chicagoans making a pair of dizzy assaults on the Hornets' nest. In the first minute of play Burns took command of the puck and ran it down to where he could take a long free shot. Goalie Turner deflected it.

Shamrocks Tie It Again.

A moment later Riley tried a short pass and this, too, was a dud.

The Hornets slipped over their third point in 9:35, when Timmins momentarily deserted his goal. He quit his post to take a swing at a loose puck and failed to connect. Before Timmins could recover Scott slapped the rubber piece into the net.

The Shamrocks tying score at 14:45 followed a spirited free for all in front of the Duluth goal. The puck bounced Turner three times, but on the fourth it went through.

The officials announced Brydson had scored the goal, but later discovered they had erred. They credited Riley with the feat.

Before the period ended the Hornets were reduced to four men because of penalties, but even with this advantage in man power the Shamrocks couldn't profit. Then the extra session followed. Lineup:

SPORT'S LOSS

ROBERT LE GENDRE.

Le Gendre, All-Around Athlete, Dies

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Lieut. Robert Lucien Le Gendre, one time Olympic star and one of the greatest all round athletes in the history of organized sports, died today in the Naval hospital in Brooklyn after a brief illness with pneumonia. He was 34 years old and, until his illness began last Saturday, enjoyed remarkable health. He went to bed on Sunday and died at 11:15 a. m. today.

Won Pentathlon 3 Times.

Lieut. Le Gendre was three times winner of the national intercollegiate pentathlon and breaker of the world broad jump record at Paris in 1924. He starred in basketball and football as well as in track and field events in high school in Lewiston and later in Habron academy.

His international fame as an athlete, however, was achieved during his career at Georgetown university, which he attended from 1918 to 1922.

In his last year at Georgetown, 1922, he ran on the relay team which broke the world's record for one and seven-eighths miles in the national senior A. A. U. championship at Buffalo, and went through one intercollegiate meet after another, winning five or six events in each, and winning the pentathlon for the third time.

Breaks World Record.

Lieut. Le Gendre again represented the United States in the 1924 Olympics at Colombes stadium in Paris. In the tryouts in this country Le Gendre, wearing the colors of the Newark Athletic club, won the Amateur Athletic union's national pentathlon championship.

At Paris Le Gendre concentrated on the pentathlon. Hart Hubbard had set a world record in the general competition and Le Gendre set out to beat it in the pentathlon. He succeeded with a jump of 25 feet 6 inches, this record afterward was broken, however, by Hubbard and others, and the world record is now held by Sylvio P. Cator of Haiti.

Skating a sensational race, Elizabeth Du Bois of the Majestic Skating club cracked a national record last night in the Henry Playground derby at Humboldt park. Miss Du Bois' record was set in the half mile handicap, in which she overtook Catherine Welter of the Walton Arrows, who had a handicap of 150 yards, in the stretch to win by more than 10 yards.

Miss Du Bois was clocked in 1:32 3-5, breaking the former national record of 1:34 3-5, set in 1929 by Loretta Neitzel of Detroit.

Stundl Beats Mitchell.

Ed Stundl, intermediate star of the Majestic team, also made a bid for fame by trimming his teammate, Wally Mitchell, city champion, and Cornie Ewert of the Northwest S. C., in the miss and out marathan, which went two and one-sixth miles. Studl staged a last lap sprint to win by inches. He also captured the class AA mile.

Al Kucera of the Henry A. A. raced one of the fastest miles ever skated in Chicago when he captured the class A handicap in 2:49 2-5. Kucera overtook Harry Littlefield of the Cullen A. C., who had a handicap of 150 yards, in the last half lap. Cornie Ewert of the Northwest S. C. was third.

Four on Team; Win First.

Ft. Wayne Five Bumps Bruins Again, 29-23

Every team has a jinx, and it seems that the one club the Chicago Bruins cannot beat is Fort Wayne.

Once again the Hoosiers defeated the Bruins last night at Broadway armory, 29 to 23. The defeat was the Bruins' third straight loss to Fort Wayne. Chicago had an excellent chance to whip the Hoosiers, but weakened toward the finish. Or perhaps it wasn't their weakness as much as it was the uncanny eye that Ralph Shimek showed in locating the net.

During the night Shimek, who played with Iowa at one time, rang up five baskets from all parts of the court. He also dropped in six free throws.

The Bruins finished the first half leading 16 to 13. The teams battled back and forth until the count was tied at 19 in the second period. Then the Hoosiers asserted themselves. The lineups:

4,829 SEEKERS OF SILVER SKATES ARE A LOT, BUT—

125 Tribune Meet Officials Can Handle 'Em.

The task of holding the world's largest skating meet, THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Skates Derbies, challenges any group of officials. At first glance it might seem to the uninitiated that it would be impossible to handle an entry of nearly 5,000 in two afternoons. But the men, many of whom have been officials in THE TRIBUNE Derbies since 1917, have been so uniformly efficient that no trouble is anticipated Saturday and Sunday in the fifteenth annual Derbies, although the entry list is 4,829, compared to 3,318 competitors last year.

Notwithstanding the experience and ability of the 125 men who will serve in this year's Derbies, the coöperation of the skaters is necessary. The contestants must report on time for their numbers, and then return promptly when their divisions are scheduled to race.

Name Groups for Trials.

Edward Mahlke, chief of the clerks of the course, and Harry Berz, chairman of the registration committee, yesterday went over the lists entered in the seven races. They determined the numbers which will compete in each qualifying heat. Following is the table:

Boys' midget	8	Men's senior	14
Boys' juvenile	9	Girls' junior	8
Boys' junior	10	Girls' senior	8
Boys' intermediate	12

The number of qualifying and semi-final races in each division will be determined by the number of entries reporting for numbers. As the numbers are given out the contestants will be placed in their respective races. The winners of each preliminary, of course, qualify for the next elimination.

The boys' midget, juvenile, and junior divisions will race in preliminary heats Saturday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. Their numbers will be passed out from 11 o'clock to 12:30 at the Garfield park boat house.

All other contestants must report at the same place Sunday between 10 o'clock and 12:30 for their numbers. These preliminaries, and the final races for the Silver Skates in all divisions, will start at 1 o'clock.

21 Pairs of Skates.

Twenty-one pairs of skates, three for each derby, and fourteen gold and silver medals are the prizes. In addition, three gold medals for lap prizes are offered, and the Walter H. Eckersall Memorial trophy will be presented to the team scoring the most points. Five places will count in the scoring of each derby. The points will be 50 for first place, and 40, 30, 20, and 10 points, respectively, for the remaining positions.

The Eckersall trophy is on display in the window of THE TRIBUNE'S public service office, Madison and Dearborn streets. It is a silver column, two feet high, mounted on an ebony base. On top of the column is a Winged Victory. Around the base are nine silver shields, on one of which will be inscribed each year the name of the winning team. When the trophy has been won three times by the same club or organization it becomes a permanent possession and a new trophy will be placed in competition.

HUNTER DESERTS AMATEUR TENNIS FOR PRO RANKS

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Francis T. Hunter, former doubles partner of William T. Tilden, member of the United States Davis cup team, and second ranking tennis player in the United States for the last two years, decided today to follow Tilden into the professional tennis ranks.

Hunter announced he would make his debut as a professional with Tilden in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 18. No arrangements have been made for a match for Hunter on the card, but Tilden will play Karel Kozeluh, Czecho-Slovakian professional. Hunter will not be able to accompany Tilden on his professional tour, but will play in the east whenever his other interests permit. Hunter is engaged in the publishing business in New Rochelle, N. Y.

Huggins Footprints Grow Plainer on the Sands of Time

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Time and the tragedy of his early death have rather blurred some of the realities of the career of the late Miller Huggins, the little manager of the New York Yankees, whose sudden taking off aroused the ready emotionalism of the sporting populace.

The sporting element is very sentimental, anyway, with a simple awe of the hereafter, and when a fellow goes, men who fought him and derived a genuine joy from hatred of him are likely to roll their eyes, lower their voices to a ghostly whisper, and never mention his name again but to say, "God rest his soul; he's dead and gone now."

Story of a Growing Grouch.

For instance, I know a character in the prize fighting business, ordinarily quite even tempered and more inclined to be friendly than otherwise, who has been compounding interest at usurious rates on a grudge against another character for some years. At the present time, the grudge, with the accumulated dividends, is so great that the original grouch is proportionately about the same as Henry Ford's original cash investment is to his present fortune.

"I only hope," he said recently, "that I live to see the day when I can write the word 'rat' on his gravestone."

"O, now," I objected, "you know you don't mean that."

"Well," he said, "wait till he dies. Then I'll see."

What Happened in Florida.

I felt particularly unhappy about the death of Miller Huggins because I had never got around to explaining to him that I did not really call him a mugg in print one time in a story sent from St. Petersburg, Fla., where the Yankees were training. The fact was that I had merely interpreted the attitude of some of Miller's players toward him.

The ball club was disorganized. Babe Ruth was sullen and contemptuous because, toward the close of the previous season, when the ball club was in bad condition, Huggins, for the first time, had struck back at him, suspending him from the team in a manner that was a public humiliation for the Babe. The Babe quit the ball club in St. Louis and announced that he was returning to New York to put the case up to Jake, meaning Jake Ruppert, the owner of the team.

The Babe's bearing implied that he was quite sure that when Jake heard the details he would lift the suspension, repudiate Huggins, and sustain him. When he did arrive in New York the Babe was fined $5,000, the suspension was affirmed, and, as a condition to his reinstatement, he was required to apologize to Huggins. The Babe was still young, reckless, and unmanageable then, and the next spring, though he had gone through the motions of the required amends, he still despised Huggins. For years, he had been imposing on his celebrity and his indispensability to defy Huggins, and I do not know that it was really an imposition at all, because he certainly was a much more important man in baseball than Huggins, and it might be argued very plausibly that he was only asserting his prerogatives.

Looks Soft to Bellhops.

At any rate, the ball club had finished the season down near the bottom and had begun the training season for the next year at a go-as-you-please rate. The younger and less privileged athletes took their cue as to discipline and respect for the executive authority from the Babe, and therefore it was not surprising that the team, after a couple of weeks in training, had yet to win a practice game and was in receipt of a challenge from the bellboys in the hotel.

Huggins was a bit of a town-lot trader in St. Petersburg, and as the boom was beginning to subside at the time, he probably had more urgent worries than the apparent slackness in a ball club which was potentially strong.

I believe sport writers, like the political writers in Washington, are likely to be influenced by considerations of personal friendship, and I was not intimate with either Huggins or Ruth. But it was apparent that the true story of the state of affairs in the Yankee team had not yet been told, so, in blunt, tactless language, I described it, remarking that there probably were some very good ball players on the team, but that in the haphazard practice to date there had been

STADIUM BOXERS FINISH TRAINING; SPARBOYS HAPPY

Principals in Friday's Card Ready.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's exercise boys, who in necessity had hired themselves as sparring mates to the quartet of power boxers on the Stadium program tomorrow night, collected their fees yesterday afternoon, it is presumed, with a secret gratification that their ordeal by punching is past. The demand in recent days for willing featherweights and lightweights to tune up the visiting firemen well nigh exceeded the supply, and those who offered themselves at a few dollars for this purpose, now may nurse their bruised ribs and roughened features solaced by a pride of accomplishment.

Chris Battalino, the world's best featherweight; Jack Berg, the ruler of the junior welters; Eddie Shea and Goldie Hess, their opponents, respectively, apparently have been holding a tournament in their training quarters, with couriers hastening up and down Wells street from the Loop gym to the Arcade bearing tales of prowess. Each story of an opponent knocked down was countered with similar propaganda.

Bat Bats 'Em Down.

Roy Peters, an earnest featherweight, and Mickey Joy, who scales 133 pounds, boxed four rounds yesterday with Battalino. Dispatches from the Chicago Loop gym cited Battalino as knocking down Joy and praised the champion for aggressiveness. Goldie Hess, the rugged, tough Californian, who finished his drills for his ten round combat with Jack Berg, practiced with Quina Lee, Paul Dazzo, and Bobbie Stewart for a total of seven rounds.

At the Arcade Shea boxed six periods. Prince Saunders, a wiry Negro welterweight, offered himself for four rounds, while Benny Duke completed the workout. Shea's handlers are reported worried that Eddie has come along too fast and may be a bit stale tomorrow night. Berg confined his efforts to four rounds, divided between Carl Johnson and Babe Teller.

Ernie Peters, the recalcitrant of the Plan-Winch stable, may have more fist fighting tomorrow night than he can assimilate if Arcade fans are to be believed. Ernie likes his fights, with or without nude fists, and the village police have refereed as many of his bouts as have the accredited officials of Illinois.

Johnny a Rout Boxer.

But Johnny Peters, his opponent for six rounds at the Stadium, had the customers roaring yesterday with his display against Nick Clementi. Johnny is accustomed to 15 round fights, evidence of stamina, and unless Ernie has been serious in his conformance to a self-established curfew, he may run out of breath tomorrow evening.

These ring performances are over. While it is alleged all the principals will hike a few kilometers through the snowy parks this morning, and certainly they will lather up in the afternoon with a skipping rope, or perhaps inflated bags, there will be no more socking. This is reserved for the Stadium before the payees, who will number well into five figures. The exact estimate varies in accord with the optimism of the individual and scales from 18,000 to 15,000. Translated into money, this means from $55,000 to $45,000.

The Illinois commissioners have been inordinately proud of boxing's record in Chicago, stressing in particular, the elimination of fights ending in fouls. And while that pride is praiseworthy, and justified, the unfortunate blow by Mickey McFarland which landed out of bounds on Gary Leach's anatomy the other night, will occasion longer speeches tomorrow afternoon at the commission offices. All of the fighters gather, as is customary, to weigh in and for a physical examination. Then the Illinois rule on fouls is explained.

Loser Forfeits Purse.

The commission's belief that the rule has warded off the epidemic of unfair blows which caused the New York rulers of boxing to eliminate fouls by the unique process of making all blows fair, is entitled to consideration. The fighter who loses a bout by a foul is given $25 a day for training expenses for five days. The remainder of his purse is forfeited. If the foul blow was unintentional, granting judgment can be rendered on a distinctly mental process, a 30 day suspension is added.

A second offense, at a later date, although it also is unintentional, bring a six months' vacation, while a third unintentional foul, which obviously cannot be as unintentional as it is a habit, would bar the fighter for life. If the foul is intentional the fighter probably might as well take a trip into territory which is not controlled by the N. B. A.

When the fighters on tomorrow's program listen to this rule, and realize a purse of several thousand dollars can shrink to $125 plus transportation, it is a sound conclusion that most blows will be aimed for the chest or points north.

POT POURRI.

THE Wickersham report, according to our interpretation, presents the eighteenth amendment in several respects like unto the heavyweight fight title. There is an eighteenth amendment. It was won on a foul during the period of world war stress. A majority of the committee do not believe it deserves the title of champion.

Thereafter the similarity ceases. The eighteenth amendment has had eleven years to prove its championship claims. Fouling repeatedly during that period, it has failed consistently to show title caliber. It would have been disqualified in almost any arena.

Schmeling is champion despite the edict of the New York boxing commission. While many think he does not deserve the title, perhaps, he has held the honor less than one year and soon will defend it. Upon that test will depend his tenure. If he fails he will not be carried along eleven years as a "noble experiment."

We see no violation of sporting ethics by Johnny Golden and George Von Elm in splitting first and second money of $10,000 and $3,500 respectively when playing off for the Agua Caliente open golf title. It might have been sportier to let the prize money follow the playoff. Probably in olden days that would have been done, but present sport devotees are more conservative when finances are concerned.

We all remember the time when rival world series baseball teams agreed in advance to split equally the winning and losing player pools. In fact, it took a ruling from the baseball powers to stop what threatened to become a custom.

We read that Champion Schmeling, in his tour of these United States before defense of his title, will not give boxing exhibitions in Texas. That is against the law down there. Instead he will referee five wrestling bouts. Ye gods and little fishes, what a substitute!

The road that leads to the hilltop is all grown over with grass
Only a decade of laughter, only a decade of play,
Her gay voice stilled forever and the quick feet laid away.
No smoke drifts from the chimney under the north wind's sweep—
No lamp is lighted, guiding, when evening shadows creep—
But the birch and the pine draw closer, a protecting vigil keep.
And the only thing that is left me is a stretch of lonely years.
After a decade of happiness, after a decade of tears. Nimrod.

O, But We're So Modest.

Dear Harve: I was surprised when I saw your picture in connection with presenting THE TRIBUNE trophy to Wesley Fesler. You were slightly different in appearance from what I expected. No, I wasn't exactly disappointed but just surprised.

This brings up an old desire to know the men who write sport articles which we read every day. Don't you think it would be a clever idea to run articles on the different sports reporters so that we, the public, could get better acquainted. Run a short history, picture, their schooling [if any] and sport career if they participated in sports. Gordon Wm. Fehr.

ILLINOIS SOCCER GROUP TO HOLD INDOOR TOURNEY

A capacity crowd is expected to attend the greatest indoor soccer tournament ever staged in Illinois, scheduled for next Sunday at the armory of the 124th field artillery, 52d and Cottage Grove avenue.

The tournament is under the auspices of the Illinois Soccer Football association. The gate receipts are to help defray expenses of the United States Football association's annual convention which will be held in Chicago June 18, 19 and 20 of this year.

The following eight teams, which will participate, represent the best of the national professional league, the major league and the international league: Brickies, Sparta, Jugoslavs, Swedish-Americans, Norwegian-Americans, Maccabees, Buda, and Vienna.

Blackhawks Battle Quaker Sextet Tonight

The game the two teams played in Chicago New Year's day resulted in a new Chicago hockey record for goals made in a single game. The Hawks went on a scoring rampage and dented the Quakers' net for 10 goals and 9 assists. The Phillies scored three times. Since that rout the Pennsylvanians have improved their team play to the extent of winning a game and that from the powerful Montreal Maroons, so it behooves Mas. McLaughlin's tribe not to hold the lowly ones too lightly.

The fast sailing Blackhawks are perched securely in second place in the National Hockey league standings and a win tonight would make their hold firmer and also elevate them a full game over Detroit and the New York Rangers, who are tied.

GERMAN CHAMP TRIES OUT OGDEN DUNES SKI SLIDE

Ludwig Boeck, German ski champion, had his first view yesterday of the Ogden Dunes Ski club slide, largest steel ski hill in the world, yesterday and predicted some spectacular jumping in the fourth annual tournament of the Ogden Dunes club Sunday.

Boeck was taken to the Ogden Dunes club, just east of Gary, to give him a chance to practice cross-country running. He will take part in a thirty-five mile cross-country ski run at Lake Placid next month. Boeck skied through the ravines and over the hills of the dunes country for five miles. Today he again will go to the dunes for cross-country practice. By Saturday, he was assured, the hill will be in condition for practice jumps. Tonight he will be honor guest at a dinner at the Midland club with skiers taking part in the Ogden Dunes meet.

Huggins' Star Keeps Rising in Sports Sky

no test of the team's efficiency, and concluding that the trouble was hat there was a disposition to regard the manager as a mugg.

Huggins Takes the Wheel.

Two days later, when the story bounced back to St. Petersburg in print, Miller Huggins, for the first time in his tenure as manager, took hold. He managed to convey the idea that he was the boss of the ball club and, as I remember it, the Yankees, who had not won a practice game up to that time, went out and won 22 ball games, a string extending into the regular season up home. By midseason they were so far in front that the race was no contest, and they were the champions of their league again and just killing time waiting for the world series, long before the season closed later in September.

Mark Roth, the traveling secretary of the club, stood at the gate the day the world series opened. Mr. Roth receives a share of the world series pool when the Yankees qualify and he was very happy to be in again.

"There's my pal," Mr. Roth exclaimed with a certain air as I walked into the ballyard. "There's the guy that riled the Miller and put us in the world series."

Comes Out of His Shell.

In his last two years or so Huggins finally managed to project his personality a short distance beyond the obscurity of the dugout, mainly through some of the baseball writers who had finally come to recognize him as a human being. He was by no means appealing or lovable on short acquaintance and, for some reason, either patience, timidity, or a shrewd regard for the net result on the long run, he had allowed Babe Ruth to dominate the team for years, asserting his authority almost with an air of apology at times.

But it was all even when the Miller died. The players were his friends and loyal subordinates by then and he had overcome his reticence to become a pal of theirs.

So, when they say "Old Hug; he's dead and gone now; God rest his soul," they mean it more than the sentimental sport people usually do.

SOX SHIP CLANCY DOWN THE RIVER TO JERSEY CITY

Wetwood, Radcliff Left for First Base Job.

Bud Clancy's career with the White Sox was officially closed yesterday when Business Manager Grabiner confirmed rumors by announcing the young man's release to the Jersey City club of the International league. The transfe. was closed as soon as the dealing between the majors and International became legal by the acceptance of the draft restrictions on the part of the latter circuit.

BUD CLANCY.

Clancy, although never acknowledged to be the regular first baseman, managed to hang on long enough to earn the rating of a veteran. He first was signed by the Sox a half dozen years ago, being picked up at Muskegon, Mich. Subsequently he was farmed out but recalled. He spent the last four seasons with the south siders.

The elimination of Clancy leaves the Sox with only two first base candidates, Ray Radcliff, purchased from Selma, Ala. through the Dallas club and Johnny Watwood, who, while an outfielder, did fairly well when promoted to the infield last season. There is a possibility, of course, that some kind of deal will bring a new candidate, possibly Lew Fonseca of the Indians. Fonseca can be had in exchange for Willie Kamm.

Hunting, Fishing Take Lead Over Other Pastimes

BY BOB BECKER.

The hunters and fishermen in the United States, who within the last two years have been building up their case to show that they represent a large "army" and spend enough money each year to deserve comprehensive game breeding programs to provide more fish and game, just have secured many more rounds of ammunition for their fight as a result of a survey made in fourteen southern states.

This survey, issued as a bulletin by the Southern Newspaper Publishers association over the name of Grantland Williams, secretary and manager, gives some surprising statistics on the relative number of hunters and fishermen in the fourteen southern states as compared with the baseball fans, football enthusiasts, golfers, and tennis players.

A summary of this tabulation shows that in the fourteen southern states considered there are 100 per cent more hunters and fishermen than baseball fans, 350 per cent more hunters and fishermen than football fans, 450 per cent more hunters and fishermen than golfers, and 1,000 per cent more hunters and fishermen than tennis players.

The states involved in the tabulation are: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia.

In Kentucky there are 219,792 hunters and fishermen as compared with 169,000 baseball fans, 83,000 golf players, and 25,380 tennis players. In South Carolina the tabulation shows that there are more hunters and fishermen [264,820] than football, baseball, golf, and tennis players and fans combined [254,075].

In Texas the number of hunters and fishermen total 554,453, whereas there are but 134,925 golf players in the Lone Star state and less than 184,000 football fans.

Generally speaking, this survey shows that the sports of hunting and fishing have more actual devotees than other forms of sport and recreation, and the boys who carry fishing rods and guns are entitled to constructive programs of conservation.

LOWER EARNINGS TEMPER HOPES IN STEEL TRADE

BY O. A. MATHER.

There is little likelihood that any overenthusiasm for speculation or ultrarosey hopes for a business boom will develop in the near future. Whatever satisfaction may be derived from the gradual improvement of trade and industry probably will be considerably offset by data emphasizing the severity of last year's depression.

In this vein was news from the steel industry yesterday. While the mid-week reviews bore out reports of continued but mild improvement, this news was counteracted by some disappointing estimates of what the 1930 earnings statement of the United States Steel corporation will show.

One estimate of earnings, which will be made public next Tuesday, called for about $100,000,000, which would be equivalent to about $9 a share on U. S. Steel common shares. In 1929 net earnings were $197,531,349, including special income of $9,972,351, which was equivalent to $21.18 a share.

Fourth Quarter Decline.

Net earnings for the final quarter of 1930 were placed as low as $10,000,000, or between 30 and 40 cents a share, compared with nearly $40,000,000, or $4.14 a share, in the final quarter of 1929. However, final quarter earnings always are difficult to estimate because of year-end adjustments. At all events, there is no doubt that U. S. Steel will cover its $7 annual dividend, which is a matter of satisfaction these days.

"Iron and steel demand continues to gain but at a slow pace," the Iron Age says. "Inventory replenishment has failed to bring in as much business as was expected and seasonal requirements are not only subnormal but tardy in maturing. Gradual improvement is reported in the operations of various lines of manufacture consuming iron and steel, but the upturn to date has been too small to warrant much of an expansion of their raw material supplies.

"In the construction field there has been a further piling up of prospective tonnage, much of it public work, but the placing of actual contracts is proceedingly slowly. Railroad equipment programs are being postponed. The automobile industry continues to show moderate improvement in operations. Steel ingot production for the country at large now averages about 46 per cent, compared with 44 per cent a week ago."

More Cheerful Picture.

A more cheerful picture of the general situation was drawn by the Chicago Association of Credit Men. It finds that business is definitely on the upgrade in the Chicago territory. Twenty-eight classes of business were surveyed and out of the wholesalers, manufacturers, banks, and jobbers interviewed more than 79 per cent predict improvement in sales and collections during the next six months.

Expanding sales were reported by packers, publishers, cigar and candy jobbers, music trades, stationers and office outfitters, the electrical trade, athletic goods, and coal distributors.

Industrial employment also is improving. The 514 factories in Chicago reporting to the Illinois labor department had 137,748 employés in December, an increase of 2 per cent over November. This was the first increase in the month to month comparison since November, 1929. Pay rolls, however, showed a gain of only fourtenths of 1 per cent over the previous month.

The decline in business in the United States during the last year and a half has been substantially greater than in the outside commercial world, according to the monthly publication of the Foreman-State National bank, Chicago. But this fact suggests that American business will improve more quickly and need not wait until worldwide conditions improve.

Auto Industry Is Striding Back to Normalcy—Reeves

BY HAL FOUST.

The automobile business, America's largest industry, after traveling in second speed through 1930, has left this detour and is on the road to normalcy. Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, delivered this opinion yesterday at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

ALFRED REEVES.

"The industry," he said, "has its foot poised on the accelerator awaiting the green light that will come with the Chicago automobile show on Saturday at the Coliseum.

"There is a decided interest in the new cars and their values. This has resulted in 100,000 men being returned to factories during the last two weeks. The Chicago exhibition will tell whether the automobile industry will lead in bringing about an improvement to business generally.

Strengthens Position.

"The automobile industry strengthened its position during the depression, adopting more efficient manufacturing and merchandising methods which have resulted in greater value for the buyer's dollar. The replacement demand has stored up during the lull in sales during the last year. We know the nation's 26,700,000 automobiles have been wearing out because gasoline consumption has increased."

Mr. Reeves spoke of taxes, pointing out that the excise upon motorists has been piling up until the average tax on a motor car is $33 annually. He deplored attempts in some states to divert this money from highway construction and maintenance.

"For the first time in history," he continued, "the aggregate special motor vehicle taxes exceeded a billion dollars in 1930—an amount sufficient to pay more than two-thirds of the nation's annual street and highway bill. Motorists have thus paved the way for a record year in highway construction in 1931.

"Reckless Statements."

"There have been some reckless statements about the position of the truck and bus. They have taken some traffic from the railroads. The trucks and buses are heavily taxed and under state regulations, with limits as to size, weight and speed.

"We have great sympathy with the railroads and their oppressive regulations. They are held to fixed tracks with long delays at terminals. The truck and the bus, however, supply an entirely different service—and instead of fighting their progress, we are hopeful that railroad men will adopt this new form of transportation. Railroads now own $40,000,000 worth of motor equipment.

"The railroads pay for their right of way, but have a monopoly on it. The highways are built by the public and every one is permitted to use them, including the railroads. About 80 per cent of the trucks are operated by those delivering their own commodities; 15 per cent are operated for hire; with five per cent engaged in the so-called common carrier business.

"The objection to tax raised by truck and bus interests has not been against 'regulation,' but against 'strangulation'."

FILE STOCKHOLDERS' SUIT AGAINST OFFICERS OF PENNSYLVANIA RY.

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A stockholders' suit for $111,500,000 was filed in Brooklyn federal court today against the officers and directors of the Pennsylvania Railway company and its affiliate, the Pennsylvania company, alleging their purchase of the Wabash and Lehigh Valley railroads to be illegal.

The plaintiff is Mary Van L. Guiterman of Hewlitt Bay Park, L. I., holder of 100 shares, who brings the suit on behalf of herself and all other stockholders of kind.

The action is an aftermath of the interstate commerce commission's order Dec. 2, which directed the Pennsylvania to divest itself of the stock of the Wabash and Lehigh Valley roads. The commission held the purchases to be in violation of the Clayton act.

The federal court is asked to declare the purchases unlawful under the Sherman anti-trust law and hold the Pennsylvania officers and directors responsible for loss to the stockholders.

The suit alleges $106,500,000 was paid for the stock purchased and that the Pennsylvania stockholders suffered a loss of $2,500,000 in each of the years 1927 and 1928 in excess carrying cost.

Sargent Discounts Threat to Railway Coal Hauling

BY SCRUTATOR.

It may be that some of the threats and prospective threats to the freight carrying business of our railroads are not so serious as they would seem at first glance.

We know beyond any doubt at all that motorized highway transport has cut deeply into both passenger and freight revenues of the rail carriers, and gives no hint of loosening its grip. There are in addition waterways, natural gas pipe lines and gasoline pipe lines. It has been often noted that cities on good waterways furnish profitable shipments of freight to their railroads as well. Rails paralleling the best of the water routes have made a comparatively good showing in the past.

In a published speech delivered last evening at Milwaukee, Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western, quoted figures from authoritative sources to show that it will cost about 7 per cent less to transport heat units in coal at present freight rates than by natural gas pipe lines, while the cost at point of consignment of the two kinds of heat also shows an advantage to coal.

Lower Rates, if Necessary.

"I cannot see that gas offers any large threat to the coal tonnage of the railroads," he stated. "But if it should, it is safe to say that before sacrificing such tonnage even lower rates will be made to the extent necessary to keep coal in the market."

As for gasoline pipe lines, Mr. Sargent regards them as more important competitors. He suggested that the time may come when freight rates on such commodities may be made on trainload rather than carload lots, the latter being the largest unit of rail transportation considered at present.

Transportation by trainloads, he added, would, in his opinion, always be cheaper than by any other form of transportation, especially the waterway, if accounting methods on them were as strict as on railroads. A quotation he made from Prof. William Z. Ripley exempted certain waterway channels, including the great lakes, the lower Mississippi, and the Ohio, as thriving on their own merits, but condemned other water projects that were not so "economically defensible."

Hits Motorized Competition.

This rail executive, like others, complains of the freedom of motorized transportation to make rates as it sees fit to get business, while the rail carriers are suffering from a tight regulation that prevents them from meeting competition on a price basis, and likewise interferes with them getting into the highway transportation business on a large scale themselves.

It is noteworthy that an increasing number of railroad officials are getting away from the idea that any severe regulations against the highway vehicle will act to increase the railways' business. There is apparent an increasing desire to have the railroads permitted to get after competitive business rather than to put the same iron ring around the competitor's neck. Pronouncement that trainload rates, which are economically sound, should be put in, that the rates on coal will be kept low enough to hold the tonnage and that coördination with highways is wanted, are indications that the case of the railroads is not so hopeless as alarmists might want us to believe.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 21.—The stock market rumbled along on a flat tire today. Trading all but came to a standstill at times and the final tally showed a turnover of only 1,407,535 shares.

Price movements were narrow, irregular, and generally unimportant, with the drift turning downward in the late dealings. Railroad shares made about the best group showing of the lot, registering gains of from a fraction to 4 points. The utilities did fairly well and a number of specialties ran up good gains. Pivotal issues were off from a fraction to about 2 points at the close after an early show of firmness.

U. S. Steel Reports.

Publication of reports that the United States Steel corporation's fourth quarter net would be substantially less than previously estimated was blamed for their downfall. United States Steel common sold off 1⅝ points. American Can dipped nearly a point and Westinghouse about 2 points. Smaller losses were registered by Radio, New York Central, Public Service of New Jersey, and some others.

Chemical shares, which did so well in Tuesday's trading, had to come off their high horse today. Allied Chemical gave up 2½ points of ground with the leader.

National Distillers.

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING MOVES IN DULL ROUTINE

Great Lakes Dredge Will Pay Extra Dividend.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

With public participation at low ebb, trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday was made up largely of the operations of the quick return professional traders. Indifferent gains were marked up for a few issues but there was a dearth of significant price changes to record on either side of the ledger.

The characteristic indifference of professional markets to routine news matters was evident throughout the trading. With the public showing no great hurry to get back in the market the professional element has been left with the task of carrying on the show. The result is reflected in the volume figures and the narrow price ranges.

Dredge Company Dividends.

Dividend action by the directors of two dredge companies proved of no importance marketwise. The authorization of an extra dividend of 25c by the Great Lakes Dock and Dredge company directors was received with indifference as far as market reaction was concerned. A 50 share lot of the company's stock changed hands at the previous closing price.

Omission of the usual quarterly stock dividend of 2½ per cent by the directors of the Fitz Simons Dredge and Dock company was likewise of no import to the speculative community. The company's stock was not traded in. The regular quarterly cash distribution of 50 cents was voted for stockholders of record Feb. 20.

Marshall Field shares dipped a fraction beneath its previous low price figure following the publication of its 1930 earnings figures. In later trading the issue retrieved its early loss and closed with a slight gain.

Wear Down Early Gains.

The best prices of the day were established during the early trading. Early gains were worn down in the later dealings so that final quotations in most cases showed only fractional spread from Tuesday's last prices.

The action of Majestic was reversed. From an early low of 2¾ the issue recovered partially, but closed with a small loss. The turn-over amounted to about 9,000 shares, while less than 2,000 shares of the parent stock, Grigsby-Grunow, changed hands.

The action of directors of Campbell, Wyant & Cannon Foundry company in declaring a quarterly dividend of 25 cents placed the stock on a $1 annual basis, as compared with $2 formerly. An erroneous report issued Tuesday said that the company had authorized the usual quarterly disbursement, which was not true.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Production of new life insurance by member companies of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, exclusive of revivals, increases, and dividend additions, for 1930, although 3.3 per cent below the total for 1929, when all previous records were surpassed, was 1.9 per cent above the total for 1928. The 1930 total of $8,517,729,000 exceeded the average for the five years 1925-1929 by 6.3 per cent.

Business in Canada for the last two months has followed a smoother course than world business, the January letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce says.

The Chicago Great Western railroad reports a better tone to business in its territory with an improvement in car loadings, according to W. G. Lerch, vice president. The company is now receiving 500 steel box cars ordered from the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation. They are being sent to Minneapolis for flour loading, which is moving in increased volume. Delivery of 300 steel coal cars recently ordered is expected around Feb. 1.

Daily average crude oil production in California for December was 673,765 barrels, compared with 603,648 barrels in November, the American Petroleum institute reported.

Retail sales of the Chevrolet Motor company increased to 13,595 cars in the first ten days in January, compared with 13,588 in the like period of December.

Alvan Macauley, president of Packard Motor Car company, said preliminary figures indicate earnings of at least $9,000,000 for 1930. The company set aside $250,000 each month last year in a contingency reserve, part of which was used, but the net balance in the reserve account at the close of 1930 will stand at $2,000,000 or better, against $893,059 at the close of 1929.

Increased operations, principally in the east, brought the home construction business of Sears, Roebuck & Co. for 1930 substantially ahead of 1929 despite a 53 per cent falling off for the year generally in this field, according to a statement yesterday by E. R. Dibbs, eastern manager of the home construction division of the company.

Yellow Truck and Coach Mfg.

Will you please tell me the future outlook and possibilities of Yellow Truck stock? Any information you can send me on the above matter will be greatly appreciated.—L. D. A.

Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company is controlled by General Motors corporation. It functions, however, not as a division of the parent company but as an independent manufacturer of commercial vehicles, including trucks, taxicabs, buses, etc.

General Motors owns all of the common and part of the class B stock. The preferred and class B are listed on the New York Stock exchange. There is no funded debt.

This company operates in a field where competition is brisk, and despite increasing sales earnings have not been satisfactory for several years.

There was an improvement in 1929 when net income of $1,177,799 was reported. This was equal to $7.85 per share earned on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100] and 10 cents per share on the class B. In 1928 net loss was $1,104,111, against net loss of $1,217,087 in 1927.

In the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1930, net sales were $35,197,329, against $38,962,583 in the corresponding period of 1929. Net profit was $1,053,430, equal, after preferred dividends, to 13 cents per share on the 2,100,000 combined class B and common shares outstanding (par $10), against net of $853,068, or 3 cents per share in the first nine months of 1929.

Preferred dividends have been omitted since April 1, 1928, and no payments have been reported on the class B stock since Jan. 1, 1927.

The preferred is speculative and the class B is more so.

Porto Rican Bonds.

It has always been my belief with respect to Porto Rican bonds that both principal and interest were guaranteed by the United States government, in other words, that they were identical in that respect with United States government bonds. Have recently been told that this is not true. Will you kindly inform me which is correct and if they are not as safe an investment as United States government bonds?—L. R. I.

Porto Rican bonds are issued and sold under the authorization of the United States government, but they are not explicitly guaranteed in the legal sense by the latter, although it is generally understood that the government of the United States in any contingency will take necessary steps to protect the purchasers of such securities.

McKENNA SAYS THRIFT SHACKLES TRADE REVIVAL

"Sock Stuffing" H

GRAIN TRADING IS DULL, WITH PRICE RANGES NARROW

Fluctuations Hold to Within 1c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders apparently came to the conclusion yesterday that until there was a decided change in general conditions they would keep close to shore. The result was that operations were materially curtailed, and prices held within a range of less than 1c per bu. the undertone being slightly firmer due to scattered buying which found offerings light toward the last.

An outstanding feature in all grains of late has been the refusal of the markets to respond to the news, unusually small receipts of corn and oats here and in other markets failing to stimulate the demand for either cash grain or futures. A local observer figured out that on the basis of the movement of corn so far this month the January arrivals locally would be around 2,500 cars, compared with a 6 year average of around 6,700 cars. Attention was also called to the average weight of hogs coming forward being 4 lbs in excess of last year and 6 lbs more than two years ago, suggesting feeding operations are heavy, and that the corn is walking to market rather than arriving in box cars.

Local Trade in Corn.

Corn futures held within a range of ¾c with trade almost entirely of a local character. The failure of the eastern and southeastern demand to improve despite the small crops harvested in the latter sections offset to a large extent the refusal of farmers to sell their cash grain at current levels. Downstate reports indicated that outside markets were outbidding Chicago around 1½c per bu at loading points. With July and September corn around 4½c premium over July wheat some operators look for a readjustment between the two grains ultimately, with corn likely to go to a discount, the same condition that prevails in the nearby futures. Closing trades were unchanged to ¼c higher with March 67¼c, May 69¼@69⅝c, and July 70⅝@70½c.

July Wheat Stronger.

Strength in the Liverpool and Winnipeg wheat markets incident to heavy rains in Argentina which may delay the movement and also cause damage to the new crop brought in scattered buying of the July future here and made the close ½c higher at 66c to 66⅛c. Old crop months finished ⅛c lower to ¼c higher, with March 89¼c and May 82⅛c. Winnipeg was up ⅛@¼c for the day, while Liverpool gained ⅞@1d, the latter advancing on short covering. Letters from abroad report increased hedging operations in the English market, as farm board control has destroyed the American markets for this kind of business. Buenos Aires advanced ⅝@⅞c.

A canvass of the wheat trade indicates that comparatively little export flour business is likely to result from "borrowing" old wheat from the Stabilization corporation. One operator expressed the belief that it would more likely result in further dissatisfaction with the farm board's activities. It was claimed during the day that mills were "borrowing" some wheat from the corporation, but there was no intimation of flour sales heard on the exchange. With prices in Canada and Argentine, as well as Liverpool, below those prevailing for the July in Chicago local observers were inclined to feel that little relief in the way of cutting down stocks of old grain would be noticeable.

YAGER TELLS OF SOVIET PLAN TO MODERNIZE MILLING INDUSTRY

Speaking before the Grain Market Analysts' club last night, Charles M. Yager, editor of Modern Miller, told of wheat mills and the milling program of Russia. He said:

"Russia, up to the time of the soviet régime, has had very few commercial flour mills and its scattered population depended upon mills of very small capacity and mostly primitive. The number of such mills in Russia was 240,000.

"Russia proposes now to modernize its entire milling industry. American milling engineers have completed two large commercial mills of 1,600 barrels capacity and another in Leningrad of 3,500 barrels capacity. They plan to build at least 1,000 commercial mills throughout the empire and modernize some of the remote small type mills so as to better provide modern efficiency to supply flour to Russia. They have decided on American equipment.

"There are no official figures now on the wheat production in Russia in 1930 and the so-called official estimates are doubtful. The Russian milling engineers who have been visiting this country for the last six months estimate that it will require a billion dollars to modernize flour milling in the U. S. S. R. The engineers estimated their requirements at 1,000 large flour mills with a combined capacity for grinding one billion 200 million bushels of wheat and rye [for cities and industrial centers] and also a minimum of 10,000 small mills with a capacity to grind one billion 800 million bushels annually for the village population which, up to the present time, has been using primitive windmills and watermills.

"Russia's consumption of food is greatly reduced because of lack of transportation and distribution. With proper distribution, cereal consumption would increase enormously so that enlargement of agricultural production will be substantially offset by enlarged Russian consumption.

"No doubt, wheat exports from Russia will be enlarged in future years, but this will be modified by the plans for distributing flour from modern mills equipped for that purpose."

Court Overrules Motions for New Merger Trial

Youngstown, O., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Motions for new trials were overruled today by Judge David G. Jenkins in the suit to restrain the merger of Bethlehem Steel corporation and Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, in which an injunction recently was granted against the merger. Previous motions had been made and overruled before Judge Jenkins signed the journal entry granting the injunction. Other motions were filed after signature of the journal entry, and it was these which were overruled today.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 30,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep.

All classes of live stock experienced rough going on yesterday's market, hogs and sheep losing much of the recent sharp gain. Slashing of prices brought fat lambs down 25@50c to the lowest point since last Thursday. Hogs slumped 10@25c after a firm start, while cattle were purchased at 50c lower levels, showing losses of $1.00@1.25 compared with a week ago.

Shipping demand for hogs yesterday was the narrowest since Dec. 17, barring Saturdays. Trading moved slowly when first sales showed strength, the largest share of offerings going at the decline later. Light and underweights suffered most on the break in the absence of eastern support, while extreme weights were off the least.

The top reached $8.35 early, but few were good enough to pass $8.15 later. The general average lowered 10c at $7.75. About 9,000 hogs remained unsold, but only 91,000 are posted at the five western markets for today, against 104,000 last Thursday.

Contracts for hogs averaging 210@260 lbs to be delivered during the first half of March sold at $8.50 on the futures market yesterday. Light weights for March and April were bid $9.10, but the lowest offer was $9.35. February mediums were offered at $8.25 and April mediums were bid $8.50. February heavy were offered at $8.00 and March heavy at $8.50.

The cattle market was extremely dull all day and many loads went over unsold on bids that salesmen considered unreasonably low in some instances. Buyers became even more independent when reports came on the market that beef was again moving slowly on the wholesale trade.

Only a "handful" of cattle sold above $12.00, the extreme top of $13.15 taking choice 1,050 lb yearlings. The bulk of sales at $8.00@10.50 compares with $8.75@11.75 the previous Wednesday. Butcher stock shared in the decline. Calves were steady.

Many Lambs at $8.75.

More lambs sold at $8.75 yesterday than at any other one price, although packers paid upward to $8.90 for some of the best selections and city butchers took a few as high as $9.00. The sharp break was the result of overloading of markets at principal points as soon as lambs reached the $9.00 line.

The seven leading western markets in three days handled 185,000 head, showing an increase of about 15 per cent compared with a week ago. Aged sheep were scarce and unchanged. Feeding and shearing lambs were in demand at $7.75@8.10.

COTTON HAS FAIR UPTURN

Cotton markets had an improved tone yesterday, the selling pressure being lighter most of the day and buying better. A slight reaction came toward the last, mainly on profit taking. Liverpool was 11@12 points net higher, with spot sales 2,000 bales.

Cotton ginning for the season to Jan. 16, as given by E. H. Miller of J. E. Bennett & Co., aggregated 13,847,820 bales, compared with the last census report of 14,176,938 bales last year and 13,838,972 bales for the same time in 1928. Ginnings for Dec. 13 to Jan. 16 were 720,153 bales, against 744,630 bales last year. The American Cotton Crop service estimates ginnings to Jan. 15 at 14,715,000 bales.

Price fluctuations moved in a moderate range and futures in Chicago closed with net gains of 4@9 points, with other markets up 3@11 points. Spots in New York advanced 25 points to 10.45c, with New Orleans up 10 points to 9.95c, Galveston 10.05c, and Houston 10c.

Rayon producers reported a steadily increasing demand from knitters and weavers. Silk was sharply higher at Yokohama but prices here did not follow. Silk goods were selling more freely to the cutting trades. Business on coatings and spring men's wear was better, although lots taken are small. Burlaps continued steady.

IMPROVED BUYING OF LARD

Lard prices averaged higher yesterday, the feature being the advance of 10 points in January on buying credited to packing interests. A little short covering was on in the deferred months, with no pressure of offerings even in the face of a decline of 10@20c in hog prices, and they closed 2½@7½c higher, the latter on July. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d higher. Export clearances of lard were 2,000,000 lbs and of bacon 477,000 lbs. Cash trade was fair. Bellies were 5c higher for July, with bids unchanged for the other futures. Prices follow:

These Bargains Enable Anyone to Write Right!

Since the dawn of civilization, men have eagerly sought ways and methods of writing that would give them maximum legibility, neatness and speed. But not until the invention of the typewriter were all these objectives attained. The popularity of the typewriter has grown amazingly in recent years, not only in the business world, but in the home as well.

To the student, typewriters are almost indispensable. Fortunately, the cost of modern typewriters, especially the portable type, is within the reach of nearly every one. Furthermore, used typewriters, such as can be found in the Tribune Want Ad Section, offer still greater opportunities to buy "good writing" cheaply.

Tribune Want Ads Help Select, Finance and Build

The home ceases to be just a place to live for a year or so. It becomes a homestead, filled with happy memories that linger for a lifetime. It is a refuge against the storms of life for all the family, a haven of comfort and security in later years.

Time Ripe for Building.

According to the best informed opinion, families which have been planning to build a home ought to do so now while conditions are so favorable. Labor is plentiful. Materials for building and furnishing homes are now priced attractively. Real estate, lots and acreage are offered at tempting terms.

How Want Ads Can Help.

The Tribune Want Ad Section is an invaluable aid to prospective home owners. From the Real Estate classification, lots or acreage property in all sections of the city and suburbs can be had in choice selection. The man who wants a 33-foot lot in Chicago will find as wide a selection as the man who wants an acre or two near a suburban town, where a large garden or chicken farm can be maintained.

Contractors' services and financial assistance are offered in the Tribune Want Ad Section. Building materials, lumber, brick, cement are offered at attractive prices. Plumbing and heating equipment, electrical wiring and fixtures also are offered in abundance. Furthermore, if you own bonds, stocks, or other property of value that may be accepted in exchange for the property you want, do not overlook the Real Estate for Exchange classification!

Aid the Unemployed.

A large percentage of Chicago's unemployed are carpenters, plumbers, brick layers, painters, electricians, lathers, and building trades laborers. In addition to this number are the employés of business whose payrolls are directly affected by a resumption of home building. It has been truly said, "Start the building of homes, and Chicago's unemployment problem will be greatly reduced."

Buy and Build Now!

With everything in their favor, families who want to build homes and expect to build them this year can turn to one sure guide to make their selection of property, find a competent contractor, order their building material, arrange for financing, and begin their building at once. This guide is the Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section!
